Kansas Girl, 12, Killed In Plunge on Cutler Trail

A 12 - year old girl Diane Machart of Oberlin, Kan., fell to her death this morning when climbing Eagle's Cliff at the back of Cutler Mountain, Seven Falls, the sheriff's office reported.

She was with her sister, Marie Machart, 14, at the time. Marie remained marooned for more than two hours on a narrow ledge until she was rescued by members of the Mountain Rescue Team, a group of soldiers from Ft. Carson led by Harald Sorenson, the supervisor and 1st Lt. Frederick Borneman.

Sorenson said that the two girls had climbed out to an exposed area when Diane got onto a loose rock, slipped and fell approximately 100 feet to a shelf below.

The body was discovered by Tim Reid of the Seven Falls Co. who said another man heard one of the girls scream. Reid climbed up to where Diane lay and attempted to give first aid. Under - Sheriff H. Don Smith and Sheriff's Detective Woodrow Littrell were also at the scene.

DAN HOLMES

Dan Holmes, Ex-Rancher, Dies in Sleep

A well-known Colorado Springs resident and former rancher Dan Holmes, apparently died in his sleep Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

The body of Mr. Holmes was discovered by employes of the City Utilities Department, Bud Bylund, and George Turner, at about 8:30 a.m. today after he failed to report for work with the water department.

Mr. Holmes operated the Holmes Ranches near here for many years, with his brand, the Arrow S, becoming familiar to most ranchers of the state. After suffering a heart attack several years ago, Mr. Holmes moved into the city and went to work with the water department about one year ago.

He was known to many for his work with the National Western Stock Show Train and had served as chairman of the event since its inception 10 years ago. He began work this week on making arrangements for the 10th annual train trip to the Denver rodeo for region residents.

He was chairman of the Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee from 1954 until 1962 and had served as treasurer and board member of the Pikes Peak Cattlemen's Association. For many years, he worked behind the chutes at the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo.

The body was received by Law Mortuary with arrangements to be announced.

Grand Jury Finds Law Enforcement Offices Efficient

The grand jury held its final meeting Tuesday night and returned no true bill pertaining to criminal or civic matters.

The jury found the district attorney's office, sheriff's office and various branches of county government were effectively and efficiently operated and that a "commendable and sincere job" was being done.

It was recommended that the sheriff's office, district attorney's office and police department be granted an increased budget and increased personnel as the work was becoming increasingly heavy due to the upswing in the population.

The audit committee appointed to obtain financial reports and information regarding the operation of the county treasurer's office said Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk, and her staff, handled the funds entrusted to them by citizens efficiently and economically.

"To the county commissioners and all departments of the county go the thanks of every citizen for providing economical and efficient organization," the committee stated. It found only features to justify pride instead of criticism and condemnation.

The jury held a total of 10 meetings, three of which were open to any citizens with legitimate criminal complaints. The presiding judge was William M. Calvert and the district attorney, Donald W. Higby was on hand for advice and consultation. The total cost of this year's grand jury amounted to $1,462.15.

Carson Soldier Among 12 Dead On Maneuvers

The "Swift Strike II" mass maneuvers held for two weeks in North and South Carolina resulted in the deaths of 12 servicemen, only one of which was from the 5th Division stationed here at Ft. Carson.

The lone death of a 5th Division man was not actually the result of the maneuvers. Pvt. Charles E. Nace, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Nace of Brodbecks, Pa., drowned in the Shaw AFB enlisted men's swimming pool. Shaw AFB is located just outside Sumpter, S. C.

Nace, A Co., first battalion, 61st Inf., was in the marshalling area awaiting a plane to come back to Carson. It wasn't known what caused the soldier to drown.

Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander of the Strike Command, said that the number of fatalities was small considering 70,000 men were involved.

Educator Defends Tests To Rate College Kids

NEW YORK (UPI) —"No major college or university seeking exceptionally talented students could possibly do its job so effectively without . . . nationally administered tests," Lee A. DuBridge, president of the California Institute of Technology says.

DuBridge isn't alone in opposing a report condemning some aspects of multiple testing in the schools.

Henry Chauncey, president of Educational Testing Service, said tests are valuable to identify the able student, and the student whose ability is hidden.

"The standardized test has made a significant contribution to the fuller and more rapid understanding of the individual," he said.

Glenn R. Snider, education professor at the University of Oklahoma, said the main trouble with standardized tests may be that educators "are not literate concerning the language, purposes, limitations and possible uses of tests."

'GYPSY' MAKES MONEY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Gypsy", musical starring Ethel Merman, has made a profit of $1,091,000 from its long run on Broadway and national tour.

Defying the usually narrow margin between profit and loss for traveling ventures, the show earned $378,000 during a 37-week cross-country swing.

George Rich Found Dead At Crossing

George Francis Rich, 42, of 521 Crestridge Ave., was found dead in his 1958 model compact car after the vehicle was struck and dragged 1,000 feet by a Denver and Rio Grande freight train at 4:10 a.m. today.

The train - car collision occurred at the Janitell grade crossing 1½ miles southeast of Colorado Springs.

State Patrolman Fred Henderson, who was assisted at the scene by Deputy Sheriffs Robert Newman and Lee Quein, reported that Rich was dead when removed from his car, and that the body sustained a fractured neck and a skull fracture.

Deputy County Coroner Dr. Raoul Urich pronounced Rich dead and the body was taken to the Swan Funeral Home.

Harry N. Blume, 57, Denver, engineer of the southbound freight, told authorities he saw the car parked squarely across the tracks as he rounded a curve 500 feet from the crossing.

"I immediately applied the brakes and sounded the locomotive horn but the car did not move and there were no signs of life within the vehicle Blume said. "There was no chance to stop. The train was traveling at a speed of 25-miles-per-hour," he added.

Rich, a former salesman with a local fallout shelter firm, is survived by his wife and two children.

Tough Controls On Farm Surplus In Senate Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has swiftly passed a new farm bill with a dose of the tough controls President Kennedy requested to reduce surpluses of corn and feed grains.

The measure, approved Wednesday by a 47-37 vote, now must go to a conference committee where differences between the Senate and House versions will be ironed out.

Kennedy praised the Senate measure at his news conference Wednesday, saying it "gives us an opportunity to bring some sense and reason and control into an area which has been marked by excesses and chaos in recent years."

The House in June scrapped the original administration bill with its stiff compulsory controls. In its place, the House passed a measure to continue for another year the present voluntary wheat and feed grain programs.

It is an "absolutely impossible bill," said Rep. Charles B. Hoeven, R-Iowa, and he declared:

"It is a direct and deliberate attempt to force our corn and feed grain farmers under a system of complete regimentation and control with the secretary of agriculture as czar."

The Senate wrote into the measure a provision that could sharply reduce or wipe out price supports starting with the 1964 crop of corn sorghum grains, barley and other livestock feed grains.

It would permit the secretary of agriculture to fix price supports on a sliding scale between zero and 90 per cent of parity next year, provided it would not increase government stocks of surpluses.

Another key provision — similar to one rejected earlier by the House — would establish production controls over wheat beginning with the 1964 crop if produc-

Education Report Order Draws Protest by Braden

State Rep. James A. Braden (R) of Colorado Springs protested today against a State Department of Education catalog released this week requiring more than 200 reports to be filed annually by individual schools, school districts and county superintendents of schools.

Braden said the "calendar of reports" requires every conceivable kind of report, "with the possible exception of one to estimate the yield of cockleburrs and sand-burrs in our school yards."

In a letter sent today to Byron W. Hansford, commissioner of the State Department of Education, Braden said he was "appalled" at the number of man-hours required to complete the report and the filing space needed to store the incoming reports.

"As I studied this 'calendar' I was impressed that seldom have I ever seen a document that more clearly portrayed bureaucracy in action."

Braden requested that Hansford notify him of the estimated total cost of conducting this reporting system, what use is made of the information on the forms, and "how many people could be added to the teaching force if freed

Bridegroom Killed in Reno After Kidnaping, Assault

RENO, Nev. (AP)—A young California man, married here Monday evening, died today after being shot twice in the head by a gunman who kidnaped him and his bride from their motel room early Wednesday and raped the wife.

Jack Foster, 23, of Yreka, Calif., died at 5 a.m. at Washoe Medical Clinic in Reno where he had been taken with two bullet wounds.

Mrs. Foster, also 23, of Medford, Ore., was treated for shock at Carson-Tahoe Hospital in Carson City, Nev.

Lester Morford III, 18, of Santa Rosa, Calif., is in jail charged with assault with intent to kill.

Larry Fister, Nevada highway patrolman, chased him down and captured him in the Foster car at Silver Springs, east of Reno, shortly after Mrs. Foster leaped from the vehicle in Carson City and reported the attack.

Foster's bride, Patricia, told officers a young man broke into their room and kidnaped them at gun point in their auto. They drove to Truckee, Calif., then to Lake Tahoe, then headed east.

She said the gunman shot her husband and dumped him from the car, raped her twice and drove to Carson City, where she escaped.

French Police Hunt De Gaulle Attackers

PARIS (AP) — Police today sought a band of Secret Army Organization killers whose bullets missed President Charles de Gaulle by only inches in an ambush on the outskirts of Paris.

An investigation indicated that Wednesday night's assassination attempt was the second planned this month on the 71-year-old French leader. The other failed to come off.

The police search centered on a dark-haired man, about 30, who rented one of the ambush cars from a suburban garage three days ago. The light panel truck was found booby-trapped and abandoned a few hours after the assassins fired at the motorcade taking De Gaulle to a military airport.

The garage owner, who supplied the clue, said the same dark-haired man rented the same truck for five days on Aug. 4. Police noted that period coincided with De Gaulle's trip to Paris from his country home. He gave a luncheon

Two Days Left To Register For Primary

Only two registration days remain for El Paso County voters to register for the 1962 primary election which will be held Sept. 11, according to Mrs. Harriet Beals, County Clerk.

Approximately 20,000 eligible voters have not yet registered. Mrs. Beals said voters may register from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and Monday at the County Office Building.

Following the primary election, registration will be open for the Nov. 6 general election until Oct. 22.

Mrs. Beals said if a voter is in doubt as to his registration status, he should telephone the County Election Department ME 2-5511.

Kennedy Sees Long-Term Success in Space Effort

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says the United States is pouring billions of dollars and a tremendous effort into overtaking Russia in space—"and I think by the end of the decade we will."

This was a sort of hopeful look at long-term prospects in reponse to a news conference question Wednesday about Russia's orbiting of twin cosmonauts.

It was tempered by mention an even dozen times that this country now is behind, second, or late or that the Soviets have a lead. Kennedy said: "Anybody who attempts to suggest that we are not behind misleads the American people."

Russia or Russians figured in one way or another in a wide range of conference topics.

For example:

The President said that Russia's action in abolishing its commandant's office in Berlin certainly cannot by itself affect U.S. rights based on a four-power agreement with the Soviets, Britain and France.

Getting closer to home, Kennedy put himself in the cheering section for a Senate subcommittee's investigation of profits on America's stockpiling of $8 billion in strategic materials.

The President said and repeated that extremely large profits were made by the Hanna Mining Company with very little risk to the firm, that he could understand the desire of some witnesses" to limit the investigation by charging it is an attack on former President Eisenhower, but I think the Congress ought to do its job."

Kennedy spoke of former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey as a responsible offi-

School Construction Bill Approved for Widefield

Nearly a quarter of a million dollars has been approved by U.S. Commissioner of Education Sterling M. McMurrin for construction of a new junior high school in Widefield-Security School District 3, it was announced today.

Sen. John A. Carroll in a telegram to the Gazette Telegraph said McMurrin has set aside $241,250 to help District 3 build the new school under provisions of Public Law 815.

The law provides funds for capital improvements in school districts heavily affected by enrollment of children whose parents live or work on federal property.

The money is intended as payment in lieu of taxes and is based on a complex formula which measures the growth of a school district due to "federal" enrollments. The district earlier this year received $222,600 in federal funds for construction of the new Talbot Elementary School.

The new junior high school has been in the discussion stages for some time. Construction is expected to begin during the coming school year so that the new school will be ready for occupancy by September, 1963.

American Flier Celebrates Release From Indonesia Jail

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Allan Lawrence Pope, a 33-year-old American flier, has been whisked secretly from an Indonesian prison where he was under death sentence to a "wonderful reunion" of six weeks with his wife and two sons in the United States.

Pope was reported in New York on personal business but he was not available to newsmen.

His wife, Yvonne, said Wednesday night at her parents' home in Akron her husband is in good health and "everything has turned out fine for us."

Until his secret release July 2 as part of a general political amnesty by the Indonesian government, the situation was far from rosy for the former Air Force pilot who had won the Distinguished Flying Cross for bravery in Korea.

In April 1960, an Indonesian military court found him guilty of killing 17 members of the Indonesian armed forces in bombing and strafing missions. He was accused of carrying arms and ammunition for rebel forces during an unsuccessful 1958 uprising.

Pope said at his court-martial he had flown one attack mission for the rebels in his World War II-type B26 bomber, but claimed he didn't kill anyone. He denied charges he was to blame for most of the rebel air raids on ships, ports and airfields in eastern Indonesia or that he received $10,000 a mission from the rebels.

The American flier said he joined the rebels without pay. He wanted to fight communism, Pope asserted, and was told the Communists controlled the government of President Sukarno.

Pope was sentenced to death

U.S. Judge Orders Electronics Men To Missile Work

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge, saying even seconds are important in this nuclear age, ordered striking electricians to resume work today at Redstone Arsenal's Space Research Center.

The National Labor Relations Board had a team of investigators on the scene to see if the judge's order was obeyed.

Construction work on space projects—including the C5 Saturn booster or the United States' planned moonshot—has been idled nine days by the electricians' strike.

U.S. Dist. Judge Clarence W. Allgood gave union leaders a stern lecture Wednesday, telling them to get their men back on the job. The union president, Gordon Freeman, issued a back-to-work order earlier in the day.

Jerome Cooper, lawyer for the union, said after Allgood's order:

"We've told them they are free to go to work. Now we will tell them in another way." He did not elaborate.

James Haygood, business agent for the union—Local 558 of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers—declined comment.

Allgood made permanent an earlier temporary restraining order prohibiting picketing and ordering the union to "instruct its members to return to work."

He agreed with a National Labor Relations Board attorney, Jules Serot, that telling members they were "free to return to work" was not sufficient.

A spokesman at the Marshall Space Flight Center said about 70 per cent of the construction workers were back on the job Wednesday.

But absence of electricians is holding up vital wiring necessary for construction work, he said.

Allgood said he realized the electricians "must feel that they have justifiable grounds for action.

"But suicide is never justified, and the work stoppage at Huntsville, in my humble opinion, is fast approaching that stage.

"In this terrifying age of nuclear weapons, years, months, days or hours might not spell the difference—it could be seconds.

"This nation cannot afford to be behind and today there is widespread belief that we may be in that unenviable position."

The electricians posted pickets Aug. 14 in opposition to the employment of non-union workers by Baroco Electrical Construction Co. More than 1,200 members of other building trades unions honored the picket lines. Some returned to work after Allgood's temporary order Friday night.

Ralph Edwards Produces New Series on NBC

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the semi-secrets of this busy entertainment factory, in which almost every worker has a corporation of his very own, is the fact that "Wide Country," NBC's new action series, is a Ralph Edwards production.

Edwards' shows, including the long-running "This is Your Life," are highly regarded in the industry. But after long years of Edwards' tugging at the nation's heartstrings with surprise confrontations between famous personalities and their long-lost first-grade teachers and presiding over tear-drenched family reunions, NBC apparently doesn't want to confuse the images. "Wide Country" is, all concerned fondly hope, a dramatic program, not a real-life tear jerker.

Edwards became the unlikely producer of the series about a rodeo rider as a result of a corporate marriage of convenience: he had an hour of NBC time sewed up while another show packager had an acceptable series to fill it. They got together.

Earl Holliman, a tall, blond young man who lost his native Louisiana accent somewhere between Oil City High School and the Pasadena Playhouse, gets his second star launching "Wide Country." His first was in "Hotel de Paree," a western that petered out after one season. He thinks the new assignment has a better chance—partly because it was spun off "The Rope Dancers," one of the better Fred Astaire Anthology shows last season, and because it isn't a western.

Holliman, however, will be wearing levis, cowboy boots and a 10-gallon hat.

"But I'm a rodeo rider, following the circuit," he explained. "I went out and spent some time with these fellows and they live exciting, hard lives and are really, I suppose, the last vestiges of the Old West left. They are really people living out of their time."

"Wide Country" will be more like "Route 66" than "Gunsmoke," insists Holliman, because modern rodeos are held the length and breadth of the nation. The professional riders follow them in station wagons.

In the story Holliman will compete in bronco riding, steer wrestling and other rodeo events. His bitterest rival this year will be one "Stoney Burke," hero of another series—on ABC—about a rodeo rider.

One of the automobile companies has got a horse—"Mr. Ed"—to help sell cars next season. . . . Bob Newhart's sharp comedy will be on view hereafter in guest appearances on the variety shows—Garry Moore has him signed for his first one. Newhart also plans to do dramatic roles.

"Bonanza" re-runs topped August Nielsen ratings, with Ed Sullivan and those vintage but funny Lucy-Desi shows not far behind. . . . NBC takes demands for better children's shows seriously—with an elaborate, hour-long educational series, "exploring," on Saturdays, starting in October.

"I've known Groucho for 35 years," said a guest on the "Tonight Show," and added: "And he's never let me finish a sentence." The same goes for the rest of this week's guests as he presides. Marx apparently is under the impression he's doing a one-man show. . . . "Price of Tomatoes," the Dick Powell Show episode that won Peter Falk his acting Emmy, will be repeated Sept. 11.

Ike to Visit JFK Ancestors In Irish Tour

By EDDY GILMORE

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower visits the county of President John F. Kennedy's forebears Thursday, a journey that kicked up an uproar.

The former standard bearer of the Republican party will be making no Kennedy pilgrimmage, however, when he visits County Wexfore.

On the contrary, he doesn't even plan to go near the birthplace of Patrick Kennedy, great-grandfather of the Democrat who succeeded Eisenhower in the White House.

The announced purpose of Eisenhower's visit is to lay a wreath on the memorial to Commodore John Barry, known locally as the father of the American Navy.

About two months ago, the Wexford City Corporation received word that Eisehower wanted to pay homage to Barry.

The corporation decided that it could not receive him. It said the day chosen was inconvenient, that the members of the town's brass band would be at work and that it would be hard to give such a distinguished visitor a proper welcome.

When this story leaked out, a community scream of protest went up.

Some citizens even suggested that the corporation was demonstrating bias for Eisenhower's successor in the White House.

The corporation met again, reversed itself, and an official invitation was sent to Eisenhower through the U.S. Embassy in Dublin.

Iron Age Says Steel Could Dip Few Points

NEW YORK (AP) — Iron Age said today that steel production could dip a few points in the next few weeks.

The trade publication explained that some mills have been producing at rates above their shipments in anticipation of a boost in demand in September.

"If this does not show up soon," the magazine added, "These mills will have to reappraise their production schedules."

The steel industry operated at about 55 per cent of estimated capacity in the latest week.

Iron Age said only a surge of new orders in the final week of the month can prevent September from being written off as a steel recovery month.

The magazine said the high level of stocks held by major steel users remains the big problem.

Tracking Bats Project for Post Officer

Tracking bats seems an unusual project for an Army officer but it's part of preventive medicine for 1st Lt. Joe B. Trimble, Littleton veterinarian, on active duty at Ft. Carson.

This Army Reserve officer traveled to a deserted school building south of Florence on orders from Capt. Ronald D. Anderson, Carson veterinary officer to investigate reports of bats.

Trimble discovered a colony asleep in a closet. Pfc. Lawrence Truman of the Carson Chemical Section immobilized some of the bats, painlessly. The veterinarian then collected them in a plastic bag using disposable gloves.

The specimens were frozen at Carson for shipment to Fifth U.S. Army and the U. S. Public Health Service.

These bats will be tested for evidence of rabies and other zoonotic diseases transmitted from animals to humans. Such research is part of Army preventive medicine.

Carson's veterinary officer explained that bat-collecting is part of a continuing program of trapping and testing wild life at Carson and in areas where troops are likely to travel.

Purpose of this program is to prevent the outbreak of rabies or other diseases carried by animals and insects. There are at least 118 known diseases of this type.

New Beauty Shop Opened by Mabel Bailey

Mrs. Mabel Bailey, who has had 10 years experience as a beautician, has opened her own business, the Modern Beauty Shop at 2446 E. Gunnison.

She was formerly employed at the Doll House Salon of Beauty and Claudia's. Working with Mrs. Bailey is Mrs. Pernie Johnson, who was also with the Doll House.

Mrs. Bailey has had advanced training in tinting and coloring and also in hair styling.

The shop, decorated in a contemporary style, is furnished with the latest equipment including air-conditioned dryers.

The room has cherry wood paneling on one wall with the remaining walls painted light blue. The equipment is gray, black and white, and the vinyl tile flooring is a light tan with gold and silver flecks.

STRAIGHT TALK URGED

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP)—It is urgent that religious leaders today make sense if they hope to claim the respect and loyalty of informed people, Dr. Harvey H. Potthoff, of Methodism's Iliff School of Theology, told a meeting here.

"There is in the church a lot of superficial, pious, gooey talk that does not vitally involve us in the real issues of life," he said.

By PAUL HEALY

WASHINGTON — How do you run against glamor? If you are the Republican Party, how do you compete with a First Family which acts out the vicarious dreams of many Americans by actually living "la dolce vita"?

Take this last weekend for example. While President Kennedy was dedicating dams against Western backdrops and then sunning himself at Peter Lawford's pool at Santa Monica, Mrs. Kennedy was strolling on the Italian beaches in Pucci pants after a late torchlight party at a Neapolitan villa.

The image that Kennedy and his attractive family have been projecting for a year and a half has reached the proportions of a "personality cult," in the opinion of Sister Mary Paul Paye, writing in the current issue of The Nation. Sister Mary Paye, who is studying for a PhD in mass communications at Syracuse University, finds the situation unhealthy.

"The trend ... is away from government by party toward government by a personalized Presidency," she writes. "Mr. Kennedy has exploited this tendency to a greater degree than any of his predecessors."

Sister Mary Paye warns that the American people may be responding to the Kennedys the way they have responded to movie stars and the way other nations have responded to their monarchs.

"Adulation of a monarch or a star may be permissible," she concludes. "Similar treatment of a President, considering the power he wields, can never be."

Well, the Republicans are far from ready to believe that the American people have "adulation" for Kennedy. But they can't argue with the fact that his popularity rating in the polls is high and that the wanderings of his handsome wife and children hog all communications outlets.

Thus are compounded normal problems of a minority party crying for public attention, with important elections coming up.

The GOP has no White House publicity - control tower nor has it come up with a mother - daughter combination on water skis.

KEATING OFFERS NEW STRATEGY

The problem has been pondered by Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-N. Y.) in an 11-page statement, calling for "a new Reupublican offensive." The statement, issued just before the all-Republican conference at Gettysburg on June 30, has been reprinted by the Republican National Committee. Since more than 25,000 frustrated Republicans from all over the country have written in requesting copies of the Keating party strategy, it is worth looking at.

Keating, having had the distinction of being dunked in Attorney General Robert Kennedy's children's pool, can speak with first - hand authority on what he and his fellow party laborers are up against.

He first acknowledges in his statement that "propaganda is a mighty weapon" in the tug-of-war for the voters' attention.

"No one realizes this more clearly — or personifies it more uniquely — than the present incumbent of the White House," he goes on. "... A normal week's crop of headlines, radio and television newscasts underscores the dominance of the personable, opulous, peripatetic and publicity-conscious First Family. Horses, dogs, children, yachts, movie colony buddies and gala society events create as much or more news copy than governmental endeavor, and in the final tally probably constitute a political 'plus.' "

WANTS A 'MICROPHONE' TO THE PEOPLE

Like most of his colleagues, Keating has no desire to ridicule the way of life of the Kennedy clan. Instead, he suggests that the GOP go all out to establish an image of its own. This is the reason he proposed the all-Republican conference to serve as a top-level party public relations and advisory body. He hopes it can become a "microphone" thru which Republicans can let the world know they have been a responsible party and have some positive ideas.

In this connection, the New York Senator counsels against "sloganeering." He writes: "Many find it insulting. The mental age of the average voter, I hold, has risen far above the oft-quoted 12 years."

But he urges his colleagues to "engage in a battle against cliches," including the one which suggests that the GOP has more rich men at its top than the Democrats.

The American people can be made to realize, Keating argues, that his party has much the better record on civil rights, government fiscal policy and keeping the peace.

To "sell" these principles Keating wants the GOP to establish a hard core of 500 highly intelligent young debaters who in turn would train other Republican spokesmen and "seek out candidate talent at all levels."

Manpower — and more money to pay for it — is the key to Keating's suggested massive offensive against the Kennedy clan. Keating would like to have much of this manpower in Congress in the form of Republican staff members on committees. He noted that while the Demorcrats have a 3-2 majority in both houses, the committee staffs have scandalous Democratic majorities of 12-1 in the Senate and 14-1 in the House.

These expert staffs dig out and supply most of the political ammunition which a minorty party so badly needs in campaigns. Democrats are well aware of this, and they are not likely to change the ratio because of organized pleas from the other side of the aisle. Committee chairmen don't embarrass easily.

Keating's ideas are a long way from being realized, but they have stirred some talk. Many Republicans in Congress would like to make the overriding issue in the coming elections "lack of leadership." They think that theme might make the public think twice about the family in the White House.

'CITIZEN HEARST' ON STAGE

NEW YORK (AP)—A biography that almost won the Pulitzer Prize is to be made into a play for Broadway's 1963-64 season.

Stage rights to "Citizen Hearst" by W. A. Swanberg, have been acquired by Robert Fryer, Lawrence Carr and John Herman, who previously sponsored "Advise and Consent."

The book about publisher William Randolph Hearst, was recommended for a Pulitzer Prize by the selecting committee, but the choice was rejected by trustees of Columbia University, administrators of the award.

Illinois High Builds on Recommended Blueprint

CHICAGO (AP) — A high school that dares to be different has broken loose from the traditional method of teaching standard subjects in 40-minute packages.

Instead, at Ridgewood High School in the Chicago suburb, Norridge, they've substituted giant-sized pieces of learning in two major categories: humanities departments of English, history and science. The conventional departments of English, history and the like are totally absent. Creators of the flexible curriculum are trying to teach the interrelationship of various areas of knowledge, not the subject per se.

Equally flexible is the class day. Students spend about 40 per cent of their time daily in large groups, numbering up to 125, for example, in a humanities enrichment lecture. Thirty per cent of the time is spent in seminars, in which 15 students plus a teacher sit around a big discussion table for, as often as not, student-led exploration into some of the ideas presented at the lecture.

Thirty per cent of the student's time is spent in study, which may be book work undertaken in individual study booths, continuation of a science project at the student's own pace or a chance to listen to taped musical compositions.

To avoid breaking into a student's individual explorations, study periods may run as long as two hours. Labs and physical education classes run for an hour, and seminars are usually 40 minutes long.

The curriculum is planned for the pupils, so each has opportunity to develop his basic skills, knowledge and appreciations to the highest possible level.

Teachers actually teach only half their time, spend the rest on their professional activities plus counseling with individual students. The administrative staff doesn't stay aloof from teaching either. Superintendent Eugene Howard says he teaches English somewhere in the school twice each week, "so I can evaluate what we're doing."

Because knowledge is not doled out in regulation-size sections, the special skills of faculty members can be used in various ways. A music teacher may move into an ancient history class to lecture on Egyptian music, playing recordings as illustration.

The building itself was designed for the dynamic curriculum it would contain. There are no study halls, no conventionally organized classrooms, no bells.

Goal of all concerned with Ridgewood's student body is to see that the student takes over more and more responsibility for his own education, rather than being passively at the receiving end of a pipeline of information.

The program at Ridgewood is the closest thing to a working model of a blueprint for high schools developed by what is now called the Committee on Staff Utilization. This Ford Foundation-financed agency of the National Association of Secondary School Principals made its recommendations after four years of experiments in some 100 schools.

Kennedy Warms For Fall Battle Against GOP

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is warming up his political guns for a series of forays in September and October against foes of his administration.

The President fired some bursts in Wednesday's news conference at assorted Republicans, at opponents of his special security-financed plan of health care for the elderly and at critics of his youngest brother, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy.

In mid-campaign form, Kennedy picked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and GOP Sens. Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits of New York as his Republican targets.

When a reporter mentioned Keating's charge that action was being delayed on the Thurgood Marshall nomination, by "ridiculous and unlawyer-like questions," Kennedy didn't resist the temptation to take a crack at Keating, Javits and Eisenhower.

The President said action on the nomination of Marshall, former official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as a U.S. circuit court judge had been delayed too long. Marshall is a Negro.

But Kennedy said he has assurances the Senate will confirm Marshall before Congress adjourns. He added:

"In regard to Sen. Keating, I think it is interesting to point out that there were seven circuit court vacancies during the previous administration which the senators from New York had something to say about . . . and Thurgood Marshall was not nominated on any of those occasions."

Kennedy also took a swipe at Eisenhower's criticism of the moonshot program. In a magazine article recently, the former president said efforts to put a man on the moon added up to little more than a stunt. Kennedy said it was "important, vital."

Kennedy also said "We are second to the Soviet Union" in development of rocket boosters needed to carry heavy loads into space. He said "We are behind and we are going to be behind for a while" and "anybody who attempts to suggest that we are not behind misleads the American people." Eisenhower had told a London news conference Aug. 15: "I do not agree that they (the Russians) have a space lead or that there is a gap. I'm a little tired of that word gap."

Kennedy sailed into Humphrey for charging that a Senate Armed Services subcommittee investigation of stockpiling was—as a reporter put it—"a stab at the back of President Eisenhower."

Except for the four years he served in Eisenhower's cabinet, Humphrey has been associated for years with the Hanna mining interests.

South Vietnam Troops Slog Thru River Battlefront

BAC LIEU, South Viet Nam (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroops slogged through the marshlands of the Mekong river Delta Wednesday in pursuit of the badly-mauled remnants of an elite Communist Viet Cong battalion.

American military sources said at least 134 guerrillas were killed in an eight-hour battle Tuesday with the government troops, backed by South Vietnamese air force fighter planes. The survivors—a Communist battalion usually totals about 300 men—scattered through the swampy countryside.

Government casualties in the battle fought in and around a Viet Cong village stronghold on the banks of a canal about 13 miles northwest of here were described as "light." Officials said only 7 were killed and 14 wounded.

The officials described the strike as the biggest government victory thus far in the week-long offensive through the guerrilla-

Officers at the Vietnamese 3rd infest.

Officers at the Vietnamese 3rd Corps tactical headquarters set up at this coastal town about 125 miles south of Saigon said the red casualties Tuesday raised to 261 the total of guerrillas killed in the operations thus far. Government troops also were reported to have captured or destroyed large quantities of ammunition, weapons and medical supplies.

POITIER IS WRITING

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Sidney Poitier is working on his first original play, "The Social Worker and the Silk Suit Gambler."

He calls it primarily "an exercise to help my program of self-discipline" upon which he started last year.

The eight-role drama concerns "young people who are constantly being asked to live by adult values that are suspect."

Soviets Send Sentries Into West Berlin

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet War Memorial sentries were sent into West Berlin in armored cars Tuesday night, but heavy rains cleared the streets of the West Berlin demonstrators who had stoned the Soviet sentries in buses in three previous nights.

Showing no arms, the three Soviet armored cars and a Soviet staff car made the trip from Checkpoint Charlie to the Soviet War Memorial two miles away and back without incident.

American military police and West Berlin motorcycle policemen tailed the Soviet convoy while it was in West Berlin.

The Soviet switch from buses to less comfortable but safer armored vehicles came a night after a Russian soldier was bloodied in a bus stoning during the most violent outburst in West Berlin since the Communists began building their wall through the divided city a year ago.

"We have no objection to the Soviets coming in this kind of vehicle as long as they don't show arms," a U.S. spokesman said.

The Soviet sentries entered West Berlin more than four hours later than usual, possibly to try to avoid a Western escort. The Soviets refused escorts for their buses Sunday and Monday when they were stoned by West Berliners.

A Western spokesman said the Russians even threatened not to move a bus into West Berlin unless assured there would be no Allied escort and no West Berlin police patrols. The spokesman said the Russians' "obvious aim has been to embarrass the Allies and the West Berliners."

The U.S. Army stationed an ambulance staffed by three American soldiers at Checkpoint Charlie with orders to go to the aid of refugees wounded on the East Berlin side of the wall if it appears the Communists will not render aid.

Allied commandants in West Berlin stressed that the ambulance team will not help East Germans flee to the West.

U.S. officials in Washington hope there will be no occasion to dispatch the ambulance through the wall, but the officials are considering undisclosed countermeasures should the Communists keep the ambulance from entering East Berlin.

The Allied commandants in Berlin also spoke of other steps to halt violence at the Communist wall but did not disclose them.

Stationing the ambulance was an obvious Allied effort to placate West Berliners angered by the shooting Friday by East German border guards of a young refugee trying to scale the Red wall. The youth fell back into East Berlin territory and East German guards left him there to bleed to death while West Berlin police and American troops looked on from the West.

The incident touched off four successive days of violent anti-Communist—and sometimes anti-American — demonstrations in West Berlin.

The riots drew stiff reproval Tuesday from the Allied commandants and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt. They declared in a joint statement that the rioting "plays into Soviet hands and must not occur."

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pressed for a meeting of the four-power commandants in Berlin in a 20-minute session with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin was noncommittal with newsmen after the meeting.

Grease spots can be removed from a painted, plastered wall easily and quickly with a spray spot remover. Just use the spray directly on the spot, then dry with a clean, soft cloth.

Florissant News

By MRS. BEN GARVER

Students from this area registered Monday and Tuesday for the coming school year at Woodland Park. An estimated 25 students in junior and senior high school will go by bus to Woodland Park school which starts Aug. 27. Two buses will run, as in the past two years, one for grade school students attending Lake George school and one bus to meet the Woodland Park bus at Lake George for the transportation of upper grade students. The Lake George school will commence, as usual, following Labor Day, on Sept. 4.

The community wishes a speedy recovery to the following who are on the sick list: to William Manuel who underwent surgery in a Colorado Springs hospital, to Zane Harper who is a patient in a Colorado Springs hospital, to Mrs. Bob Amon who is recovering from an illness, to Lawson Sumner who suffered a foot injury and to Carl Gilley, who has been ill.

Haying which has been progressing at a fast rate, may have been slowed up somewhat by heavy rains and hail which hit the region Sunday. The rain was more than welcome to forest fire fighters, however, as forests and pastures have become parched from weeks of hot dry days.

Recent Sunday visitors at the Dan Miller home assisting Mrs. Florence Caylor in moving her belongings to Ft. Lupton were in addition to Mr. Caylor, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Van Diest and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Sod and four children, Bud McCannon, all of Ft. Lupton, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil McCoy of Longmont. Mrs. Caylor, her sister, Mrs. Janet ReGier, have sold their Denver apartment and will make their future home in Ft. Lupton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farrell of Denver were houseguests at the Ben Garver home last week.

Registration day for the primaries was held last Thursday at the Lake George schoolhouse with Mrs. Ben Garver, Mrs. Wilbur Lewis and Mrs. Roy Caylor officiating. Newcomers to the area were registered. Supplies were delivered on Wednesday by Mrs. Margaret McCartney of Guffey.

Houseguests last week at the Dean Butler home were the Vernon Comfort family of Salina, Kan., and the Lina Scarboroughs of Longmont.

Officials of the State Park and Recreation Board of Denver, which is headed by Mr. O'Malley were in the 11 Mile Reservoir area, making plans to build a new ramp on the south side of the lake to accommodate boaters from the southern area. Engineers have surveyed the project and Park County will assist with the roads.

Houseguests at the Roy Caylor ranch last week were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Drost, newlyweds from Ogalalla, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Mahan and son of Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse R. Moreland have been houseguests at the Ira Moreland ranch this week.

Mrs. Glen Lovejoy and Linda spent a few days last week visiting the Douglas home in Canon City.

Bill Shelton has been a houseguest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Blake.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jeffryes and daughter and Mike Jeffryes of Carbondale were here last week helping Mrs. Alice Jeffryes move to Carbondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fallis were recent visitors at the home of her parents, the Barrs, in Littleton.

A Forest Service plane has been patrolling this area watching for forest fires which have been more numerous in Pike National Forest this year.

Mrs. Emil Warling spent a few days in Texas last week visiting Larry, who attends school at Dallas.

Mrs. Leo Davis and children of Colorado Springs were Thursday visitors with Lake George relatives.

Three Sisters Trapped In Museum Climb Out

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three sisters in their 60s overstayed their visit to Vizcaya, the Dade County Museum, and had to climb a five-foot wall to get off the grounds.

"Beautiful place, though," explained Mrs. Ralph Von Suboff, 62, of Grant, Fla., Miss Wanda Karsh, 61, of Brooklyn and Mrs. Tom Tannehill, 63, of Barberton, Ohio.

"Next time we'll go earlier."

Wing Feels Sorry For Poor Andrew

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Ash Wing, his nap interrupted, told a woman caller no Andrew lived at his home and she must have the wrong number.

"Wrong number nothing," snapped the caller, "you answered the wrong phone, that's all. Now hang up!"

Wing gladly hung up. "And I didn't feel sorry for myself," he said. "But, Andrew, poor Andrew."

Driving Under Suspension Brings $50 Fine

Hugh Edward Whiteman, 18, of 440 W. Yampa St., was fined $50 plus $4 court costs in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Wednesday for driving while under suspension. He was ticketed Tuesday at Spruce and Bijou Streets by Police Officer W. B. Sutten.

State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard gave a ticket July 29 to Willie Patricia Barela, 18, of Denver, for driving at 60 miles per hour in a 45 zone and in a 35 zone. The violation happened on U. S. Highway 85-87 and North Nevada Avenue, July 24. She was fined $25 and costs.

Careless driving Aug. 14, cost Jerry F. Mansfield 24, of 1601 W. Vermijo Ave., $15 and costs. The summons was served by State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson three quarters of a mile north of Harrow Road and County Road.

State Patrolman Robert De Felice cited Marvin D. Danlin at 5000 N. Nevada Ave., Aug. 18, and wrote him a ticket for driving the wrong way on a one - way street. Danlin, 23, of 320 N. Cascade Ave., received a $20 fine and costs.

Barbara Stouffer Baird, 27, of 222 E. San Rafael St., was given a $6 fine and costs for having no operator's license Tuesday. She was cited by Cpl. C. M. Maloney of the police department at Nevada Avenue and Uintah Street.

State Patrolman Carl Drake ticketed John Edward May, 21, of Ft. Carson, Monday, for having no valid operator's license and not complying with the inspection law. He was stopped two miles south of Colorado Springs on Colorado Highway 115 and fined $15 and costs.

Carson Sports Facilities Near Half Complete

Expansion of Ft. Carson's sports field facilities — a $100,054 project — is from 40 to 45 per cent complete, according to a Post Engineer section estimate.

Three Colorado Springs firms—American Construction, Mayfield Electric and Van Woensel Electric — are working on the widespread jobs which extend from the Reserve Forces area to the outdoor swimming pool.

They include two football fields, two all - purpose courts and two softball fields with extensive lighting.

Locations also include the field behind the Victory Theater and an area opposite the main fieldhouse and Kit Carson Field.

Suggestions Bring Cash to AFA Employes

Safety suggestions are bringing $15 checks to seven Air Force Academy employes.

Deloss G. Brittain, Paint Shop, will receive $15 for suggesting the air hose for spray guns be grounded. Pete Valdez, Insect and Rodent Control, will receive $15 for suggesting gopher traps be marked with a red cross to identify them as a safety hazard.

Other winning safety suggestors include: A. R. Hanson, Utilities Operation Branch, suggestion for fastening transformer vault steps; Robert O. Durkin, Air Conditioning Branch, installation of power outlet on power scaffold; Harold L. Anderson, Contract Maintenance, installation of grounded receptacles in signal manhole power outlets; Yanno Bresci Roads and Grounds, relocation of sprinkler heads; Edward F. Sherbak, Fire Department, installation of turn signals on 750A pumpers and 1,000 gallon water distributors.

Mrs. Bertha Erickson Dean in Fort Collins

Mrs. Bertha Marie Erickson, of Fort Collins and 2602 Meade Circle, Colorado Springs, died Friday at the Poudre Valley Memorial Hospital in Fort Collins, after an illness of five years. She had been hospitalized two months. Funeral services were held in Fort Collins at 2 p.m. Monday, with burial in Grandview Cemetery there.

Mrs. Erickson was the wife of Nels A. Erickson. She was born in Wheeler's Grove, Ia. and she and Mr. Erickson were married Nov. 3, 1920, in Gurley, Nebr. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert Elliott, of Colorado Springs; a grandson, Robert Erickson Elliott, Colorado Springs; a sister, Mrs. John Jurgens, LaSalle, Colo., and three brothers, Lewis Wingar, of Cozad, Neb.; Ed Wingar, South Prairie, Wash., and Guy Wingar, Emmett, Ida.

Tough Controls On Farm Surplus In Senate Bill

ers agree in a referendum next year.

Stiff production controls are provided, apart from acreage, but growers would receive higher supports on wheat produced for domestic uses and for export.

Except for the amendments it added, the Senate went along with the basic House bill, extending the current voluntary acreage reduction program on grains for another year.

The speedy action on the farm bill came after only two days of debate in which Republicans blistered the new provisions. Four Republicans joined 43 Democrats in voting for the bill. Nine Democrats and 28 Republicans voted against it.

CC Announces New Instructor

Colorado College today announced the appointment of Miss Audre M. Seabridge as an instructor in women's physical education.

Miss Seabridge, who will begin her new duties at the independent college of arts and sciences here in September, holds a master of arts degree from Western State College. She holds a bachelor of Science degree from the University of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Florence Price Dies; Rites Saturday

Mrs. Florence R. Price, 110 E. Columbia St., died Wednesday at her home. She was 85 and had resided in Colorado Springs since 1951. She was a member of the Christian Science church.

Mrs. Price was born Nov. 22, 1876, in North Syracuse, N. Y. She lived in Flagler and in Boulder before coming to Colorado Springs. Her husband preceded her in death. They were married in Berlin, Neb. Oct. 10, 1907.

Mrs. Price is survived by a son, Willis L. Price, Baltimore, Md. three grandsons, Jerry, Kenneth and Steven Martin, Durango, Colo., and a granddaughter, Miss Joanne Price, Baltimore.

Graveside funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Flagler cemetery. Mr. William Sellman will officiate.

Saw Taken From House Under Construction

Al Moore of the Pine Construction Co., told the sheriff's office Wednesday that someone had stolen a $90 saw from a house under construction at 18 Minden St.

Deputy Sheriff Bernad Barry said it was a Black and Decker Skill saw and had "Pine Constr. Co." engraved on the fence.

April 29, 1960. His petition for clemency was denied and all prior appeals for his release were fruitless.

The State Department disclosed news of Pope's release Wednesday night and said he has asked the amnesty and his return to the United States be kept secret. He wanted to rejoin his family and rest and relax without fanfare.

"It's been a wonderful experience being reunited with my husband for the past six weeks," Mrs. Pope said. "The boys, Stephen, 6, and Lawrence, 5, hadn't seen their father for four years. I met him when he flew back to this country and we've spent the time since at a hideaway at a friend's place."

Mrs. Pope said they probably will return to their former home in Homestead, Fla.

French Police Hunt De Gaulle's Attackers

Aug. 8 at Elysee Palace for visiting Dwight D. Eisnhower.

De Gaulle had come to the capital Wednesday for a Cabinet meeting to draft stronger measures to stem a wave of terrorism blamed on right-wing extremists from Algeria.

De Gaulle's car was hit by at least 10 bullets in a heavy crossfire as it sped along a road to the Villlacoublay airport.

One of the bullets missed him by only two inches. Others broke the rear window and pierced side windows. The president was showered with glass but unhurt.

The gunmen—believed numbering at least 10—fired about 150 bullets at the motorcade and hit some of the other cars.

No one in De Gaulle's party was hurt. A passing motorist was wounded in the hand.

Interior Minister Roger Frey said puncture-proof tires on the president's car and on the police car which followed him were a saving factor. Bullets hit the tires but the cars were able to speed on.

De Gaulle, disdainful of his own safety, always travels in an ordinary French car, but security officials said an attempt will be made now to get him to use a car with bullet-proof glass.

Kennedy Sees Long-Term Success for Space Effort

cial of the company. Humphrey has contended the inquiry is an attempt to slap at Eisenhower through himself.

Other cases are coming up, Kennedy said, and they involve large profits by a good many people.

The session with reporters got under way with news from Kennedy that the U.S. nuclear submarines Skate and Seadragon, one from the Atlantic Fleet and one from the Pacific, had met under the Arctic ice cap and had surfaced together through a hole at the North Pole. Kennedy called it "an historic rendezvous," an "exceptional technical feat," and congratulated all involved.

From there he went into a bid for Congress to hurry along approval of a farm bill, one to tighten drug laws, a constitutional amendment to outlaw poll taxes as a voting requirement in federal elections, his foreign trade bill without restrictive amendments, and a $100 million loan to the United Nations.

This was the right season to bring up political questions. And Kennedy said he will be putting in some time campaigning in late September and October. He described as useful a "nonpolitical trip"—he said it with straight face—to the West Coast last weekend and said a similar trip to such urban centers as Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia, to deal with urban problems, is under consideration.

Two questions involved Negroes. The President said he definitely feels that more than two of 97 U.S. ambassadors should be Negroes. And he said that Senate action on the nomination of Negro leader Thurgood Marshall to a federal circuit court judgeship "has been much too much delayed." He added that he has assurances the Senate will approve it before Congress adjourns.

Low Bid Submitted For Caretaker House

The Concord Corporation has submitted the apparent low bid for construction of a caretaker's house near North Catamount Dam on the North Slope of Pikes Peak.

The bid was $14,886, but contained a rock excavation clause in case it was necessary to blast for a foundation, according to Jack McCullough, city water superintendent.

Other bidders were Eugene White, $17,176; Palmer Construction, $17,497; and E. Raymond Carter, $17,633, with a rock excavation clause.

The bid calls for construction of a single - family house, including all mechanical and electrical work.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today!)

A large high pressure system located over the lower St. Lawrence River Valley early this morning is bringing clear weather with cool temperatures to the northeast part of the country.

An eastward moving low pressure area located over North Dakota - Minnesota border and associated frontal systems are producing showers and thunderstorms from Kansas and Nebraska thru Iowa and Minnesota into upper Michigan.

Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms are also present over portions of Florida, Georgia and South Carolina. Over the Northern Rockies several stations reported light rain.

Early morning temperatures were cool in New England and over the lower Great Lakes region and the central Appalachians. Readings in the 40s and 50s were most common in these areas.

Seasonally cool weather with temperatures in the 30s and 40s were also found over the northern half of the Rockies and the intermountain regions. Near normal temperature conditions prevailed elsewhere.

Denver Course To Be Toughened For Pro Golfers

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Country Club course, already tough enough for most swingers, will be given added muscles for the Denver Open Sept. 5-8

Noble Chalfant, DCC professional and head of Golf, Inc., staging the meet, said yardage will be increased about 260 yards to 6,660 and par reduced a stroke to 70.

The course on the only private country club inside the city limits offers numerous problems with its many trees and the bisecting of fairways by Cherry Creek.

Dave Hill of Denver won last year's Denver Open, held at the Meadow Hills Country Club.

Growing Season Reaches Peak For Marketers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fruits and vegetables of another generally good growing season are piled high on the market this weekend.

Housewives can take the hint. This is the time to buy for freezing or canning or for immediate low-cost meals. The same fruits and vegetables next winter will be selling at considerably higher prices.

One national food chain reports prices of many items down from last week, but singling out bargains is next to impossible. Regional price differences also confuse the picture.

The picture is clearer at the meat counter. Pork chops, duck and smoked beef tongues are featured by a large chain in the New York City area. At the fish counter, the same chain is offering best buys of scallops and shrimp.

Nationally, roasts, steaks and other beef cuts are at prices comparable to the best of the year. Some pork cuts, such as fresh loins, also are good buys.

Orange juice never has been more abundant. Stocks of orange juice recently were at 115,300,000 gallons, about 31 million gallons more than the largest previous late summer figure.

Here are some of the USDA's seasonal features.

Fruits — Apples, cantaloupes, grapes, nectarines, peaches, plums, pears, watermelons, and other melons such as honeydews and cranshaws.

Meats — Frying chickens and turkeys.

Summit House May Be Scaled To Smaller Costs

A smaller summit house than the one originally planned may be recommended to the City Council by a special advisory committee appointed recently to consider methods of financing the new building.

C. L. Heitman, adminstrative assistant to the city manager and secretary of the special board, said today that two meetings have been held so far on the proposed new building, but that no decision has been reached.

Harold Heyse, chairman of the committee, had proposed that bank financing be obtained, if possible, so that construction of the new building could be started as soon as possible.

Heitman said the committee feels the estimated $600,000 cost of the presently proposed building would be too great, but that a $300,000 building may be considered.

The city expects to have some $130,000 available in a special fund by the end of this year.

The present summit house has been considered undesirable for several years but proposed bond financing of a new house has been snagged in litigation.

Architect Contest Called For State's Newest College

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — Colorado's Planning Advisory Board wants all architects in the state to join in a contest to develop a distinctive pattern of buildings for the state's newest college-the Southern Colorado State College at Pueblo.

A $15,000 prize will go to the winner.

The board called for the competition at the conclusion of a meeting late Wednesday.

It was part of a resolution which approved a decision of the Board of Trustees of State Colleges to locate the new school at a 511-acre site north and east of Pueblo, known as the Bonforte site because John Bonforte is present owner of the property.

The resolution also approved, in general terms, plans outlined by school officials for initial development of the site. The planners, however, did not give specific approval to a request for $3,750,000 for physical development of the school next year, as requested by the board of trustees, governing body of the new college. The board also operates Colorado State College at Greeley, Adams State College at Alamosa and Western State College at Gunnison.

H. Grant Vest, former commissioner of education who was hired to work out advance planning for the new college, told the planners that Colorado has an unusual opportunity in getting a chance to plan a new college campus "from scratch."

The planning board agreed with the schools' trustees that the present campus of Pueblo Junior College will be inadequate for development into a state college.

None of the construction can start until the legislature approves money for the work. The lawmakers meet in January.

Knudsen told reporters that a request for an operating budget also will be made to the legislature as well as the money for construction.

The planners' resolution specifies that the site must be furnished at no cost to the state. Outside the meeting, Knudsen told reporters that Bonforte will donate 150 acres of the property and that a chamber of commerce committee will raise funds privately to purchase the remainder. He said the committee already holds an option to purchase the other 351 acres in the site for $800 an acre or the appraised value, whichever is less. He estimated the pland to be worth $1,000 an acre. Knudsen also said the committee has an option to purchase 200 acres adjoining the campus site for $600 an acre.

Carson Events May Keep Parents on Move

Parents with many children entered in contests at the Ft. Carson Youth Center field day Friday, will need helicopter service to reach events from the stables to the hospital.

Nine a.m. will be the signal to start a tennis tourney on the hospital courts, ping pong, pool and shuffleboard in Carson's Community Center. Track events will begin at 11 a.m. A horse show will begin at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Afternoon events beginning at 1 p.m. will include crafts exhibits, a baton twirling contest and an All-Star Little League ball game.

Refreshments will be served to children and parents who come both from Carson and military families living in the civilian communities surrounding it.

Registration will be held for the fall program.

Driver Hits Car, Uproots Tree Today

Danny Gene Trent, 20, of 326 E. Boulder St., was treated at Penrose Hospital for a scalp laceration early this morning after his car struck a parked vehicle and uprooted a tree in the 1600 block of North Cascade Avenue.

Police Officer Quintin Conrad reported that the Trent car, traveling north on Cascade Avenue, jumped the east curbing and struck the left rear of a parked car belonging to Evelyn Lorene Adams. The car then struck and uprooted a tree in the parking, Conrad said.

Conrad reported that Trent told him that he must have fallen asleep at the wheel. Trent was ticketed for careless driving and damage to city property.

Four Dog Bite Cases Reported in City

Four cases of dog bites were reported to city authorities Wednesday.

Craig William Parker, 7, of 1448 Northview Dr., was bitten on the right eye lid. The boy later received a tetanus shot at Memorial Hospital.

Michael Sheldon Boyle, 3½, of 22 Arrawanna St., was bitten on the forehead; Michael Lee White, 4, of 315½ E. Del Norte St., was bitten on the upper lip; and Jody Ellen Beckwith, 3, of 2404 N. Farragut Ave., was bitten on the cheek under the right eye.

Owners of the dogs were contacted and advised to confine the animals for a 14-day observational period with the exception of one stray which was picked up by the Humane Society, and will also be confined.

Two cases of dog bites were reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday.

The first happened at 1926 S. Institute Ave., when Vivian Kaiser, 2, of 1913 S. Prospect St., was bitten by a dog belonging to Lyle D. Townley, of 1926 S. Institute St.

The second incident happened at 2415 Wheeler St. Sterling Harrell, 25, of the Sunnyside Hotel, Manitou Springs, was attacked by a dog belonging to Jerry Hall of 2415 Wheeler St.

Both animals will be confined for the required 14 days.

Driver Escapes Injury as Car Upsets

Sue Ann Nalls, 19, of 322 N. Farragut Ave., escaped injury late Wednesday evening when the car she was driving on a gravel road in Palmer Park missed a curve and upset.

Miss Malls told Police Officer Quintin Conrad that she was following a car, and dust obscured her vision of the approaching curve.

of all but those reports essential to the conduct of a productive and high-caliber educational system."

The new calendar of reports is a revision of a publication issued a year ago.

The document indicates there are at least 175 different forms required for the reports, 25 or more for which no forms are described and another report for which the form has not yet been determined.

The calendar contains 4½ pages of reports "with a variable due date" and 18 additional pages listing the reports required each month from June thru July.

Request for approval of adult or young farmer class.

Source and amount of local financial support given school lunch program.

Oath of allegiance on new teachers.

Report of vocational evening or part-time classes.

Child care institution and summer camp renewal application agreement.

Enrollment list for special education classes.

Preliminary report on supervised farming programs.

Report of additional necessary expenditures due to enrollment of migrant children in regular school terms.

A total of 30 individual reports are required by the department's school lunch division alone.

In his letter to Hansford, Braden said, "I was appalled as I contemplated what must be the total requirement in personnel and man-hours needed to complete the multitude of reports required from people in our schools all over the state.

"Similarly, it is shocking to consider how many people and how much time must be required in your office simply to receive these reports and process them.

"I could not even imagine what purpose many of these reports could possibly serve. I realize full well the necessity for statistical data and records of a number of kinds in conducting most activities and striving toward their improvement.

"But as I thought of this staggering reporting system which burdens our schools, the often-heard criticism of our school system came to mind, 'administration needs reducing in favor of a return to basic teaching.'

"The filing space required by your office to accommodate the incoming reports must be tremendous. It is disquieting to think that Colorado taxpayers might be called upon to pay for another building the approximate size of our State Services Building, withing a very few years, to provide storage and filing capacity for the mountains of reports desired by your office."

Braden suggested the first step to improve the program "should be to drastically cut the number and scope of the reports required and that this step should be taken forthwith.

"Step 2, I respectfully submit, should be to take a long, hard look at the concept of education that leads to things of this sort and to search for a more practical approach.'

"I am sure that the people of Colorado want the best possible educational opportunities for their young people that they can afford; I am equally sure that we neither want, nor can we afford, use of educational funds to build up greater state bureaucracy."

U. S. Refuses to Recognize Reds

in East Berlin with an East German general.

Does the United States intend to recognize the East German Communist regime, a reporter asked?

"No," Reap replied, and added: "And this includes all other parts of it, its administrative entities."

He said the U.S.-British-French statement expected to be issued later today will "reflect our attitude" on this latest move in Berlin.

"Any changes like that do not affect Allied rights and Soviet responsibilities in Berlin," Reap said.

Concerning the three-power statement, first expected to be issued at mid moning, Reap said he was not in position to give any time as the statement is not yet ready.

An inter-Allied group of representatives of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany has been working on the statement since early this morning.

It will be a joint communique of the three powers directly interested in Berlin and therefore its wording requires clearance of all three governments, Reap said.

Less officially, it had been explained earlier that there was no disagreement among the Western nations but that suggestions as to details of wording were under consideration.

Asked about the U.S. position on the dispute at Checkpoint Charlie in Berlin where Soviet armored vehicles carrying Russian soldiers to the Soviet monument in the British sector were held up, Reap said regulations in Berlin provide that armed vehicles be under escort while in the Western part of the city.

"We are simply requiring Soviet armed vehicles to be escorted, but there is no question about the escort of unarmed Soviet military sedans," Reap declared.

Meanwhile, it was understood that Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, who obatained an appointment with Secretary of State Dean Rusk this afternoon, intends to discuss disarmament and the nuclear test ban issue with the secretary. There were speculations earlier this morning that the diplomat asked for the appointment to talk about Berlin.

Patterson Steps Up Training Pace

CHICAGO (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, set to defend his title against Sonny Liston Sept. 25, arrived here Wednesday for his final weeks of training.

Patterson, who said he weighed 190 pounds, said he was in such good condition that he could be ready to fight in two weeks.

British Musicians Play From Mountain

FORT WILLIAM, Scotland (AP)—Twenty-eight young British musicians climbed to the top of Britain's highest mountain with their cellos, violins and horns and played "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The teen-age Dudley Youth Orchestra followed up with the Communist "International" and Britain's "God Save the Queen."

The concert Wednesday — described as "a gesture for peace" —took place on the summit of 4,406-foot Ben Nevis. The ceremony was part of a belated local observance of the 17th anniversary of V-J Day, Aug. 14.

Popcorn Machine Burns At Self-Service Laundry

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Nothing happened when Aaron Albert Clack, 11, dropped a coin into a popcorn vending machine at a self-service laundry Wednesday.

Aaron slapped the machine a couple of times on its side. Still nothing happened. He stuck his left hand in the chute where the popcorn is supposed to come out. Two fingers became tangled in the blades of a rotor which is supposed to feed popcorn into the chute.

Police dismantled the machine and freed Aaron. He was treated at a hospital for cuts and severe burns on the fingers.

Gadget Guides Modern Machines With Seeing Eye

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The day of "seeing eye" vacuum cleaners and lawn mowers is coming closer.

A gadget which could guide rug-sweeping and yard-trimming appliances without human help—and distinguish warheads from decoys or submarines from whales—was demonstrated Wednesday at the Western Electronics Show.

Called an optical decision filter, the device was developed to detect crevices and boulders for unmanned moon jeeps.

Builder Sam S. Viglione of Douglas Aircraft's Astropower Electronics Laboratory said the same principles could be used in making instruments to:

1. Recognize fingerprints, signatures or even human faces and then unlock doors and bank vaults.

2. Pinpoint storm centers as they develop beneath orbiting satellites.

3. Guide spaceships through a starfield while the pilots sleep.

The prototype device, which has been miniaturized from a roomful of instruments, fits in a suitcase. Viglione said further research could reduce the size to a three-pound object nine inches long.

It is basically a tiny computer which has been taught to identify 200,000 three-dimensional shapes. It has 400 photo cells in the retina of its "eye" and 400 logic units in its "brain."

The device is sensitive to visible light rays, which enables it to guide vacuum cleaners around furniture and moon jeeps around obstacles.

It could be made sensitive, Viglione says, to other kinds of signals, such as sonar for submarine detection, or the types of electromagnetic radiation given off by superheated missile warheads as they re-enter the atmosphere.

The key to its usefulness is the ability to distinguish between an almost unlimited number of signal patterns, and do it faster than a man can think.

It's expensive now. Viglione declined to discuss costs pending negotiation of contracts for aerospace applications. But mass production, he said, will bring the cost within reach of the average consumer.

"Future vacuum cleaners," he said, "could be taught not only to steer themselves around pieces of furniture—but also to save time by avoiding areas of carpeting that are not particularly dirty."

Woman Refuses to Pay For Poor Linoleum

CINCINNATI (AP)—Rose Marie Hines, 37, said she'd give the money to charity before she'd pay for linoleum she said was poorly installed.

So did Harry Goldstein, operator of the firm seeking $124.14 in municipal court from Miss Hines for the linoleum work.

Judge Wood said the money will go to the Chochem Club, which has a drive to buy wheelchairs for invalids.

Arizona Men Fined by JP For Disturbance

Two out-of-town men were each fined $50 plus $7 costs in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday for disturbance.

The men called for a Yellow Cab the night of July 17 and told the driver, Fred Gisham Jr., to take them from the Antlers Hotel to the Broadmoor Hotel. When they arrived at 8th Street they accused Gisham of taking them a long way round to collect more fare, and started to rough him up, breaking his wrist watch in the process and causing numerous abrasions.

Deputy Sheriffs Charles Dietsche and Bob Walters were called to the scene and took the pair to county jail.

Germans Support Christian Church With Special Tax

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Christians who are lax in their church contributions are apt to be punished to the full extent of the state law.

It might surprise some Americans, ever sensitive about church-state relations, but in West Germany Catholics and Protestants pay a special government-collected tax for support of their church.

It generally works out to 10 per cent of their regular income tax and about one per cent of the average man's total income.

Income tax and church tax are paid together. The government keeps the proceeds of the one for itself and distributes the other to the churches.

In cases of delinquency, the same methods are used to compel payment.

Jews and other non-Christians do not share in the arrangement.

Total church tax receipts in 1961 came to roughly 2.8 billion marks ($700 million). West Germany is divided about equally between Catholics and Protestants, the latter combined in a single national church, so the receipts tend to be shared 50-50.

This source of revenue is far more important than voluntary contributions made during services, which average about 50 pfennigs (12½ cents), and income from church property.

The tax was provided for in the 1919 Weimar Constitution to take the place of the financial arrangements that prevailed before church and state were legally separated.

It was never tampered with by Adolf Hitler.

Any West German who decides he no longer wants to pay the tax must go before a local court and declare himself churchless. It is estimated that not more than 5 per cent of the population has done this.

Even under Hitler's open propaganda against much of the Christian belief, the legally churchless reportedly never rose to more than 15 per cent. In Communist East Germany, where churches make collections on their own and face government hostility, the figure is estimated at no higher than 25-30 per cent.

After World War II some opposition to the church tax was heard in West Germany and there were calls for exclusively voluntary contributions, as in the United States.

It was felt the excesses of Nazism had been too little condemned from the pulpits.

The controversy has died out with the long years of democratic government which replaced the Third Reich. Almost no discussion of the tax is heard nowadays, and all political parties support it as a matter of course.

Sources for both churches express general satisfaction.

Private Protection Works

We are in the midst of replying to a letter which appeared yesterday in our Open Parliament section. If you missed either the letter or our response to it, back copies are available at the Gazette Telegraph.

8. We confess to not watching television. We are not impressed with fictional accounts either of the old west or of anything else. It happens that we have personally done quite a bit of study concerning the old west and the accounts which are so frequently presented on TV, according to reports, are horribly overdrawn.

It is too bad that so many of our citizens are being led to believe that reality is whatever the dramatists can twist around for purposes of entertainment.

In actual fact, Marvin here reveals his inability to think like a crook. Perhaps we should congratulate him.

9. Recently a large department store in New York City got into difficulties because of a particular type of thief. The "city cop" was apparently unable or unwilling to do anything about it.

It seems that this store was plagued by thieves who would sneak into the store nearing closing time, spend the night at leisure, picking up valuables which were easily portable, and then mix with the crowd after the store opened in the morning.

The store solved the problem. It installed 40 Doberman dogs which roam the store. Surely, a thief could bring in meat and lull the dogs. But no one has, to date.

Talks with men who have spent a bit of time in prison reveal that dogs are a perpetual nuisance to prowlers and crooks of all varieties. Marvin's reliance upon the man with the gun, the city cop, particularly in view of any number of recent revelations including those in Denver, is not impressive.

10. In actual fact the protection we really do have comes from market place devices developed and manufactured outside of government. When you get right down to it, even the gun was a market place development. And there are plenty of private persons who can handle a gun with a great deal of skill.

11. There are several persons in the United States who keep Numidian lions on the premises. Apparently the lion is more readily tamed. We cannot quite see a thief breaking into their homes. A news story recently told of a man who protected his car and its contents by keeping a boa constrictor on the front seat beside him. Someway, we don't think the car thief would be interested in making off with a vehicle with a full-grown boa as a companion.

12. Apparently there are a number of persons, entirely in their right minds, who have used and are using all kinds of devices to keep out the crooks and doing a good job of it. We note that a whisky distillery in Ireland has abandoned cops since so many of them seem to have a taste for the product they are supposed to be protecting. Instead, a flock of geese now does patrol duty and apparently geese are not attracted to Irish Whisky.

13. Thus it turns out that Marvin's protestations that "it will never work" are contravened by the fact that such things do work and, indeed, are working. Not that any device that could ever be invented would provide a panacea. We doubt the existence of panaceas.

What we are trying to show is that individual human beings, exercising a modest degree of intelligence and ingenuity, combined with self-reliance and an unwillingness to molest the taxpayers, have provided protection for themselves. Hundreds of thousands have taken out insurance which will reimburse them in the event their market place devices don't work at a given time.

14. We will welcome Marvin's adventuring into the market place. Before he undertakes to cross swords with us in this area we would like to recommend his reading "Human Action" by Ludwig von Mises and "Man, Economy and State" by Rothbard.

At least, if he prepares himself, he will not be in the position of arguing in favor of proven fallacies nor of insisting that things which have long been disproved are still true.

Around We Go

It seems it takes a life time of experience before one has had enough experience to know how to live a life time.

When Mr. Will Fare Meets Mr. Lay Boring

A student of liberty recently made a suggestion as to a method which might be used in explaining this matter of government subsidy so that everyone can understand it. We think the suggestion excellent and will endeavor to offer an illustration which covers the subject.

Let us suppose that we have a Mr. Will Fare. He has managed to go to the government and obtain $50 per month to help him with his living expenses. He is elderly and he says he cannot manage to make ends meet unless the government gives him $600 per year at the rate of $50 per month.

Now we have Mr. Lay Boring. Mr. Lay Boring has a wife and family of three children. He works hard and earns about $4500 per year at a tiring, exhausting job. His taxes (after deductions) we will suppose come out to $600 exactly.

And let us suppose that Mr. Lay Boring asks the government as a special favor that it take his money out of his pay check at the rate of $50 per month since to pay it all at once seems like such a big sum.

But now let us suppose that the government official in charge of these two events, both the welfare and the taxing procedure, one day happens to get these two items on his desk at the same time. And the obvious thought suggests itself.

Mr. Lay Boring is the man who is being taxed exactly the sum Mr. Will Fare receives as a subsidy. The government official ponders this briefly and says to himself: "Since these two amounts equal each other, I can save government expenditures if I merely acquaint both of these men with the facts of the case."

Whereupon he writes a letter to Mr. Will Fare as follows:

Mr. Will Fare
23 Skidoo Lane
Urban Renewalville

Dear Mr. Fare:

It has come to my attention that a Mr. Lay Boring of your city is earning a salary which results in his paying taxes in the sum of $600 per year. Further, he pays these taxes at the rate of $50 per month.

Since you are receiving welfare assistance in precisely this amount, the government now proposes that certain overhead costs can be reduced if you collect this sum by yourself.

Hereafter, instead of receiving a monthly allotment check from us, you will present yourself to Mr. Lay Boring and make demand upon him for your regular monthly stipend.

As you can see, this will save bookeeping charges, overhead and a number of other costs which we wish to eliminate.

Sincerely,
I. Reject Selfhood

And then he writes a second letter:

Mr. Lay Boring
1812 Green Apple Drive
Surf and Peon Subdivision

Dear Mr. Boring:

In the interests of saving money for the government we are making an alteration in our bookkeeping procedures in the office relative to the payment of your income tax.

It so happens that a Mr. Will Fare, of your city, receives from the government the precise sum of money you pay in on a monthly basis of $50 ($600 annually). He needs this money as he is elderly and cannot manage without it.

Hereafter, instead of having your employer deduct the sum of $50 from your paycheck we are authorizing Mr. Will Fare to call at your home for the purpose of receiving his $50 monthly directly from you.

As you can readily see, this will eliminate costly bookeeping procedures and it will assist Mr. Will Fare in getting his money quickly.

Make certain that you are at home when he calls as we do not want to summon the police to enforce this ruling.

Sincerely,
I. Reject Selfhood

Now what do you suppose would happen?

Paul Harvey News

Could Service Clubs Unite

By PAUL HARVEY

But what can we do about it? That is the frustrating question.

Troubled children, disturbed parents, confused businessmen — bewildered, anxious Americans — look around them, cringing from the encroachment of sinister isms, and ask, "But what can we do about it?"

The hole in the dike is now too big for a few fingers to fill.

Thus, individually, however appalled, we feel helpless.

An Arkansas farmer dared to defy Big Government and grow the crops he wanted to grow. His land has been taken away from him. In America?

An industry tried to raise prices. With force and fury an angry federal government sued in court, reopened old tax returns, withdrew contracts, coerced, threatened. In America?

The President publicly deplored a steel price hike which he said "would add a billion dollars a year to the cost of our defense effort."

The 3½ million tons of steel used for defense would have cost only 20 million more. Not 100 million. But the misinformed President's statement was neither corrected nor challenged.

Nor was there any righteous wrath from We, The People when he described businessmen publicly in words most of us do not use even privately. In America?

We heard the Supreme Court of the land order the prayers out of schools. In America?

VOTE BAIT

This year Big Government will spend 111 dollars for every 100 dollars it collects in taxes. Yet the White House prepares to buy more vote bait by cutting taxes, not cutting overhead.

And Big Government hastens to socialize medicine, housing, agriculture, electric power in a program so vast it would, in fact, double this top-heavy debt load.

What can we do? Change political parties? Unfortunately, the spenders are in control in both parties. We've perpetuated deficit spending for thirty years under assorted administrations. The so-called "liberals" were in control of both party platform committees in 1960. Under Nixon or Kennedy, we'd still be taxing and spending our way toward socialism. In America.

Write to our congressmen? That helps, but a letter from Mississippi to a congressman from New York is like vaseline on a snake bite.

MEANS AT HAND

Thus it was a Mississippi man named James Files who first suggested an orderly mobilization of public opinion, employing machinery already available: service clubs.

Mr. Files believes Americans can be aroused, that Washington will respond to an aroused citizenry. And he thinks our nation's service clubs can do the arousing.

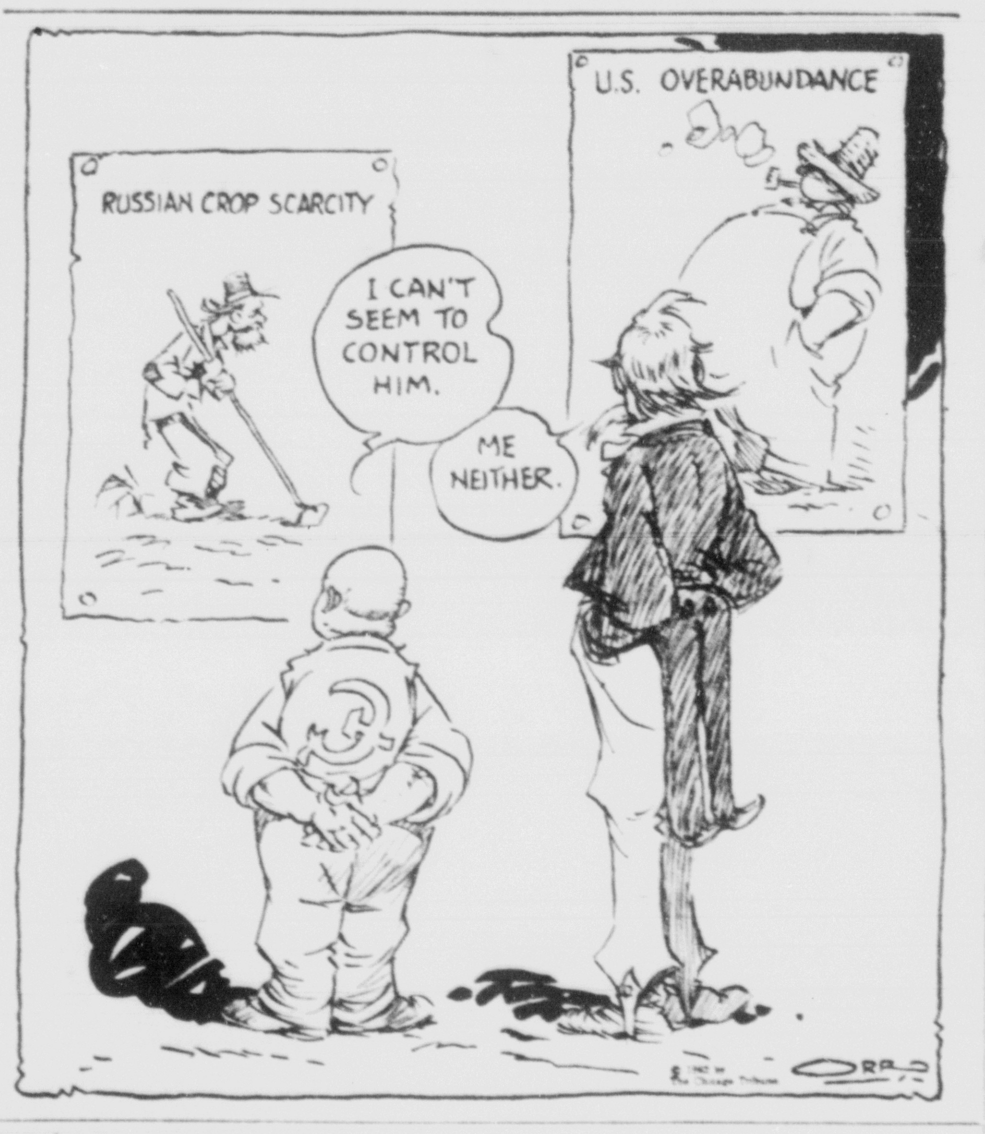
He urges Rotary and Kiwanis, Lions and Civitan and Exchange and Jaycees and others to close ranks, co-ordinate a nationwide effort. They have the brainpower and the manpower. They are organized at community level. They might blanket our nation with a gigantic nonpartison web of effective action for the preservation of basic liberties.

He urges a summit meeting of the national presidents of these organizations as a first step. I second the notion.

George Washington wrote, "I am sure the mass of citizens in these United States mean well, and I frankly believe they will alway act well whenever they can obtain a right understanding of matters."

I share that conviction.

GOVERNMENT MANAGED AGRICULTURE



The Old Mountaineer

Thoughts by The Wayside

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

In days of old, when knights were bold, and some young blade was feeling his oats and wanted to pick a fight, he would throw down the gauntlet to his opponent, and they would take it from there. In those days a gauntlet was not the soft, elk - leather fringed gloves which are worn and displayed by our girls of the riding clubs. It was a hinged glove of metal covering the hand and the wrist, and was protective of a young blade's knuckles as he jousted around with some other blade of equal social status. To be a young blade of that ilk one had to be the son of a feudal lord, or it could well be that he might be the eldest son of a landed proprietor who would inherit his father's great wealth. According to the romanticists, throwing down the gauntlet was one method of challenging a rival for the hand of some beautiful princess. But it happened on other occasions as well, especially when some bold young man became obsessed with his own power and importance, in which event he would throw his gauntlet around willy - nilly until the day came when some bolder knight might knock his ears down. Throwing down the gauntlet was a challenge to a fight for whatever cause.

In those distant, olden days, the bold ones never fought over the poor folks, who were serfs, and who were lucky to own leather G-strings to hold up their ragged britches. It took a Robin Hood to pay any attention to the plight of the poor, the indigent and the aged. Obsession by the rich on behalf of the poverty - stricken is a modern wrinkle used largely for political purposes and is used largely for the purpose of taking away from the lower classes what few remaining shekels they may own or earn. Today, in the political arena a bold knight arises who, obsessed with some dreamy-eyed cause, throws down the gauntlet in wild abandon, challenging all comers to the fight. It is a sort of bolstering one's ego, and the strange part of it all is that too many of our modern-day serfs swallow the bait and get it into their heads that the bold knight will somehow get them a free ride on the gravy train. But don't forget that the gauntlet in the days of old was made of metal and served not only as a protective hand shield, but as a mailed fist as well. They were medieval brass knuckles, so to speak.

Our suave and even - tempered President has thrown down the gauntlet to the people of our nation. Or is it the mailed fist he has waved in our faces? In essence he says that his Medicare program will be crammed down our throats unless we defeat the whole scheme in the next congressional elections. He has declared it to be the paramount issue and has thrown down the gauntlet into the arena of the voting booth. He is relying for victory upon the backing of organized union strength, plus the solid following of his fellow churchmen, and upon the blindly enslaved Democrats of the South.

The fact that he seems to ignore is that all of these folks work for a living, are citizens who do not wish for a socialized state, and who are taxpayers. No matter what your political affiliation, your religious leanings, your status in life or your age, it is to your interest to take a close look at this overall picture. Most of you, earning an honest living, already complain at the federal withholdings from your earnings, but if you vote for Medicare another big bite will be taken out of your hide to be commingled with general funds and spent with wild abandon by the spending fathers of Washington. You will pay for Medicare whether you want it or not, and whether you need it or not. It is about as fraudulent piece of socialized legislation as has ever been presented to the American public. It is not sufficient to say that it is fraudulent, so let us look at the facts.

There are four and a half million elderly people not covered by social security. They would get nothing no matter what their health or financial problems might be. It would not pay for your doctor services at home, office or hospital. It would not pay surgeons' bills. It would not pay for dental care. If you were hospitalized, you would pay out of your own pocket ten dollars per day for the first nine days. It would not pay for medicines used outside of hospitals or nursing homes. You would have to pay the first twenty dollars for diagnostic study, nor would it permit you to select your own physician for such study — you would become a number and he would also become one. It would pump out tax monies to many aged well able to pay their own medical-hospital bills — even millionaires. It would practically wipe out private insurance and hospital plans now held by over nine million people.

By surveys taken among elderly people and hospitals all over the country, the fact has been proven that this is an unnecessary piece of socialized legislation which the President seeks to cram down our throats. It is another scheme to take a big bite out of your earned income so that it might be squandered extravagantly by the spending fathers of Washington. Senator Allott has not only analyzed the bill thoroly, but has voluminous documentation of the facts. He opposed the bill and will send you complete data upon request so that you may make your own decision. Senator Carroll is in favor of the President's plan. The choice is yours.

Companies in the business of passenger transportation made their bids for travelers' patronage with the help of a $52.5 million expenditure for national advertising in daily newspapers last year. This sum tops their 1959 expenditure by 5.1 per cent.

These Days

The High Cost of Labor

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

One of the problems which faces every worker is the high cost of being a worker. Union dues, social security, fines, assessments bring the take home pay of the worker down. I have here a letter from the National Marine Engineers, Beneficial Association, District No. 1. This union is affiliated with the AFL - CIO Marine Trades Department. Its officers are J. M. Calhoon, chairman, R. L. Merrick, secretary-treasurer, B. Rowell, executive assistant, and Lee Pressman, general counsel.

The letter follows:

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"At the 83rd National Convention held in May 1960 at Denver, Colorado, a resolution was adopted affecting members who hold Withdrawal Cards from their respective subordinate associations. As a result of this resolution any member who has a Withdrawal Card and does not reinstate his membership in the local or district, as the case may be, within sixty (60) days from the date of this notice, will be required to pay a $1,000.00 reinstatement fee."

All the rest of the letter does not matter. What, in essence, the letter says is that, if a member had to withdraw for any reason, it would cost him $1,000 to be reinstated. Unless a man pays $1,000, he cannot work at his chosen trade.

PAY REDUCED

This is one of the problems which faces the worker. His salary is reduced by the withholding tax, social security, union dues and union fees. This sentence is repetitive, but it should be printed on every pay envelope, so that a worker knows what he got in the first instance and what is left after all sorts of pieces are taken out of his wage.

As new means of production come into existence and as new materials are used, workers find it necessary to shift from one union to another. For instance, the flight engineers were on strike because, in the judgment of management, some of their work should be done by pilots. The pilots agree. If the flight engineer becomes a pilot, he must join the Pilots Union. Perhaps, he might belong to both unions to be sure. If an international regulation were adopted requiring everybody in the cockpit to be a pilot, would there have to be a world - wide strike so that the Flight Engineers Union should not become extinct because its function has ceased?

I notice that butchers have become meat-cutters. I do not know what is wrong with the word, butcher, but persons in that trade prefer to be called meat-cutters. Suppose a man in a super-market sells vegetables but the meat-cutter goes to the telephone or to the men's room or somewhere and the vegetable man cuts a piece of top-round for a fancy lady who refused to buy ready prepared and wrapped meat. Does that mean that they have to have a strike because the vegetable man must not be a meat-cutter even if his father and grandfather were butchers in the old days and he knows all about cutting meat? It does.

Or maybe he was once a meat-cutter and his doctor put him on a vegetable diet and he did not want to tease himself by touching meat all day long and then coming home to some field grass. So he left the meat-cutters and joined the vegetarians. So he changed his doctor and now can eat meat but no carbo-hydrates. Must he, then, pay something like $1,000 to get back into the old union?

UNION HOARDS

Perhaps the union has set up a bank where the marine engineer can borrow $1,000 of his own money to pay the reinstatment assessment, or maybe he can mortgage his home or his car for the right to work.

We have not yet reached the depths of this sort of thing. The vast accumulations of the unions will, in time, be as great as the hoards of the life insurance companies which take the double indemnity out of a policy when one reaches 65 or somewhere about there — just when it is most important to have protection. It is all in the policy, but who reads a policy except the insurance salesman who knows all the answers.

The way it goes nowadays, if anybody needs money and his banker freezes at the prospect, a loan can be negotiated with certain labor unions whose non-taxable worth is hundreds of millions of dollars.

POWER CENTRALIZED

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago I was reorganizing the books in my library, when one of the volumes fell open, and my eyes happened to light on a paragraph on the exposed page. I read the passage which stated in effect, if not in the exact words, "The republican form of government inevitably leads, soon or late, to a high centralization of power."

The significance of what I had read did not dawn on me immediately, and unfortunately I did not note the author before the books were reassembled. I have felt that the sentence should be in "Spirit of Laws" by Montesquieu, but have not been able to locate it there. But whoever the author may be, I am convinced that he had remarkable insight and prophetic powers.

We, as a nation, have always taken great pride in our republican form of government. The founders foresaw it as the great insurance of liberty of all types for those of their own day and for their posterity. And such it has been thru the years until recent decades. Formerly, only occasionally did the heavy hand of our national government make itself felt, and then this was generally accepted as in the interest of the common good. But, after nearly a century and half of such a government, we must all be aware of the fact that "high centralization" of power, not only began to develop, but has progressed at a very rapid, in fact an alarming rate. States, communities and individual citizens are becoming increasingly aware that former freedoms and liberties are either lost or in process of being surrendered.

The question immediately arises as to why this should be so; what has brought about this rather sudden and remarkable change? The quotation given at the beginning suggests that the development is inherent in the form of government itself. First of all, note that republican government is "representative" government. As such, it is subject to the demands of a great number of pressure groups. Those in office, or who are seeking office, from the president on down, well know that every such demand constitutes a threat, "Do this for us, or else."

In this situation, political parties seeking control in the nation's government become as alike as peas in the pod, promising all and sundry everything their dear hearts desire. A party which pursues this policy and attempts to fulfill the promises made is known as a "Liberal Party." Liberal it may propose to be with the nation's wealth, but in the process, it can assure us only of the loss of liberties. It is amazing how eagerly our people trade their wonderful and hardly-bought freedoms for the debt-engulfing largess of their federal governors.

And what of the future? Are we in the grip of forces beyond our control? At the present time, it must be conceded that no candidate who is an announced conservative can establish a great national leadership, for he would carry the threat of making the nation's government a true servant of the people as a whole, rather than the rich overlord conferring favors. It is probable that conditions must become worse before they become better. If and when the loss of liberty reaches a point where it really hurts, there may come a revolution of thinking and voting. But, in the meantime, the Santa Claus type of government is rapidly becoming more and more deeply entrenched as a national habit, and eventually only a very great convulsion will be able to shake it loose.

Whether our national government is heading towards a bureaucracy, a despotism, or a tyranny of some form cannot be now predicted with certainty. Any of these might eventuate without any material change in the forms and procedures of election which now obtain. We can at least hope that no more depressions will hasten the day, and that, whatever comes, our government will be benevolent. For, with the loss of our liberties, we will stand in need of all the good and good will that may be granted.

Those who are worried about our national debt should take heart. It will never be paid. Taxpayers are a tremendous pressure-group, before whom our national leaders in government stand completely intimidated. You have doubtless heard of the British Consols which represent the national debt, and which offer investment opportunities at a modest rate of interest. They go on from century to century. Why worry about the debt, as long as we are able to pay the interest on the debt as due? Only a highly centralized government could so manage its affairs.

REPLY TO HARGIS

To the Editor:

The Open Parliament of the Gazette Telegraph of Aug. 14 contained a lengthy letter from Billy James Hargis in response to the feature article which in turn was prompted by a letter from me indicating some additional material on the subject of communist infiltration in the National Council of Churches of Christ. If I may avail myself of the Open Parliament, I should like to respond to this letter.

First of all, the letter mentions me in the same breath as the Ministerial Alliance of Colorado Springs and may give the false impression that I wrote on their behalf. It should be made clear that I wrote to the Gazette Telegraph as an individual and not as a spokesman for any group.

Secondly, allow me to reiterate my contention that the leadership of the National Council of Churches has officially denied the charges of Mr. Hargis in the published statement of Dr. Roy Ross, general secretary of the National Council. Dr. Ross as the chief administrative officer of the organization, is surely the most official voice of its leadership. His statement reads in part: "From its very first moment of existence in December of 1950, when the denominations constituted this agency to witness to their unity in Christ and to conduct their cooperative work, the National Council of Churches has never had a Communist Party member or sympathizer among its officers or staff, or its executives. Every one of these devoted church members is deeply loyal to his country. Every one of them resists by conviction and by virtue of his professional activity the attempts of communism to infiltrate and undermine a free society both in America and other nations of the world. I defy anyone to offer proof to the contrary." That is certainly a denial!

Thirdly, I must say that I cannot share Mr. Hargis' belief in the infallibility of government agencies or their reports. I find it strange that he can place so much faith in the congressmen and so little in his fellow Christians.

I am sorry that Mr. Hargis construed my efforts to be an "attack" or a means to "seek to destroy" him or his organization. Mr. Hargis had availed himself of the press to present his point of view and it seemed only fair to me that the other point of view be expressed to the same readers. My thanks to the editor for the opportunity to do exactly that.

Lastly, I would like to say that as a Christian, I am unalterably opposed to communism, but that I would like to remind Mr. Hargis that the evil in this world wears many masks and communism is just one of them. Medicine does not confine itself to the battle against cancer, but fights all diseases. So we, as Christians, must do battle against all forms of evil, including communism.

The Punitive UN

From Wall Street Journal

The United Nations authorities are in such unseemly haste to unify the Congo that they are considering economic sanctions and even new measures of force against secessionist Katanga. And it appears that the U.S. is aiding and abetting the U.N. in these most unfortunate contemplations.

For a long time Katanga's Tshombe and the Leopoldville government's Adoula were conducting sporadic negotiatons on some form of unification. There was no agreement and the talks broke down about a month ago. Meantime Katanga is solvent because of revenues from the Union Miniere copper company, and the central government is just about insolvent.

The U.N. is insistent on speedy unification not only because of Adoula's financial straits but because of its own. It figures it cannot continue its Congo operation, at a cost of about $10 million a month, beyond the end of this year.

These are problems all right, but we would like to ask by what strange standards financial problems in the Congo and the U.N. can come to be justification for still more punitive actions against Tshombe — especially actions that could produce a turmoil of bloodshed such as even the Congo has not yet seen.

The U.N.'s attempted justification is that Tshombe is some kind of villain who must be brought to heel because he has so far not found or been offered a unification formula to his liking. However stubborn he may be, tho, it is far from clear that unification of the Congo is somehow the U.N.'s sacred obligation. Even if he wants complete independence, the U.N. has welcomed to its own bosom many a fragment of Africa that has less claim to independent nationhood than Katanga has.

But the basic question concerns this whole notion that the U.N. should be used as an expeditionary force, not to keep peace but to impose somebody's idea of a political settlement on unwilling groups. The U.S. government ought to think twice about that, for it is not only a punitive policy but a perilous one.

New York Chef Learns to Bake At Ft. Carson

A New York chef from the Hotel Astor can learn in a Ft. Carson kitchen. Pvt. Kenneth S. Rand of Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 10th Infantry, is doing just that.

A specialist in German and French dishes, he's learning to bake in his Army kitchen.

"For the first time in my life, I have found a kitchen that is quiet enough for a man to think," Rand added. This is a great advantage, he feels.

Speaking of the Waldorf - Astoria where he began his career in cuisine and the Astor, he recalled.

"The pressure was great. Never a moment to think or plan. You had to do everything on the run with 300 a la carte dishes at a meal. It was hectic, but I loved everymoment of it."

As for using his civilian experience on the job, Rand said: "They are making a baker out of me and I've never baked in my life, but it's a challenge and I am learning fast."

Any day now the men of Headquarters Company, 1st of the 10th may find their hot cakes coming out as crepes suzette.

If a white garment is scorched while ironing, wet a cloth with hydrogen peroxide and place it over the spot. Run the hot iron over it. The scorch comes off almost instantly. Do not use this first aid on scorched colored cloth.

County Sub-Division Amendments Available

Copies of recent amendments to the El Paso County sub-division regulations are now available at the building inspector's office in the County Office Building.

The supplemental pages may be inserted into the sub-division manual. W. A. West, county planning engineer, said there are about eight amendments which the Board of County Commissioners recently approved.

Jerry Jackson and a friend from Cheyenne, Wyo., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Al DeMark and Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson.

Mrs. Leroy Cotton and girls called on Mrs. Gertrude Payne Thursday evening.

The Peyton Ladies Guild Committee again was in charge of the Flower Department at the El Paso County Fair. Workers were Mrs. Al Fuchs, Mrs. Gertrude Payne, Mrs. Clara Hamlin and three high school girls, Patsy and Jan Cook and Linda Ricketts. The Peyton Ladies Guild won community prizes in canning, needle craft, sewing flowers and crocheting, exhibited by Mrs. John Hale, Mrs. Bryan Grimes, Mrs. Clara Hamlin, Mrs. Clarence Cleese, Mrs. Gertrude Payne and Mrs. Melvin Fields. Marylin Cotton, Evelyn Fields and Carolyn Owen of the Peytonville 4-H girls also took prizes. John Hale had some prize work in the leather craft class.

The Peyton Ladies Guild met with Mrs. Cecil Farthing for a dessert luncheon August 16. Mrs. Clara Hamlin was co-hostess. Fourteen members and three children were present. Visitors from Colorado Springs were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mathews and Mrs. Elvina Smith. Mrs. Ben Kinnaman, Mrs. Jess Freeman and Miss Fern Farthing were local visitors. For several years Mr. Mathews has shared his colored slides of various points of interest in Colorado. This year the first group were of Colorado ghost towns and mining districts.

Peyton Consolidated School, District 23, will open August 27. School buses will run and lunch will be served. School will be dismissed about 1:15. The school principal will be Charles R. Camp assisted by Mrs. Fern Moore, John Lucas, Mrs. Myrtle Townley, Mrs. Lilly Gillis and Miss Martha Saunders. Custodian is Jess Freeman. Bus drivers are Freeman and Carl Brauer, and cooks will be Mrs. Agnes Bertrand and Mrs. Rose Bangert.

Mrs. Charlton and her daughter, Mrs. Dorthy Fuchs, motored to Colorado Springs, Saturday, to visit with Mrs. Roy Crispell of San Diego, Calif. Mrs. Crispell is Dorothy's Aunt. She was visiting relatives in Denver and Colorado Springs before going on to Topeka, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cleese attended a patio dinner Sunday, in Colorado Springs, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crocker given for Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smock and family, formerly of Cortez. The Smocks are moving to Sterling where Bud will teach in the high school and be assistant football coach. Harriet and the children spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Crocker, while Bud attended a coaches' clinic in Pueblo. The family will spend a few days with the Cleeses, Mrs. Smocks' parents, before going on to their new home.

Man Fined Driving Car With Three Tires

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kenneth Deiters, 32, was fined $30 in traffic court after being stopped driving a car with only three tires.

The tireless wheel, the officer said, had left a groove in the street. The vehicle also had three bald tires, a shattered windshield and faulty brakes, he said.

Deiters was charged with damaging a city street and operating an unroadworthy vehicle. He told the judge yesterday he drove because he didn't want to take a bus to work.

PUC Retains Attorney in CIG Proposal

A contract renewal was announced Wednesday for the Washington lawyer who has been handling a Colorado Public Utilities Commission case against the Colorado Interstate Gas Co. proposal for a pipeline expansion program to Southern California.

The attorney, Jacob Goldberg, was retained for the third year as the commission's special counsel. He will receive $200 a day when appearing in court, $100 a day for briefing and study work and expenses.

The contract provides for a maximum payment of $10,000 annually.

The PUC has been strongly opposed to the Rock Springs pipeline proposed by CIG and El Paso Natural Gas Co. The commission has taken the position that the proposal would not supply sufficient natural gas for the Denver area.

City Jury Finds Driver Not Guilty Wednesday

A verdict of not guilty was returned Wednesday by a six-panel jury in the Municipal Court case of Donald Hall, 910½ 1st St., who was charged with violating a red light signal.

Hall was ticketed April 17 by Police Officer James E. Stewart at the intersection of Nevada Avenue and Cimarron Street, where the alleged violation occurred.

According to testimony, Hall was in the southbound left turn lane on Nevada Avenue and made a U turn around the center island to get into the northbound Nevada Avenue traffic lane.

Stewart testified that the defendant made the turn on a red light. He said Hall's car was not far enought into the intersection to move after the Nevada Avenue light turned red.

Hall testified that he made the turn legally and was one of three cars which completed the turn at that particular time.

He said he was waiting at the intersection to make the turn and that Hall's car was just behind his. When the red light stopped the flow of northbound Nevada Avenue traffic, Simshauser said he completed the turn and Hall followed behind him. A car behind Hall also made the turn.

Attorney for the defendant was Wayne Hodsen. Matthew B. Wills was the city prosecuting attorney. The case was heard before Judge Hunter D. Hardeman.

City to Auction Old Cars Saturday

Police Officer George Hall reminded residents of the region today that the Colorado Springs police department will auction 20 old cars starting at 10 a.m. Saturday at Peterson field.

He said these were abandoned cars which had been left on city streets, and which were later taken to the department's car storage area at Peterson Field.

Hall, who is the department custodian, said the cars can be inspected for an hour or so prior to the start of the auction. Net proceeds will go into the police pension fund.

Municipal Court Jury Finds Driver Guilty on Two Counts

Wednesday afternoon a Municipal Court jury of five woman and one man faced the problem of deciding whether a dazed condition or an angry frame of mind caused a defendant to drive his car in an erratic manner which brought three traffic charges against him.

The jury, after more than an hour's deliberation, found the defendant James Alexander Ball, 38, Aurora, guilty of careless driving and running a signal light. A charge of reckless driving against him was subsequently dismissed. Hunter Hardeman fined the defendant $45. The fine and the verdict were appealed by Wayne Hodson, local attorney representing the defendant, and a 10-day stay of execution was granted by Judge Hardeman.

The case began with routine testimony by Police Officers Jess Kyle and Wayne Banks that at 10:50 p.m. May 28 they noticed the defendant make a U-turn near the intersection of Tejon and Cucharras Streets, approach the intersection and make a right turn from the left hand traffic lane to go north on Tejon Street.

Both officers testified that the vehicle made the turn at a high rate of speed thru a red light. Banks said the car narrowly missed striking another vehicle crossing the intersection, and caused two others to slam on their brakes to avoid the car in front.

The defendant, when stopped a short distance from the intersection by the two offiers, appeared in a stupefied condition with face bruises and his clothes disheveled, Banks said.

The complexity of the decision with which the jury was faced came to light when Ball told the court he had been attacked by three men who had knocked him down and kicked him in the head prior to the time of his arrest.

"I'm a business agent and union organizer," Ball said. "On the night in question I became involved in a heated argument over union business while I was eating two sandwiches and drinking two bottles of beer in a local cafe.

"When I left the cafe, the three men with whom I had argued followed and knocked me down and kicked me in the head. I lost consciousness for a short period of time and when I regained my senses I managed to reach my car and turn on the air conditioner to clear the haze from my mind.

"I guess it didn't work as well as I thought because I can only remember making the U-turn. I do not recall committing the traffic offenses with which I am charged and must reply on the officers' testimony that I did so," Ball said.

Under cross examination by the Assistant City Attorney Matthew Wills, Ball admitted that while he was driving that night he was "mad as a hornet" over the foul play inflicted upon him.

Wills, in his closing argument to the jury pointed out that it was anger which caused the defendant to drive his car in such a reckless manner without proper regard for the life or property of others.

Hodson indicated to the jury that his defendant was in a dazed condition and could not be held responsible for his actions after he was kicked in the head. He also pointed out to the jury that in his opinion the defendant was guilty only of running the signal light and the city had failed to prove reckless driving on any count including that of intent.

Wills rebutted Hodson's statement by quoting from the city ordinance on reckless driving, showing that the ordinance states that any individual driving a vehicle in a manner deemed that of willful or wanton disregard for life and property is guilty of reckless driving. "The word intent is not mentioned in the ordinance," Wills concluded.

Other cases appearing in court were: Clarence Orr, 60, drunk, $25 bond forfeited; William Alexander, 52, Joyce Hotel, drunk, $25 bond forfeited; Kenneth McGee, 26, of 1628 W. Pikes Peak Ave., drunk, $25 bond forfeited; Clyde Akin, 28, of 128 E. Mill St., drunk, $25.

Eight New AOCs Assigned to Cadet Squadrons

Eight new AOCs (air officers commanding) have been assigned to cadet squadrons at the Air Force Academy. Included in the group are a Marine Corps captain and two Air Force pilots.

Pilots named to AOC posts include Lt. Alvin H. Hufford, who flew C-121's for the Military Air Transport Service, and Capt. William M. Charles, a SAC, B-52 copilot at Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico.

Other newly assigned AOCs and the bases from which they were transferred include: Lt. Lloyd R. Chasen, Baylor University; Capt. Donald W. Rayment, Dover AFB, (SAC); Capt. Harry E. Drennan, Holloman AFB (AFSC); Capt. Irwin R. Ziff, Davis-Monthan AFB (SAC); and Capt. Isaac M. Hamilton, Ramstein AFB, Germany (USAFE).

30-Day Penalty Suspended for Disturbance

In Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday, Vernon Lea Brown, 29, of 525 Acoma Dr., was given 30 days in county jail suspended, plus $7 court costs after pleading guilty to disturbance.

Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry took the witness stand and told the court that he and another deputy, Vincent Denboske, were called to the parking lot of the Navajo Hogan, Aug. 4, as a fight was in process.

When they arrived they found the defendant pushing his wife around. The deputies intervened and a fight ensued during which Barry had his shirt and tie ripped off and Denboske lost his tie. After they placed Brown in their car to transport him to county jail he kicked Barry and had to be restrained.

B. J. O'Leary appeared for the district attorney's office.

Medal Awarded To Senior M. Sgt. By General Lee

Ceremonies awarding the Air Force Commendation Medal to SM. Sgt. Ralph N. Wyatt, were held recently at Air Defense Command Headquarters. Lt. Gen. Robert M. Lee, commander ADC, presented the award citing the sergeant for meritorious service performed while assigned to the 1956th Communications Group at Fuchu Air Station, Japan from 1959-62.

Tho listing his birthplace as Virden, Ill., the veterans of 22 years military service over various parts of the globe proclaims Colorado Springs to be his permanent home.

Over the years since August 1940 when he entered service, he has accumulated forwarding addresses from such locations as Puerto Rico, British Guiana, S. A.; Alaska and Japan. He arrived at Ent for assignment last March. Away from his Air Force job, he devotes off-duty interests to fishing and hunting.

Sgt. Wyatt is married to the former Lily G. Lillard and lives at 1412 Monument. They have three children, Gerry, 18, James 16 and Peggy, 14 years.

Johnson Talks On Amendments At Optimist Club

Acquaint yourselves with the eight proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on at the November election, Robert W. Johnson, Republican candidate for the State Senate, advised members of the Colorado Springs Optimist Club Wednesday.

Speaking for the group at their regular luncheon meeting, Johnson said "The average voter doesn't take the time to study the amendments and simply votes no. Actually, many have a good deal of merit."

He outlined the proposed measures and made recommendations on several. They are:

Amendment No. 1 — Judicial reform, which would abolish justice of the peace courts and extend JP court jurisdiction to county courts. Some of the present matters of county court including estate would be given to district courts. Some 30 new district judges would be created, and the supreme court could be enlarged to nine members (present number is sevtn) thus speeding up the supreme court docket.

No. 2—It would not affect El Paso County, but would permit the city and county of Denver to set fire and police salaries without submitting the matter to voters, as is now required.

No. 3— The income tax proposal which, if adopted, could result in a simplification of the state income tax return, thus providing saving of time to the taxpayer and saving to the state in administration. Johnson favors the amendment.

No. 4—Affects voter qualifications and would permit voters to cast ballots for presidential and vice presidential electors without the need of meeting the 1-year residential requirement as is now the case. Johnson supports the measure.

No. 5—clarifies the matter of assessing property.

No. 6—Set up all county offices on a 4-year basis. Also prevents the state from abolishing any county office without submitting the matter to public vote. Johnson favors.

Nos. 7 and 8 — The reapportionment proposals. The first freezes the number of State Senators at 35 and Representatives at 65, but permits a 3-member commission to do the reapportioning.

The second is the so-called Federal Plan and creates a reapportionment system similar to that followed by Congress. The number of Senators is increased to 39, but the House number is frozen at 65, and established on a population basis. Johnson favors the Federal Plan.

EXPLAINING NEW SYSTEM — Employees of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. here are now calling 50,000 customers in the Pikes Peak Region to explain how direct distance dialing works. Left to right making calls are Marilyn Forum, Pat Wilson, Florence Sawyer, Bernelda Bruce, Micki Patrick, Norma English, LaRona Vasseur, Mabel Graham, Jean Gosnell and Marie Walters, back to camera. 625 Students Attend CC Summer Session This Year

A total of 625 students from 36 states, the District of Columbia, and six foreign countries attended the Colorado College summer session just ended, according to Director J. Victor Hopper.

Almost half of the faculty of 73 was composed of visiting professors, with the remainder members of the regular college faculty. They taught some 130 courses in 23 different academic departments.

Summer students are offered the educational facilities of the regular session plus a planned recreation program at two-thirds the cost of the regular session. Prof. Robert M. Ormes directed the summer recreation program.

Included in the recreation program were a series of Friday night music concerts, a dance demonstration concert, lectures, and exhibits at the Fine Arts Center. Taking advantage of the college's cultural facilities also were members of the John Hay Fellows Seminar in the Humanities, four National Science Foundation Institutes, and the Danforth Foundation Workshop in the Liberal Arts, meeting on campus all or part of the eight-week session.

Members of the groups numbered 350, many of whom were accompanied by their families. College housing facilities were utilized by all three groups.

Six music concerts featured the nationally-known artist-teachers in the Summer Music School, Giorgio Ciompi, violinist, Paul Doktor, violist, George Bekefi, violoncellist, and Dr. Max Lanner, pianist and chairman of the college music department. An innovation this year was an alumni concert with Herbert Beattie, bass, of the New York City Opera Company, Harvey E. Boatright, flutist, with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, and his wife, Jo Garner Boatright, pianist with the Dallas orchestra.

Hanya Holm, noted New York choreographer who directed the Summer Dance School, presented her students in a dance demonstration program during the closing week of the session, and two student concerts climaxed the students' work in music the same week.

"The quality of these music and dance concets is something of which the college is particularly proud," commented Professor Hopper. "We are glad that they are open to the public and we believe the entire community benefits from them."

The creative arts sequence of two courses in general studies, directed by Prof. Albert Seay of the Colorado College music department, had four colloquia for its students and the public. Discussion leaders included Dr. Charles Nilon of the University of Colorado English department; Walter Weber, Colorado Springs architect; Lillian de la Torre, Colorado Springs author; and Mrs. E. S. Teason and Miss Dorothy Garrigue, both of Colorado Springs.

Public lecturers were William Moyer, associate director of the Peace Corps for university affairs; Harold Schiff, educational director of the Anti-Defamation League of New York City; and Dr. Stewart Easton, visiting professor of history. Dr. Easton's talk will be rebroadcast over station KCMS on September 9 for the benefit of those who missed his discussion of European colonialism.

The Human Relations Workshop, a three-week study of minority groups and how to improve human relationships, and three Continuing Education Seminars of one week's duration each also were highlights of the session. More than 60 students participated in these special programs.

Miriam M. Ritvo of the Boston University Human Relations Center directed the workshop, while Professors Glenn E. Brooks of the political science department, Richard M. Pearl of the geology department, and Darnell Rucker of the philosophy department conducted the three seminars for laymen and students.

Man Jailed in Probe Of Shoplifting

Delmer Coy Hurt, 25, of 507 E. Kiowa St., was booked into county jail Wednesday for investigation of shoplifting, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Lee Quein and Bob Newman, Hurt was seen entering the Furr Food Store at 2325 E. Platte Ave. Bill Burkett, manager of the store told the deputies Hurt picked up an empty box, filled it with several packages of meat and walked out the door to his car. A few seconds later he returned and repeated the process.

When he started to drive off he was stopped by a store employee and brought back inside with the two boxes which contained a wide selection of different types of meat worth $40.11.

Teamsters Union To Hold Dance

The Teamsters Union, Local 146, will sponsor its annual Goodwill Labor Ball at 8:30 p.m., Friday in the City Auditorium.

A check for $1,000 will be presented to the American Medical Center at Denver, earmarked for the continuance of research in the field of cancer.

Fred W. Bierig, president of Local 146, said, "This contribution is made possible by the businessmen in the community who have so generously purchased tickets."

A total of 250 tickets were presented to the USO by Bierig and Lawrence (Bud) Myers, benefit chairman, to be used by servicemen of the area. These may be obtained at the USO while the supply lasts.

Samuel Herzog Dies in His Sleep Today

Samuel Albert Herzog, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Herzog, 615 Cheyenne Blvd., died at his parents' home, where he resided, this morning. He had suffered acutely from diabetes since last December and died in his sleep. He was breathing normally when his father looked into his room at midnight, but was dead when his father next looked into his room at 4 a.m., Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche said.

Mr. Herzog was born in Colorado Springs Oct. 7, 1909, and lived here all his life. He was unmarried. He was employed in the gas division of the city utilities. Besides his parents he is survived by cousins in Kansas and an uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Herzog for many years conducted the Regal Drugstore, Tejon Street and Colorado Avenue, and Samuel Herzog then worked in the store. Mrs. Albert Herzog now operates the Martin Dress Shop.

The Swan Funeral home has charge of funeral arrangements, which have not been completed.

Transportation Director at AFA to Retire

The director of transportation at the Air Force Academy is retiring from the Air Force after more than 20 years active federal service.

Maj. James E. Pesterfield will retire from the Air Force, effective Sept. 1.

In June, Maj. Pesterfield received the Air Force Commendation Medal for service as transportation director. During the period prior to the opening of the permanent Academy site, the major was responsible for planning and establishing the Academy motor pool.

Under Maj. Pesterfield's supervision, the motor pool received three outstanding inspection ratings.

Maj. Pesterfield was born in Maysville, Oka., and joined the service shortly after graduating from high school in 1940. During World War II he served as an aircraft mechanic.

He was recalled to active duty as a second lieutenant in October 1950, and subsequently served two tours in Japan and one in Iceland.

Customers Called as Phone Firm Prepares New Service

Direct Distance Dialing will be introduced in Colorado Springs, Black Forest, Cascade, Chipita Park, Fountain, Green Mountain Falls, Manitou Springs, Security, and Woodland Park on November 18, 1962. One of the latest advances in telephone service, Direct Distance Dialing will enable telephone users to dial their own long distance calls, according to Glenn W. Anderson, district manager for Mountain States Telephone.

A team of telephone employees is now in the process of calling some 50,000 telephone customers in these areas. All new customers who subscribe for telephone service between now and November 18 will also be contacted.

Western Electric and Mountain States Telephone people have been working behind the scenes for several months to provide and install the tons of equipment with some 65 million telephones throughout the United States. The total project represents a $1,300,000 investment.

The introduction of DDD is part of a program in which the entire country is divided into telephone numbering plan areas. Each area has been assigned a special three digit area code.

To place an out-of-state DDD call, a one or two-party line customer in Colorado Springs will first dial the digit 1, which connects him with the direct dialing equipment. He will then dial the area code followed by the telephone number in the town he wishes to call.

To place a call within Colorado, the customer will first dial the digit 1 and then the telephone number in the Colorado town.

Four-party line customers in Colorado Springs and all customers living in outlying areas will also dial the digit 1 for DDD. An operator, however, will then come in on the call and ask the number being called and will key it into the system.

In a matter of seconds, electronic equipment, locally and across the nation, will go into action to select a circuit and the called telephone will begin to ring. Should the main pathway be busy, the equipment instantly selects one of the several alternate routes.

Nationwide dialing first began in the Bell System in Englewood, New Jersey on a test basis in 1952. The service is rapidly expanding to meet the demands of the calling public, Anderson said.

Candidate Tells Gathering of Team Efforts

El Paso County legislators made an attempt to cut 610 thousand unneeded dollars from the 1962 state budget, State Senator L. T. Skiffington disclosed to a gatheringing of voters last night at the Albert Konselman home, 1619 Wood Ave.

"The fact that we got as far as we did with the legislation in a body unfriendly to a tax cut, was due to the fact that the El Paso county delegation — Sen. Cheever, Reps. Lennox, Ohlson and Braden and myself — worked as a team," Skiffington said. "If it is a school bill, or health and welfare or finance the legislators all get in a huddle and we discuss the bills. We like and respect each other's views which, I feel, gives the county a better and more effective voice in both chambers."

Skiffington said he had killed bills that would put too heavy a burden on business or industry. He cited a 1961 bill, which he was instrumental in defeating, that would have set up an air conditioning and refrigeration board, making anyone engaged in such a business pay a $150 license fee plus having state inspection.

"The air conditioning people came to me asking help as they felt the bill was unnecessary, not wanted, a costly burden and inconvenient. Nor would it cause better work. This bill was defeated."

Skiffington said he would not make an issue out of the mental health programs. "I am backing Dr. Bower the psychiatrist in Pueblo with his new program. I believe we should give him our support as to be critical may cause further chaos and much mental anguish to these ill people who need our help.

"I have made a point to talk to people that have members of their family in the hospital. . . . they tell me we need more trained personnel. Dr. Bower is doing his very best to train nurses, technical assistants and ward supervisors as fast as possible.

"The state has set up a pay scale for increasing the pay of the doctors and other professional people, and we are making headway.

"The Chamber of Commerce was given a pat on the back by the Senator, who said they had worked hard to gain industry for this area."

Skiffington, a pharmacist, is seeking his third term in the Colorado Senate. He has been in politics at the county, state, and local level for 27 years, was voted as one of the most effectively conservative members of the legislature by newsmen in 1961.

Public Invited To Massive Carson Parade

Fifth Division mechanized, 10,000 strong, will pass in review Friday honoring Col. William M. Kasper, outgoing chief of staff. Public is welcome to attend the massive parade and review on Ft. Carson's Pershing Field.

Maj. Gen. A. H. Manhart, Carson and division commander, will be reviewing officer for the first formal review held by the division. Col. Carl G. Lutz, 5th Division Artillery commander, will be commander of troops.

Marchers will include 6,000 from the first and third brigade, 2,300 from Divarty and approximately 1,700 from 5th Headquarters Company and Support Command. Col. Kasper will go to the Army Combat Developments Command at Ft. Belvoir, Va. His successor is Col. H. V. Middleworth who comes from an assignment in Korea.

Civilian dignitaries and friends will be present.

City Budget Discussions Slated in Early September

City Manager John M. Biery will begin discussing budgets with the various city department heads during the first two weeks in September, with a public hearing to be held during the third week of September.

Biery said there may be more than one public discussion of the budget because of the financial complexities facing the city in its 1963 budget.

The new mill levy must be certified by Oct. 16.

Biery said Wednesday that he had received budget requests from all department heads except the municipal magistrate and the City-County Health Department.

The city manager said he does not want to discuss the budget figures until he had met with the department heads for further discussion.

But he said that the 1963 budget will be the "most difficult" he has had to contend with in the 11 years he has been in Colorado Springs.

For one thing, he said, annexations and growth are causing problems and no taxes from the new areas will be available from these new sections for possibly two years.

For another thing, the city manager said, the assessed valuation will be only about $2 million more for next year.

Biery said that he was anticipating a decrease in miscellaneous revenues next year of about $61,000. This decrease will be mainly in the highway users fund since the city in 1963 will not receive $1.50 per vehicle as it has in the past.

Biery said that between $40,000 and $50,000 has already been committed for salaries for six new police officers hired this year and paid out of surplus funds.

And it may be necessary to hire two additional police officers in 1963, he said.

Biery said at least one new fire station should be built in the northeast section of the city, even tho several more are needed.

There has been only one new fire station built in the city in the past 10 years altho the population has doubled in that time.

Another item which will be taken care of next year is the remodeling of City Hall, since the police department will move into its new building in December.

Architect Gordon Sweet has estimated that this remodeling will cost somewhatere between $100,000 and $130,000.

The city manager said that in the past 10 years he has always attempted to be conservative in his budgets and hold the line on taxes.

He said he would attempt to do this again next year but the problems with growth of the area, less revenue and a much smaller hike in property valuations makes the problem "tremendously difficult."

Biery said he should have a better idea of budget figures after discussions have been held with the department heads the first two weeks in September.

Nine Windows Broken At Security School

The sheriff's office reported Wednesday that over the past week nine plate glass windows worth $270 have been smashed at the South Security Elementary School.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis said some of them may have been broken by accident as there are many small children playing ball on the grounds. Others seem to have been smashed deliberately.

How to Be Real Gourment Shown In Five Steps

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — At long last a solitary figure appears on the horizon to worry for civilization at the nation's new wave of gourmet societies which offer with each membership card everything from free soup to half-price after-dinner culture.

The worrier is Gregory Thomas who is, to use his word, "concerned" about this mass movement.

Now, Thomas is wholly in favor of both gourmets and their societies, being himself a member of such remote organizations as the Confrerie des Chevaliers du Taste de Vin; the Chain des Rotisseurs; the Commanderie de Bordeau — exquisite groups which meet frequently to think about eating, to eat and to talk about it afterwards.

"But," says Thomas, "you cannot appreciate food when your gourmet society has ulterior motives — selling books, promoting products, building restaurant clientele or making money for a chef.

"One does not become a gourmet by buying a membership card. On the contrary one may be doing his appreciation considerable harm."

During a career in international law, undercover intelligence and now a world-wide perfume organization, Thomas has eaten widely. He concludes:

"The proper gourmet dinner is a duel between two friendly fencers—the chef and the diner. Consequently, a dinner for more than 40 or 50 people cannot truly be a gourmet dinner. Neither can a meal where several alternate dishes are offered on a menu."

One can, however, take real steps toward becoming a gourmet without joining any organization. Here are five suggestions on how to start, drawn from Thomas' experience:

1. Try not to accept dinner invitations from friends, even close friends.

"In the first place," Thomas says, "the U.S. cocktail hour is much too long but quite necessary as it gets the guests inebriated enough to ingurgitate the unsavory mess the hostess sets on a blob of rice in each plate."

2. Make it a practice not to read the restaurant menu.

"I usually ask the captain for his recommendation," Thomas says. "Then I ask him to get the chef's confirmation. Of course, this may make the captain angry so I talk at length with him in his native tongue if he has one, reminisce about his home town which I've probably visited, and then everything becomes pleasant. The worst thing you can do is offer him money. He usually has more than you."

3. Don't take women along at strictly gourmet dinners.

"They turn the trip into a social event," Thomas explains. "Frequently they are bored with the long discussion of the meal with the chef afterwards. They also inhibit your language."

4. Eat frequently; think about eating and talk about eating often.

5. Read recipes regularly and try those that appeal to you.

"Some of the cookbooks and many of the newspaper and magazine recipes are excellent. I do much of the cooking in my home. Occasionally my wife helps with a dish that must be started early, while I'm still at the office.

"She doesn't object at all. The only thing that seems to bother her is that I watch TV while I eat."

National Guardsmen To Be Released Friday

DENVER (AP) — The last 1,500 members of the Colorado National Guard called into federal service last Oct. 1 will be released from active duty Friday, Maj. Gen. Joe C. Moffitt announced today.

Moffitt is the state's adjutant general.

The guardsmen are 535 members of the 120th Fighter Squadron. They returned to Buckley Field, near Denver, Saturday and are now being processed for release.

Denver Schools Use Co-Ordinators To Cut Turnover

DENVER (AP)—Looking for a way to beat the teacher turnover, a special agony for school boards across the country?

Then take a look at this city's flourishing teacher coordinator program, which can be modified to fit any school's needs.

Fifty-two coordinators work with an average of 600 new teachers each year, in the classroom, in individual conferences and in group meetings of the newest faculty members.

The coordinators, teachers with an average of 12 years' classroom experience, help the novices come to grips with basic problems like lesson planning, instruction problems and matters of child psychology.

They demonstrate effective ways to teach, either in group sessions or right in the classroom.

Says Dr. Arthur Olson of Denver's Division of Instructional Services: "The coordinator program has been a splendid success. It has helped stabilize our faculty and cut down on teacher turnover. It has been of tremendous importance in our recruitment of new teachers from outside the state. Also, it has relieved the school principal of much responsibility."

Coordinators, each of whom is assigned an average of 30 new teachers, work at the teaching levels with which they themselves are familiar.

A probationary teacher is assured of a once-a-week conference with her coordinator, along with opportunity to attend workshops with other new teachers. The program has also been extended to include second and third-year teachers.

Dr. Olson emphasizes that coordinators do not have any role in teacher appraisal. If they did, the rapport needed for a profitable relationship would be destroyed.

Among the coordinator's functions are these:

1. Helping organize the teacher's work in presession planning so that a successful beginning is made with classes.
2. Assisting with preparation of daily lesson plans.
3. Observing teachers and pupils working together in the classroom.
4. Conferring with teachers about instructional problems, pointing out strengths and making constructive suggestions for overcoming weaknesses.
5. Showing ways to individualize instruction and improve student motivation.
6. Helping to construct classroom tests or to select standardized tests, and helping to use these tests effectively.

There is no shortage of coordinators, who are screened and selected from a large reservoir of applicants.

On the average, the coordinator is compensated by a bonus salary of about $600 over his regular pay scale. Coordinators serve in that capacity indefinitely, barring promotion to executive jobs.

Johnson Tours Middle East by Presidential Jet

By ALVIN SPIVAK
United Press International

After a ceremonial send-off by President Kennedy, Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, took off aboard a presidential jet for a tour of Lebanon, Cyprus, Iran, Greece and Turkey. They were due to arrive at Beirut, Lebanon, Thursday.

The vice president will mingle with the people of the various countries and meet with key officials to assure them of this nation's steadfast support. Each of the five countries has received U.S. help in meeting internal or external pressures.

During his one-day visit to Lebanon, Johnson was expected to emphasize that the United States still backs the country as much as it did in 1958 when U.S. Marines were sent there during the political upheaval.

The vice president then will spend two days in Iran, which seeks more economic help as well as renewed pledges of U.S. backing because of that country's 1,200-mile border with Russia.

In Iran, as well as in Greece and Turkey, the vice president will try to convince officials that U.S. withdrawal, or planned withdrawal, of "defense support" grants is wise.

In the past these grants have helped the countries support armed forces which already are receiving direct U.S. military aid in the form of planes, tanks and other weapons. Defense support grants already have been taken away from Iran and Greece and are likely to be withdrawn from Turkey.

The U.S. wants to transfer aid emphasis to development loans designed to build up the economic strength of the countries.

The vice president's 16-day trip will be concluded with a stop in Rome where he is expected to ask Italian officials to try to speed their U.S.-supported space program.

Goldwyn Movies Still Untapped On TV Market

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Samuel Goldwyn, whose 80th birthday will be marked by an industry dinner Sunday night, shows no loss of his powers as a negotiator.

The backlog of Goldwyn movies, which he wholly owns, is one of the few remaining treasuries as yet untapped by television.

"The networks come around every year to ask me about it," he remarked recently with a contented smile. "The offers get better every time.

"When I turn them down, they ask me what I would consider for the firms. I tell them I am like a young man who wants to get married. He can't tell you what his future wife will be like, but he knows that he will recognize her when he sees her."

Goldwyn has had offers for the entire backlog and for "Hans Christian Andersen" as a holiday special. So far, no sale.

"I waited until feature pictures were being presented importantly in prime time, not in the afternoon or late at night when working people can't see them," he remarked. "now that the networks are showing them in the evening, I might be interested."

Gig Young is once again carrying the comedy load in "Three on a Match," in which the leading man is Kirk Douglas. His last outing was the highly successful "That Touch of Mink" with Cary Grant.

The No. 2 position doesn't bother Gig. Nor does being pegged as a bibulous, offbeat character.

"An actor is always getting typed," he philosophized. "Right after the war, I was typed as Errol Flynn's buddy. Then I did 'Come Fill the Cup' and had a string of drunks.

"I did comedy on the stage in my early career, but I never had any in films until I played 'Oh Men, Oh Women' on Broadway. Now I'm typed in comedy. Listen—the way comedies are selling nowadays, that ain't bad."

"The Pigeon That Took Rome" is the latest effort to find laughs in warfare and it is largely successful. The film, photographed in Italy with Hollywood interiors, is a fanciful yarn about undercover work before the liberating of Rome. It explores some familiar themes but with some new twists and a healthy cynicism throughout.

Charlton Heston, obviously happy to be allowed into the 20th century, plays the yard-bitten Yank in fine style, and he gets much help from a lively Italo-American cast including Elsa Martinelli and Harry Guardino.

Lakewood Firm Wins Pipeline Work Bid

DENVER (AP) — F. H. Linneman, Inc. of Lakewood made the low bids today for construction of a dam and pipeline on the South Platte River, 20 miles southwest of Denver.

The firm bid $582,029 on the dam and $1,148,587 on the pipeline, which will be constructed by the Denver Water Board. Work is expected to begin in October.

'On The Beach' Is Theme of Nukumer Party

Lady Nukumers met Thursday at the Acacia Hotel, for luncheon and cards, with 47 present. Hostess chairman, Ruby Haslan had Betty Blake and Myrtle Schermer as assistants. Their theme was "On the Beach," with the tables decorated with seashells and cutouts of children playing in the sand. The centerpiece of gladioli was awarded to Ona Herron.

Two new members were welcomed Lucille Harris, and Andrea Patterson. Guests introduced were Ebba Carlson, Alta Edwards, Nora Dirks, Mattie Erickson, Nellie Langford, and Mary Ann Kouba.

Fanny Dickerson was appointed chairman of a nominating committee to nominate a new slate of officers. She will be assisted by Ellan Anderson and Margurite Rosso.

The next regular meting will be held at 12:15 p.m., Aug. 30, Thursday, at the Acacia Hotel. All new lady residents are invited to attend and may obtain reservation by calling either Mrs. Daley, ME 2-1933, or Mrs. Ligler, ME 2-8156.

Ever serve ripe figs with paper-thin slices of ham as first course? For true gourmet fare, the ham should be the Italian type called prosciutto.

C. L. Heitman Addresses ABWA Group

The Columbine Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, at their August dinner and business meeting held at the Hackney House, heard a talk by Charles L. Heitman, Jr., Assistant City Manager and Personnel Director of the City of Colorado Springs. Mr. Heitman's subject was "Your City Government."

Among the many various subjects discussed by Mr. Heitman was the City Council-City Manager form of government which the city of Colorado Springs employs. He explained that the City Council consists of nine members, three of whom are elected each two years to serve for six years with overlapping terms of service. The Mayor, Vice-Mayor and City Manager are all elected by the members of the City Council. All members of the City Council and the Mayor and Vice-Mayor received no pay for their services. The City Manager does receive a yearly salary. The current City Manager is Mr. John M. Biery who has been employed in this capacity for over ten years.

Mr. Heitman also covered the various departments under the City Council, for example, Parks and Recreation, Zoning, etc., all of whom receive no pay for their services. There are approximately 500 people employed with the general departments and 600 employed with the Utilities Department, which he stated is self-supporting. There was a discussion on the Homestake Water program, the Police and Fire Departments, their personnel and retirement systems, hiring and firing of employees and other subjects.

Mr. Heitman is a graduate of West Point, Class of 1930 and retired in the grade of Colonel from the U. S. Army after 30 years of service in the Summer of 1960 at Ft. Carson. He has been employed with the City of Colorado Springs since February 1961.

Helen Jackson Receives Best Speaker Award

The regular meeting of the Pikes Peak Toastmistress Club was held Aug. 16 at the home of Esther Price, following a barbecue dinner.

Topicmistress, Elaine Harrell, called on several members with a cleverly schemed continued story. Toastmistress of the evening was introduced by the president. The toastmistress, Val Varela, introduced the speakers of the evening. Helen Jackson gave a humorous speech; Eunice Thiel, a research speech; and Jeane Dorsett, a book report. Helen Jackson was awarded the "Best Speaker of the Evening" gavel.

After the meeting, an auction was held by the Ways and Means Committee. Each member contributed a barbecue item to be auctioned.

Cheyenne Mt. Bridge Club Names Winners

The regular meeting of the Cheyenne Mountain Bridge Group was held on Thursday, with Mrs. G. T. Frey was hostess. A six-table Mitchell movement was used.

The North - South winners tied for first place between Mrs. G. T. Frey, Mrs. V. R. Wakefield, and Mrs. G. R. Barnett and Mrs. J. L. Landers.

East - West winners were first, Mrs. F. J. Lagasse and Mrs. K. S. Johnson; second Mrs. J. D. Ridlehuber and Mrs. R. A. Kallman.,

Mrs. Mary T. Ridlehuber is director of the group.

Light Up for Eyes Right

Housewife's 'New' Year Begins in the Fall

By RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The end of summer is the time when most housewives make plans for a "new" year.

The housewife's year doesn't begin in January. That's the middle of her year. The housewife's year begins in the fall.

By then vacation days are over. The easy - going living that belongs to summer is at an end. The children are back in school. Clubs and organizations that have suspended meetings for the summer months are meeting again. Major household jobs that have been put off until cooler weather at last have to be faced. Social life that has lagged through the summer months quickens its pace.

So Fall is a new year for the housewife; the time when she makes a new start, lays her plans for the months ahead and buckles down to work.

Late summer then, before fall activities begin, is the ideal time for the housewife to take stock of her life and to give it a good overhauling.

It's the perfect time to weed out unnecessary activities before they are picked up once again from force of habit. It is the time to weight each demand on her time and energy to see if it still has merit. It is the time to decide what she should say "yes" to and what she should dismiss with a definite "no."

If a housewife doesn't do this kind of weighing and considering and deciding about her life in the late summer, she tends to put it off for another full year. Without realizing what is happening she is back in the same old groove, doing the same old things, for not better reason than that is what she did last year and the year before and the year before that.

So before summer draws to a close and fall is upon you, do a little stock - taking and plan the "new" year ahead.

New Math Adds Up to Sum Fun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As many parents have discovered to their embarrassment, schools aren't teaching mathematics the way they used to do.

As rapidly as qualified teachers are available, schools across the country are introducing "new math" courses, which stress concepts rather than rote performance of memorized steps in computation.

Recognizing that this experience can be shattering to parental dignity, some schools have begun to offer "face-saver" courses for adults. The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics said the courses range from briefing sessions for parents, conducted by math teachers, to full-fledged study programs in the new mathematics.

The latter are worthwhile, the Council said, even for adults who don't have to help their children with homework. They provide a glimpse into the space-age world of computers and calculators, and can be useful in interpreting statistics, making business decisions, calculating the return on investments, installment buying, and following economic trends.

Cook's Tour

By JEANNE LESEM

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new guide to fat-controlled cooking is available only on a doctor's prescription.

"Planning Fat-Controlled Meals for 1200 and 1800 Calories" contains meal planning and shopping guides and 18 basic recipes. It also tells how to avoid dietary pitfalls when eating away from home.

The booklet, distributed free by physicians and local heart associations, is a cooperative production of the American Heart Assn., the American Dietetic Assn., and the heart disease control program of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Other new cookbooks include:

"The Fine Art of Chinese Cooking" by Dr. Lee Su Jan (Bobbs-Merrill), which should also appeal to low-fat dieters because many Chinese foods are prepared with little oil. One chapter deals entirely with leftovers. Unfortunately, directions for some recipes are cross-referenced, increasing the possibility of cooking errors.

For entertainment, the "Overseas Press Club Cook Book" (Doubleday) rates high. Anecdotes with the recipes tend to confirm the popular image of foreign correspondents as glamorous types whose assignments often lead to a well-laden table.

"Traditional Recipes of the Provinces of France" (Doubleday), a cooking, wine and travel guide, was prepared by the late Curnonsky, pseudonym for Maurice-Edmond Sailland, an honored French gastronome. The book contains such unfamiliar recipes as a double-crust unsweetened pumpkin and onion pie, sausages filled with leafy green vegetables, and garlic sauce made with 18 heads of garlic, 10 shallots and 1 large onion in 7 cups of liquid. The sauce cooks down to 6 servings.

"The Sunday News Family Cookbook" by Alice Petersen and Ella Elvin (Rowman and Littlefield) is a fine general cookbook with 1,500 resipes, and 337 color photographs. American, international and holiday recipes include even Jewish bagels, doughnut shaped hard rolls that are simmered before baking.

"Jolie Gabor's Family Cookbook" (Crowell) by the mother of the three beautiful Gabor sisters makes one wonder how mama and the girls kept their shapely figures on such rich fare. Outstanding recipes include chestnut dishes for every course from soup through dessert, and fruit soups.

If bear is your game, the "Sunset Barbecue Book" (Lane) tells how to cook it with juniper berries and two sauces. Recipes for more mundane fare are good, too.

"Sunset Salad Book" (Lane) and the "I Love to Cook Book" by Ruth Bateman (Ward Ritchie Press) also contain imaginative recipes. Many salads are one-dish meals.

New paperback originals include "The London Times Cookery Book" (Dolphin), "Happy Endings", a book of desserts by Edna McHugh, "The Art of Parisian Cooking" by Colette Black, "The Hamburger Cookbook" and "Cooking from the Pantry Shelf", both by Myra Waldo (Collier).

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His Ignorance Is Obvious

DEAR ABBY: My sister has been in the State Mental Hospital for many years. Her brain was damaged at birth and there is no hope for recovery. My husband is ashamed of it and has asked me not to mention it to anyone. Our children are 6 and 8 and he says if they should hear of it we should deny it, as he doesn't want them to know there is insanity in our family. I know he is wrong, but he won't listen to me. Maybe he'll listen to you. —GETTING NOWHERE

DEAR GETTING: There are few families who have not had (or will not have) a relative with a mental illness. Our minds can suffer a breakdown just like our kidneys, livers or our hearts. A mental patient is as blameless for his condition as a cancer patient. Contact your local Mental Health Society and ask for free pamphlets. Your husband's ignorance need not be permanent.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband was born he had brothers and sisters who were married and had children of their own. Consequently, my husband is younger than many of his nieces and nephews. One of his nieces is married to a man who is ten years older than I am, and he insists on calling me "Aunt Mary." He is related to me only through marriage and I resent this "Aunt Mary" business because he emphasizes the "aunt" when there is a crowd around. I'd rather he called me "Mary." How can I get my point across? —AUNT MARY

DEAR AUNT MARY: Tell him, good-naturedly (when there is a crowd around), "Out of respect for my elders, I really shouldn't correct you in public, but won't you please call me 'Mary'?"

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who is so ignorant that all he can talk about is his job? When we sit down for a meal all he talks about is the different people he works with and what happened at the shop that day. I get so bored I could haul off and smack my old man in the mouth. I am 17. — FED-UP BOY

DEAR FED: Who is feeding you, Sonny? If it's your "old man," you had better keep quiet or else leave the table—hungry.

DEAR ABBY: I don't see why a 2-year-old child rates space in your column just beacuse she does the Twist. My baby is ten months old and he can whistle and snap his fingers with both hands. —"SOMETHING TO BRAG ABOUT" —Newark, N.J.)

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Seven of Spades.

Whenever the combined assets do not leave the declarer much margin for error, he must exercise great care in the management of his resources. South in today's hand displayed foresight as well as a deft touch to earn his triumph.

The bidding was sound. Although North lacks by one point the technical requirements for a jump raise to three notrump, he has adequate compensation in the form of a readily establishable five card suit.

West had no very attractive lead of his own, so he decided to open the seven of spades despite the fact that he hedl only a singleton in his partner's suit. South made a very shrewd play at trick one from the dummy, when he followed with the deuce instead o putting up an honor. If the jack of spades is played, East can eliminate any subsequent entry to the dummy in this suit by refusing to cover with his king.

East played a low spade on his partner's seven and declarer won the trick with the ten, in his hand. At trick two he made his next unusual play, the ten of hearts. When West played low, the ten was permitted to ride for a finesse. It held the trick and South followed up by cashing the king of hearts. A spade was led to dummy's jack to drive out the king and establish the queen of spades as an entry to run the dummy's good hearts. In all, declarer scored five heart tricks, three spades, and two aces to make four notrump.

It should be observed that declarer's first round finesse against the jack of hearts was merely a safety play to assure the success of his contract. If the finesse loses to the jack in East's hand, South wins the return in his own hand if either a diamond or a club is led. He next plays the king of hearts and overtakes in dummy to run the rest of the suit. The spade finesse may no wbe taken to give declarer three spade tricks which along with four hearts and two aces add up to the required nine.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever get provoked because your flour cannister just won't hold five pounds of flour and there you are with flour left over the weevils?

I solved this! At the same time, I also solved the problem of making gravy. Fill a big, heavy, dry iron skillet with leftover flour and place this in your oven at 250 degrees. Stir this every so often with your fork or pancake turner. Mash out all the little lumps as you stir, until the flour is brown.

At this low temperature, the flour won't burn. It may take a long time, but believe me... the good brown parched taste is well worth it. Be sure to let the flour bake until it is as brown as you can get it. Then store it in any old can or jar with a tight lid.

This concoction can be used in so many things and makes them so much better.

When you fry bacon, chicken or chops... even steak... use this. Then just stir in the proper amount of the mixture into the warm grease for gravy. No need to brown further. Just add milk or meat stock, season with salt and pepper, and you have the best gravy ever!

I have made a good gravy with this same concoction by adding a couple of cubes of bouillon. Don't knock it until you have tried it. It's terrific!

My mother-in-law browns a little flour in her dry iron skillet on top of the stove when she does not have any made up. This takes constant watching and stirring but works just as well.

You will have more compliments on your gravy and not much, if any, left. I'll tell you I hope it helps you lumpy gravy-makers... nary a lump and it's always brown.

Fellow Sufferer

Dear Heloise:

Me, too! Vinegar does so many things. There is nothing better for cleaning the dirtiest windows and mirrors than pure vinegar on a cloth, followed by wiping with a crumpled newspaper.

That "something" in the newsprint just does it. I believe the damper and more crumpled the paper becomes, the better it is. No lint! Just shine!

For the gals who use typewriters and have big families living in a million different places... do as we do in our family. Invest in typing paper and carbon paper and write the whole bloomin' family at the same time. You will love the results. We do! More letters to send and receive and better news coverage! Also works with pencil and carbon paper or a ball point pen.

Little 'Something' Dress

Anthony Blotta greets a fresh new season with his little "something" dress that can do nothing but flatter its wearer. In the skillful hands of this master craftsman, bias and straight fabric are effectively combined and moulded into an outstanding style.

The sleeved yoke and the dress side sections are cut on the straight to contrast with the bias center parts. Its pleat-eased skirt front takes a slow curve over the hips while the back panels widen into a small flare at the hem.

To keep everything beautifully under control and insure a wonderful fit, the skirt is smoothly darted at the sides. A perfect treasure for any season and almost any occasion in sheer wool, fine tweeds, worsteds, silk or rayon crepe, faille, shantung, linen or novelty cotton.

From these corresponding body measurements, select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

Try This Popular Summer Salad Soup

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Gazpacho, one of the most popular, is a combination of crisp garden vegetables with chilled beef broth.

Garden Gazpacho
(Makes 2 to 3 servings)

1 can (10½-ounces) condensed beef broth
2 tablespoon chopped cucumber
1 tablespoon minced celery
1 tablespoon sliced green onions
¼ cup chopped fresh tomato
2 drops Tabasco
Thin green pepper rings

Keep can of soup in refrigerator 3 to 4 hours. Combine vegetables; chill thoroughly. Open soup and mix with vegetables; add tabasco. Serve in chilled bowls. Garnish each serving with a thin green pepper ring.

Jellied Consomme With Cole Slaw
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

2 cans (10½-ounces each) condensed consomme
1½ cups chopped cabbage
¼ cup grated carrot
1 teaspoon grated onion
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
¼ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Chill unopened cans of consomme in refrigerator at least 4 hours. Combine vegetables, salt and pepper. Blend mayonnaise, sour cream and lemon juice; fold into cabbage mixture. Chill. Spoon cole slaw into chilled bowls and spoon jellied consomme over.

Fitness Program Eases Car Jam

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Nearly everybody walks or rides a bicycle to the Robert S. Hyer elementary school here.

Reporting to the National Education Association, Emily Scott, physical education teacher, said the move also eliminates parents' car pools and traffic is held to a minimum around the school buildings.

Juniors Need College Forms

Ideally, during his junior year, and by all means no later than early fall of his senior year.

That's the latest word from educators, who say that November of the senior year is the "last safe date" for applying for admission to a major college.

Educators recommend that study of college catalogs and admission requirements begin in the 11th grade. Students may also take the preliminary scholastic aptitude (college board) tests in the junior high school year.

Banker Advises Newlyweds: Agree on Spending Methods

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — A couple's agreement on how they spend their money is far more important than how they actually spend it.

This budget wisdom comes from Philip W. Smith, vice president and manager of instalment credit for Chase Manhattan bank.

Smith, soft-spoken, relaxed, had none of the expected financial tables, no pat spending formula. His whole approach to the problem of family spending was refreshing and encouraging in contrast with so much of the current how-to budget advice.

Ideally, this banker feels, a young couple should discuss before marriage just how the family income will be dispensed. "But, of course, no one ever does. Would you really expect it?" he commented.

Smith would urge every couple in the first months of married life (and for the no longer newlyweds it never is too late) to establish a working partnership, come to agreement on the main points of how and when their money should be spent. Probably no two couples will come up with the same answer.

Rare, too, will be the husband and wife who agree completely on how to spend a given sum. If through trial and error, through give and take. They come to a working agreement, spending need not be a matter for argument.

If they both are willing to eat frankfurters and beans in order to squeeze in the theater evenings she treasures and the camping trips he wants them to take, it doesn't matter that their budget is out of balance when held up to a so-called model spending plan.

Smith would urge all young people to make early provision for a liberal and extremely flexible "miscellaneous" fund. He suggested that they talk to other couples in their group to help reach a realistic determination of what spending should encompass in view of the style of living in a given community.

The spending pattern of a couple in New York would, of course, differ sharply from that of a rural couple with the same income. They must decide what emphasis is to be put on social life, clothes, whether or not a car is necessary.

* * *

To critics of instalment buying, Smith answered that "most young people just could not afford to marry at a competitive age unless they were willing to go into debt. Most young couples could not furnish their homes if they tried to do it on a strictly cash basis."

Actually, he said, "debt is a wonderful education for the young: it teaches character and planning." And people who deal with instalment credit have experienced very little difficulty with young couples, he reported.

Insurance should be everybody's concern, Smith feels. Certainly there should be life insurance on the wage earner, with a program planned as early as possible to take advantage of favorable rates for the young. Other forms of insurance, again, depend on individual circumstances. "For instance, how dependent are they upon their own resources? In a real emergency would there be family to count on?"

An investment program should not be part of a young family's spending, he feels "First thought should be for savings which offer more flexibility. Investment can come later."

And Smith believes young people should put off buying a home. "It generally is not economical to buy for short term need and it is foolish as a long term commitment," he said. "Home ownership is not a savings but a luxury, albeit a very disirable one at the right time." A young couple, not established economically, he feels, needs freedom to determine its future — to go where opportunity and inclination beckon.

As for the old question: "to charge or not to charge," Smith said charge accounts, properly used, are a good thing. His wife has convinced him that, at least in this day and age, a charge account offers perhaps the best insurance of quality and satisfaction on purchases.

Tipton Station Grand Opening Friday, Saturday

W. D. (Tip) Tipton's Cragmor Enco Service station, located just off Nevada Avenue on Cragmor Road north of the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club, is having its grand opening Friday and Saturday.

It will be operated by W. D Tipton, a retired Army master sergeant — and former material and equipment inspector for Civil Service at the U. S. Air Force Academy.

Women customers attending the grand opening will be presented hand-made roses. Free refreshments will be served and candy and balloons will be given to children.

Persons may register for such free prizes as two safety seat belts installed in their cars and a gift certificate for merchandize from a Cragmor grocery.

Gifts will include five pound bags of sugar for each fill-up of 10 gallons or more of gas and a half dozen matching glasses with each prepaid lubrication and oil change to be done anytime later. S & H Green Stamps will be gven with each purchase.

Tipton, a native of Memphis, Tenn., is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. He enlisted in the Army in 1935, was stationed at Ent Air Force Base in 1953-54, leaving Ent for Iran where he was assigned until 1957. He applied for retirement in 1957 and returned to Colorado Springs to work in Civil Service at the Air Academy.

AUTOMATION — Part II

EDITOR'S NOTE—Life among the computers and robots of automation makes some special demands on people. Some like it Some don't. In this second of three articles on automation, AP business news writer Darden Chambliss surveys the changes it brings.

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK AP — Pennsylvania steelworker Bill Callahan feels he has gained a beachhead on automation's far shore.

After years of off-and-on work at a mill in Oil City, he has steady employment now that the plant is automated.

It's a different life. He likes the stability and some of the new working conditions. He is obviously glad he is not among the 15 per cent who were displaced. But Callahan says it's a change that takes some getting used to.

His experience seems representative, from studies made across the country, of those making the transition to automation's new life. And the number so affected is growing rapidly, drawing in professional men and many who had thought this was only for other people.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. plant that employees Callahan, a powerful but soft-spoken man in his 50s, used to make common steel tubing such as that used in children's swing sets.

But this was easy to make and competitors multipled. The market fluctuated and so did the work week.

Consoles were installed and switches took over jobs done before by muscle and levers.

Work has begun to hum and Callahan no longer wonders, as he once did, whether he'll arrive at the plant only to find the schedule calls for merely an hour's production that day.

He likes it better, although he comments, "The mental drain is much heavier."

"You have to be at attention eight hours a day without let-up, and it wears you down," he says.

His experience jibes with studies made at other automated factories, a mixed blessing but generally an improvement.

Workers often find that they profit from the pampering of the expensive and delicate automation machinery. Factories are cleaned spotless, painted freshly and air-conditioned.

Noise is reduced. Safety is increased. The worker may wear a white uniform instead of greasy overalls. He often sits instead of stands. Pay is generally better.

In offices, where data-processing machines are just beginning to have their heaviest impact, some effects have been opposite to those of the factory.

Clattering computer printers shatter the former peace and scattering work stations disturbs office coziness. The sheer economics of getting full mileage out of these expensive computers has meant installing shifts.

But surveys indicate that pay is often better and work perhaps more challenging. Workers enjoy being on the ground floor of things to come and take pride in working in showcase offices that the boss shows off to visitors.

Automation increasingly puts a premium on the careful, analytical thinker who can make full use of the valuable aids computers provide.

The man who prides himself on snap decisions from limited information, and who uses that limitation as a crutch when he's wrong, may founder when he and his cohorts each have access to computers.

"The executive who gets ahead won't necessarily be the one who's the most charming over wine," says automation expert John Diebold. "He'll be the one who knows what questions to ask the computer."

In addition to the instant-information function of computers, there is also their ability to make decisions by themselves.

Lawyers already are studying the idea of reducing cases to computer memory drums so they could, almost in an instant, dredge up all the pertinent precedents on a specific legal question. The trial lawyer whose fame secretly rests upon his remarkable young clerk may find computers cancel his advantage.

These various systems-in hospitals, office buildings, factories — suggest a drastic revision in the way work is done, and in who does it.

Economist-writer Robert Heilbroner looks into an automated future and says, "It is perfectly possible to assume that work will be the function of a minority, more of aprivilege than a necessity in a time of enormous social abundance."

Deciding how to divvy up society's wealth, if paychecks no longer spread around that evenly, may take some original thinking, he says.

CIG Six-Month Net Income $145 Per Common Share

Colorado Interstate Gas Company's consolidated net income for the six months ended June 30 was $4,450,485, or $1.45 per common share after provision for preferred dividends, it was reported today.

For the 12 months ended June 30, consolidated net income was $8,190,591, or $2.74 per common share. For the comparable six and 12 months periods ended June 30, 1961, consolidated net income was $1.65 and $2.94 per common share respectively.

In his letter to stockholders, President W. E. Mueller said that this quarterly report is the first one issued by Colorado Interstate to include results of operations of Colorado Oil and Gas Corp. and its subsidiaries.

As a result of a stock exchange offer which ended July 2, Colorado Interstate now owns almost 95 per cent of the common stock of Colorado Oil.

Mueller reported operating results as good "except for the effect of severely depressed gasoline prices on Colorado Oil's Derby Refining Division, Wichita, Kans.

"These depressed prices have continued throughout the past 12 months and are responsible for the lower earnings in 1962 as compared to the corresponding periods for 1961," he said.

Lower short term sales to other pipeline companies caused a 2.6 per cent decline in Colorado Interstate's gas sales during the first six months of 1962 compared to the same period in 1961.

Colorado Oil's sales of crude oil and condensate increased about six per cent in the first half of 1962 to a daily average of more than 10,500 barrels.

Refinery thruout of the Derby Refining Division showed an increase of about 16 per cent to a daily average of 19,000 barrels for the first half of 1962. Proration regulation caused a decrease in Colorado Oil's natural gas sales.

Sales by the Marsh Instrument division of Colorado Oil recorded an increase of about 25 per cent in the first half of 1962.

Holly Sugar to Pay Dividends on Nov. 1

Directors of Holly Sugar Corp. Wednesday declared quarterly dividends of 37½ cents per share on the 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 35 cents a share on the common stock.

Both dividends are payable Nov. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 28.

Market Erases All Losses Since 'Black Monday'

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a vigorous rally Wednesday, the stock market crossed an important milestone, wiping out all its losses since the "Black Monday" of May 28.

Much ground still remained to be recaptured before the record heights of last December would be seen again, but in the eyes of Wall Street chartists an important psychological victory had been won for those who want higher prices.

Both the Dow Jones industrial average and The Associated Press average of 60 stocks were at their highest levels since May 24, the Thursday before the collapse of "Black Monday."

In the midst of the session, the Dow industrials topped their May 31 recovery peak of 613.36, drawing in a host of new buyers. The average was up 6.90 to 615.54 at the close. This left it roughly midway between the 1962 closing low of 535.76 reached June 26 and the historic peak of 734.91 attained Dec. 13, 1961.

The AP 60-stock average rose 2.4 to 226.1 with industrials up 3.8, rails up 1.3, and utilities up .9, making its biggest gain since July 2 when it rose 3.7.

An estimated $3.4 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in The AP average.

Motors paced the rally. Brokers credited a glowing 1963 forecast by General Motors for inspiring the advance.

Steels recovered from their retreat of the previous session. Savings-and-loans, several of the takeover or merger candidates among the oils, and a number of the electronics, office equipment, and photographic issues were standouts.

IBM rose 16¼ to 409 as it generated enthusiasm on the way up.

Volume swelled to 4.52 million shares from 3.73 million Tuesday.

Of 1,258 issues traded, 803 rose and 246 fell. New highs for the year totaled 17 and new lows 4.

Fourteen of the 15 most active stocks advanced.

Prices also advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregularly higher. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to higher.

Illinois Prep Player Dies Following Drill

GILLESPIE, Ill. (AP) — A Gillespie High School football player passed out in a locker room after a morning drill Wednesday and died about three hours later at St. Francis Hospital.

He was 15-year-old Andy Yurkovich, 6-foot-1½ and 244 pounds, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yurkovich of nearby Benld, Ill.

Corner James Warden said an autopsy showed the cause of death to be heat stroke.

A teammate of Yurkovich, Patrick Wesley, 15, of Gillespie also complained of feeling ill in the locker room. He was in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Coach August Dicenso said the players engaged in a light drill for about 75 minutes in football uniforms, including pads. The coach said it was hot and he watched the players closely to avoid over-exertion.

Heavier Trading Marks Continued Market Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavier trading accompanied a resumption of the stock market rally Thursday with some large gains early in the afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.0 with industrials ahead 1.2, rails up .6, and utilities up .7.

Among the general run of key stocks, gains ran from fractions to around a point. There were advances of 3 or 4 points among the more widely-moving issues.

The market's ability to complete the job of erasing all losses since the "Black Monday" of May 28 brought in additional buying, brokers said. Analysts noted that the month of August has historically produced the best gains of any month but they remarked also that in the past three years have topped out in August.

Meanwhile, there was little in the way of fresh news to top Wednesday's stimulating report that General Motors was predicting a seven-million-car sales year in 1963.

The ticker tape ran late for most of the first hour, when volume totaled 980,000 shares before tapering off to 810,000 in the second hour.

Auto shares kept generally ahead, Ford, GM, and American Motors adding fractions while Chrysler dipped and Studebaker traded about unchanged. Steels were narrowly higher on balance.

IBM, having scaled the resistance level of 400 in its price chart Wednesday, shrugged off an antitrust suit and added 5 or more points, helping to re-establish confidence among Wall Streeters who were appalled by IBM's drop from a 1961 high of 607 to a low of 300 this year.

Renewed demand also was reflected by a jump of more than 5 by Crown Cork, a gain of about 3 by Du Pont, and advances of a couple of points apiece by Polaroid and Zenith.

Financial Federation, gaining more than 2, took part in a continued rise by the savings and loan holding companies, but most other advances in this group were fractional.

Stimulated by an assortment of new contracts, Space Age stocks resumed their rise. Lockheed was up more than a point. Other advances were moderate.

Federal Debt Rises Above $300 Billion

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—In a year marked by disappointments that some phases of the economy fell short of expected heights the U.S. debt is an exception. Just as billed, it has risen above $300 billion for the first time.

Managing this huge debt is a collosal task in itself, since it changes from day to day, with some part almost always about to mature, and since it influences interest rates and financing of many other forms of debt, from state and local governments to corporate, mortgage and personal debt.

And even the proper distribution of the federal debt among various types of investors—banks, corporations, institutions, individuals—can be a problem, changing as the business cycle does.

The federal debt is expected to go on rising for a time, perhaps reaching a peak in midwinter then drop as the Treasury's seasonal flow of tax collections increases.

Beyond that is the possibility of even higher peaks for the debt—if tax rates are cut next year as now proposed, and if government expenditures should rise notably to combat a recession which some economists think probable in 1963. Other contingencies, which the Treasury must always keep in mind, are sudden international events which could increase expenditures for defense or for the race in space.

Already the Treasury spends more than $9 billion a year for interest on the debt. It has a very practical concern with the trend of interest rates.

The prospect is bleak enough to the traditional American way of thinking which labels debt as wrong and balanced budgets as a fixed goal. Individual experience is that personal budgets long out of balance lead to disaster.

But there is a new school of thinking, growing more articulate, which holds that a $300-billion government debt isn't as bad as it seems to some, and that balanced budgets under some conditions are harmful.

This school compares the $300-billion debt not with past levels of indebtedness but with the national income and with total national assets. This way the debt shows a smaller percentage now than in some past eras. It is smaller per capita than in the previous debt peak at the end of World War II because the debt has grown at a slower rate than the population.

In other words, these economists hold that we can afford a $300-billion federal debt.

But the immediate problem for the Treasury is this: It must keep eternally at paying it off, even when it is going further into debt.

At the individual's level this shows up in the sale and redemption of U.S. savings bonds. These activities go on constantly, with the ratio between them changing from month to month—and thus affecting the size of the total federal debt.

Each week the Treasury must also pay off more than a billion dollars worth of short-term bills coming due. It does this by offering new ones, and as often as not offers more new ones than old ones, thus raising new money—and the total debt.

Also longer-term notes and bonds mature at frequent intervals and must be paid. Here also the Treasury usually offers to swap new ones for old—and sometimes raises a little more money to boot.

That's how the debt grows. And the changes in interest rates paid each time, the types of offerings—long- or short-term—and the type of investor to whom they appeal all affect the economy by touching its very sensitive nerve; the money market.

Weichers Leads Jaycee Tourney

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Jim Weichers of Atherton, Calif., took a two-stroke lead in the first round of the 17th International Jaycee Golf Tournament Wednesday.

Weichers scored a 69 on the par 70 Spring Valley Country Club course. He was the only one among the 185 finishers to master par.

Two strokes behind Weichers with a 71 was Kent Kittle of Bethesda, Md. Finals of the 72-hole medial play will be held Saturday.

Second Manassas Battle Fought by Second Rebels

By PHILIP VAN DOREN STERN
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When the three men came out of the Confederate White House in Richmond on July 13, 1862, few people in that city realized that one of the most fruitful conferences of the Civil War had just been held. President Jefferson Davis said farewell to the two generals who were about to go to the front. Lee, as always, was in full uniform with polished boots and fine spurs. But Stonewall Jackson was poorly dressed. An observer said that "his cap . . . was pulled down over one eye . . . and his coat showed signs of much exposure to the weather."

No clear-cut plan of action had been adopted at the conference, but the three men knew that the Union Army, under its new commander, John Pope, was moving southward to Culpeper Courthouse. There was no time to lose.

So far, the Confederates had been on the defensive, content to hold off Union attacks at First Manassas, or Bull Run, in July, 1861, and in the battles around Richmond in June, 1862. McClellan's army, badly mauled but still a threat to the Confederate capital, was quartered on the James River near Harrison's Landing. Pope's separate force of nearly 50,000 men, called the Army of Virginia, had been assembled from old units and fresh recruits. It was in the area around Culpeper.

Pope got off to a bad start on July 14 when he compared his Eastern troops unfavorably with those in the West. And he antagonized Southern civilians by announcing a "get-tough" policy for non-combatants.

Lee's major problem at this time was to prevent McClellan and Pope from joining forces. Together, they would have more than twice as many troops as he could muster. He sent Jackson to Gordonsville, where he would soon have about 24,000 men in his command. On Aug. 7, Jackson's spies informed him that Pope was heading south. He hurried north to meet him, ran into the advance of the Union Army at Cedar Mountain on the 9th, and won a quick victory there which startled the North.

Meanwhile, Lee was pinned down near Richmond keeping watch on McClellan. Instinct told him that the army at Harrison's Landing was no longer a real threat, but he had to wait until he could be sure. On Aug. 13, matters came to a head. Lee heard that Burnside had taken about 12,000 troops from Fort Monroe to Fredericksburg. Now he learned that this force had gone on to join Pope. On the same day a deserter brought word that McClellan had abandoned the Peninsula and was moving men and supplies by ship to Aquia Creek on the Potomac.

After sending Longstreet with 10 brigades to Jackson, Lee left Richmond on Aug. 15, bound for Gordonsville. He met Jackson there and went into a council of war with him, Longstreet and Stuart. Together they planned the whirlwind campaign that was to be known as Second Manassas because it was fought on the same ground as the first.

Lee's plans were necessarily fluid at this time, but one thing was certain: he had to attack Pope before McClellan could arrive. His intentions were accidentally betrayed when one of Stuart's officers was captured while carrying a letter giving all the details. And Stuart himself was nearly taken prisoner by Federal cavalry at Verdiersville. He got away but lost his cloak and famous plumed hat.

When Pope read the captured battle plans, he quickly pulled his army back to the north side of the Rappahannock. Lee went toward him, crossing the Rapidan on Aug. 20, but he then lost two days trying to pass the closely guarded Rappahannock. On the 22nd, Stuart got permission to ride around Pope's army to raid the railroad behind it and bring back information. His hard-riding troops hit Catlett's Station in the midst of a thunderstorm. The raid was a complete success, for among other booty, Stuart joyfully rode off with Pope's best uniform, his personal baggage, and —most important of all—his papers. Both Lee and Pope now knew each other's plans, an extraordinary circumstance in any war.

But Lee acted first. Breaking an accepted rule of tactics, he divided his army, and on Aug. 25 sent Jackson and Stuart on a long swing west of Pope's widely spread forces to come east again through Thoroughfare Gap to attack Manassas Junction. Jackson's "foot cavalry" marched more than 50 miles through the mountains. When they reached Bristol Station they were between Pope's army and Washington. The Federals learned of their whereabouts when a locomotive engineer dashed through Jackson's troops under fire to run his train to the Alexandria Terminal. Union authorities there notified the War Department that the dreaded Confederates were only 26 miles from the capital. Before anything could be done to stop them, Jackson's hungry men fell upon the rich Federal stores at Manassas Junction on Aug. 27 and had a great feast.

Lee and Longstreet, following the route Jackson had taken, were only a day's march behind him. On the morning of the 27th, while Lee was riding far ahead of the column attended only by a few officers, a quartermaster galloped back, shouting that Federal cavalry were coming up the road. The officers spread out to protect their commander. Then the Union horsemen approached, stopped, and thinking that the Confederates were the head of a long column, turned around and rode off. It was a narrow escape for Lee—and at a crucial time.

At 3 a.m. on Aug. 28, Jackson moved from Manassas Junction to Groveton. Later that day, Lee was approaching Thoroughfare Gap. When the first troops entered the pass, shots were heard. A Federal division was posted there to stop them. The rocky walls of the gorge sent back resounding echoes. One observer said that "a gun fired in its depths gave forth roars fit to bring down the skies."

Lee then used a trick he had learned in the Mexican War. He sent troops north of the gap to attack the Federals in the rear. Their strength was found to be small, and they were quickly driven away. The Confederate columns hurried through the gap. On the afternoon of the next day they joined Jackson's troops who were already under heavy attack in the hills west of the fought-over field of First Manassas. When Longstreet's men went into position at Jackson's right, the Army of Northern Virginia, which had been dangerously split for three days, was together again.

The great fighting team of Lee, Jackson, Stuart and Longstreet was about to startle the world with a series of brilliant campaigns that would hold off the much more powerful Federal army for eight months. Jackson's and Longstreet's lines stretched for more than four miles along an unfinished railroad embankment and cut that ran from Sudley Church to the old Warrenton-Alexandria Road. Pope had been having trouble locating his elusive Confederate opponents. Now he knew where they were, although he did not learn until hours after the arrival of Longstreet's men that they, too, were facing him.

The battle of Second Manassas on Aug. 29 and 30 brought out the difference between Jackson and Longstreet. Jackson was all fire and dash and eagerness to attack. His subordinate, Jeb Stuart, was another daring fighter. Longstreet was brave, but he was slow and cautious, unwilling to take chances unless he knew the odds were favorable and could calculate the probable results. Lee had much of Jackson's pugnacity. Together the four men made a superb team, for Longstreet's caution balanced the others' impetuosity and willingness to take risks.

On the 29th, Lee got a sample of Longstreet's reluctance to move until he felt sure that the moment was ripe for an attack. Several times that day, Lee suggested that Longstreet advance, for the Federals were concentrating their fire on Jackson's section of the line. When Longstreet demurred, Lee was obviously disappointed, but he believed in giving his generals a free hand. Not until the next afternoon, when Jackson's men had long been under heavy fire, did Longstreet move. Then, sensing the exact moment (as did Lee), he sent his men into action. It was like striking a shaky structure that has begun to totter. As the Confederates swept across the field, the Federals, in a curious re-enactment of the battle that had been fought there 13 months before, broke and ran. And they fled down the same roads and crossed the same bridges McDowell's men had used.

When a doctor who had just returned from a tour of the corpse-strewn battlefield told Jackson, "General, this day has been won by nothing but stark and stern fighting," the God-fearing commander replied: "No, it has been won by nothing but the blessing and protection of Providence."

Jackson swept on to Chantilly where both Federal commanders, Phil Kearny and I. I. Stevens, were killed on Sept. 1. After Chantilly, Halleck ordered the Union forces to fall back to the defenses of Alexandria and Washington. The Second Manassas Campaign was over. Like the first, it was a complete victory for the Confederates. But the cost for both armies was high. Of the 73,000 Federals engaged, 14,462 were killed, wounded, or missing, while 9,474 of the 55,000 Confederates were casualties.

Pope was removed from command immediately after Chantilly. The British biographer of Jackson, Col. G. F. R. Henderson, says of the discredited Union commander:

"As a tactician Pope was incapable. As a strategist he lacked imagination, except in his dispatches. His horizon was limited, and he measured the capacity of his adversaries by his own . . . He had no conception that his adversaries would cheerfully accept great risks to achieve great ends; he had never dreamt of a general who would deliberately divide his army, or of one who would make 56 miles in two marches."

In Washington, Lincoln had to find a new general. Against the advice of his cabinet he appointed McClellan to be the temporary commander to defend the capital. If the Confederate Army had stayed put, McClellan, good at organization but poor in combat, might have been satisfactory—at least for a while. But Lee promptly started his army north to invade Maryland.

LOCOMOTIVE COCOONS

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI)—Now locomotives are being shipped overseas in "cocoons" instead of wood crating. The "cocoons" are made of a plastic-like material that's sprayed on like paint and can be peeled off at voyage's end. This new shipping technique was recently introduced by Alco Products, Inc., which "cocooned" 10 of its giant 118-ton locomotives to protect them from damage by sun, wind and salt water during their on-deck ocean trips from New York to Greece.

Wire Fabric Bids Asked by PAD

The purchasing and contracting Division at the Pueblo Army Depot issued an invitation for bid today on wire fabric for use in the Depot Maintenance Division.

To insure that a fair proportion of government procurement is placed with small business concerns, bids will be accepted only from those concerns certified as small businesses by the Small Business Administration or those concerns which are independently owned and operated.

The 34 units of wire fabric to be purchased by the Pueblo Army Depot must be galvanized steel, bulk, commercial grade, 2 x 2 mash, wire diameter .192", roll width 36" (25 foot roll).

Sealed bids must be submitted to the Purchasing and Contracting Division, Pueblo Army Depot, Pueblo, Colorado, Bldg. No. 4, in triplicate by 10:30 a.m. (MST), September 17, 1962 when they will be publicly opened.

Early elevators were run by hydraulic power.

Slight Tremors Tumble Buildings In Shock's Wake

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Slight earthquakes tumbled a few damaged buildings Wednesday in the wake of a series of temblors that caused about 15 deaths, injured at least 60 persons and wrought heavy damage across a belt of southern Italy.

But people of the affected region, though stunned and frightened by the violent disturbances Tuesday night, groped their way back to normal.

From this major port on the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Adriatic coast 150 miles away, Italians by the hundreds of thousands streamed back to jobs and homes they had fled in panic to stay outdoors through the night.

Vacationing Jacqueline Kennedy and her daughter Caroline went swimming as usual.

Though their cliffside villa at Ravello is only 45 miles southwest of the apparent epicenter of the worst quake, only slight tremors were felt in that region.

Mrs. Kennedy was visiting in the garden of another villa across town at the time. The jolt there also was slight.

The American First Lady visited the town square shortly afterward to shop. The square was thronged by many of the 2,500 villagers discussing limited effects of the quake — window rattling and felling of a few pictures from walls.

The major blow was a subterranean shudder that shook towns and villages for five seconds, cracking walls and windows, collapsing building and bridges and blacking out whole sections of the Italian peninsula because of downed power lines. Dozens of homes were destroyed.

Minor tremors occurred through the night and Wednesday morning.

Damage in Naples was slight. It was considerable in Avellino and Benevento, east of this city. More than 100 homes were damaged in the Appenine town of Ariano Irpino and huge cracks opened in the bell tower of its 15th century cathedral.

Throughout the stricken area, many residests huddled near camp fire in the countryside, or bundled together in parked cars for the night.

Many foreign tourists remained in tour buses. No foreigners were counted among the dead and injured.

With water and power systems disrupted in many communities, the situation was regarded as a national emergency. The Italian Red Cross provided blankets and food. Premier Amintore Fanfani flew from Rome to confer with officials and visit scenes of damage.

Creeping Optimism

Improved Forward Wall Should Aid L. A. Rams

By ART SPANDER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A long forgotten feeling of optimism crept through the Los Angeles Rams training camp this fall. Why, the coach even predicted the club could win as many games as it lost — and that would be something.

But Rams coach Bob Waterfield, who stocially has undergone two consecutive losing seasons — not to mention an unnerving front office squabble and several would-be player rebellions — has good reason to be encouraged.

The Rams have improved most where they were weakest — in the line.

Through an added year of experience to some of last year's players, trades and the college draft, Los Angeles has shored up its forward walls enough to at least think about a winning season.

Through trades the Rams acquired linebacker Bob Pellegrini from Philadelphia, tackle Larry Stephens from Cleveland and end Lou Cordileone from San Francisco. All are on defense.

Linebacker Les Richter, named to the Pro Bowl squad for the eighth straight year in 1961, is rated one of the best in the National Football League. In addition to the players acquired through trades, Richter will again be joined by Marlin McKeever—in his second season — Jack Pardee and Bill Jobko at linebackers.

Rookie tackle Merlin Olsen from Utah State is being counted on to bolster the defensive line and, along with ends Lamar Lundy and Deacon Jones and tackles John Lovetere and George Strugar put pressure on the opposing passer.

Offensively, the line couldn't provide protection for the Ram quarterbacks in 1961. But Frank Varrichione, Charles Cowan, Joe Scibelli, Jim Boeke and other members of the interior line have improved.

Veteran quarterback Zeke Bratkowski and rookies Ron Miller of Wisconsin and Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State had excellent protection in the recent 37-7 exhibition win over the Washington Redskins.

Once again the Rams' strongest offensive threat should be their running backs. In halfbacks Jon Arnett and Ollie Matson and fullback Dick Bass, Los Angeles has three of the finest runners in the league.

End Jim Phillips led the NFL receivers last year with 78 receptions for 1,092 yards and five touchdowns. So if Bratkowski and the rookies can get the throws away it's a good bet either Phillips or Carroll Dale will be around to catch them.

Smart Talk Wins Feature At Dog Track

It is the last of the 10-race cards for the current week at Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club tonight with the first post time set for 8 p.m.

All of tonight's events are over the 5-16 mile, with the exception of the final race of the evening which has been scheduled over the longer Springs Course of 2,080 feet.

In the ninth and feature race, Paul George's Aljora and P. C. and E. J. Alderson's Flying Blazer are the only two of the greyhounds that have finished in the money so far this season at RMKC. There is a win for each in the record columns, with Aljora having won the seventh race on Tuesday as she finished ahead of Faith Hope, Sky Hope and Midterm.

For Flying Blazer, it was a win in the eighth race on Tuesday as he finished — in a photo results — ahead of S. W. Red Man, by a nose, followed by Enthausasist and Head for The Hills.

In the daily double Wednesday night at RMKC, the holders of the one - seven tickets collected a handsome $207.40, but less than the record high daily double of the season, $282.80 paid on the second night of the season.

The fourth race Wednesday night had the highest quiniela pay - off of the night as Publicity and Qualify came in for the win and place positions to make the two - seven worth $96.40.

The feature race Wednesday saw B and B Kennel's Big Dusty finish in the last position, reversing the order from the first time he trecked the RMKC oval and won the Inaugural Feature on Monday night. In the winning slot was Smart Talk, from the P. C. and E. J. Alderson Kennel, and longshot that paid $23 to win and $6.80 and $6 on win and show.

Yogi Sparks Yank's Drive In 'Farewell' to Baseball

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

They say this is Yogi Berra's farewell season to baseball and it looks like he's given the Yankees another pennant to remember him by.

Old Yogi has been reduced to part-time activity this season and his batting average is a mere .225 but Wednesday night he delivered a two-run eighth-inning homer that gave the Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels and just about wrapped up Ralph Houk's second straight flag.

The Yankees have now given the Angels both barrels in their so-called "crucial" series. Barrel No. 1 was Tuesday's 11-4 victory and barrel No. 2 was Wednesday night's triumph stretching the Yankee lead to six games. All that remains is for the Yankees to deliver the coup de grace today.

A crowd of 49,389 at Los Angeles saw Leon Wagner's three-run first-inning homer off Whitey Ford enable the Angels to carry a 3-2 lead into the eighth. Then came that famous late-inning Yankee lightning. Pitcher Dan Osinski issued Mickey Mantle his third walk of the game and clutch hitting Yogi followed with the blow that just about stretched out the Angels stone cold dead. Roland Sheldon, who pitched only the seventh inning, received credit for his seventh win although Marshall Bridges finished.

The Chicago White Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles, 7-6, the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Boston Red Sox, 4-2, the Cleveland Indians topped the Detroit Tigers, 7-3, and the Minnesota Twins and Washington Senators played to a 10-inning 8-8 tie in other American League games.

The Philadelphia Phillies whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1, the New York Mets shaded the San Francisco Giants, 5-4, the Cincinnati Reds bombed the Chicago Cubs, 9-5, the Milwaukee Braves beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-4, and the Pittsburgh Pirates scored a 3-0 victory over the Houston Colts in the National League.

Mike Hershberger's ninth-inning homer off Hoyt Wilhelm provided White Sox reliever Frank Baumann with his sixth victory. Jerry Adair had four hits, including a homer, for the Orioles while Camilo Carreon homered for the White Sox.

Moe Drabowsky won his first game in the AL with the aid of Johnny Wyatt's shutout relief pitching and a homer by Gino Cimoli. Eddie Bressoud and Gary Geiger homered for the Red Sox.

Al Luplow's two-run triple helped to pave the way for Dick Donovan's 16th win against seven losses. Donovan went seven innings, yielding eight hits and striking out four. Vic Wertz homered for the Tigers.

Rich Collins' 10th-inning single enabled the Twins to come from behind for the third time and tie the Senators whereupon the umpires called the marathon because of rain and decreed that the teams settle the argument tonight as part of a twi-night doubleheader.

Chris Short pitched a three-hitter behind a seven-hit attack that included a homer and a single by Johnny Callison and a homer by Don Demeter. Frank Howard homered to produce the Dodgers' run.

Charlie Neal's eighth-inning single drove in an unearned run that enabled the Mets to beat the Giants and win their second consecutive game. Relief pitcher Ken MacKenzie picked up his fifth win although Roger Craig pitched the ninth. Felix Mantilla homered for the Mets.

Eddie Kasko hit a grand slam homer in the 10th inning as relief pitcher Joey Jay gained his 19th victory of the season in a three-hour and 49-minute struggle in which 42 players took part. Hank Foiles also homered for the Reds and Andre Rodgers had three hits for the Cubs.

Del Crandall's eighth-innig single drove in two runs for the Braves, who tagged Lind McDaniel with his eighth loss. Hank Aaron ran his hitting streak to 22 games while Stan Musial had a single and a triple.

Tom Sturdivant pitched a three hitter and Bob Skinner hit a two-run triple for the Pirates, who dealt George Brunet his second loss against one win. Dick Groat had three hits and Don Hoak two for the Pirates.

Houston to Use Blanda In Tussle With Bills

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Houston Oilers, showing no signs of deterioration after winning their second straight American Football League title last year, hope to haul out venerable George Blanda for a vigorous workout tonight when they play the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game in Mobile, Ala.

Blanda has spent most of the Oilers, three exhibition victories recovering from a thyroid operation, finally taking a brief spell at quarterback last Saturday night in a 20-10 victory over Boston, and coming in to kick four field goals and three conversations the week before in a 33-17 victory over Denver.

In the meantime, the 34-year-old, 13-year pro veteran has watched second-year man Jacky Lee direct the Oilers in fine style. In their first victory, the Cincinnati grad threw three touchdown passes. He added another in the Denver game.

Lees performance has given coach Frank (Pop) Ivy a good indication that the quarterback slot will be well-protected this year. It probably also has given Blanda's thyroid condition a much faster turn for the better, for he was not expected to see much action until the regular season begins next month.

Wednesday night, the Boston Patriots handed the New York Titans their third straight pre-season loss—taking a 17-10 victory at Lowell, Mass., before a crowd of 11,118. New York also lost all-league fullback Bill Mathis with a broken collarbone.

Veteran Babe Parilli, obtained from Oakland, completed 13 of 26 passes for 156 yards and one touchdown and went one yard on a sneak for the winning score in the fourth quarter. Halfback Ron Burton ran 10 times for 81 yards, including a 39-yard burst that set up the winning touchdown.

Blanda will be opposed by another pro veteran who has to unlimber a bit. Al Dorow will direct the Bills, who have split two games so far. He was traded by the New York Titans last week and fills a spot Buffalo has long-considered its weakest position.

Houston has now gone unbeaten in 14 straight games, including last season, and the Mobile exhibition will be a preview of the regular season opener between the two clubs in Buffalo two weeks hence.

The Chicago Bears of the National League, prepping for their bone-rattling exhibition Saturday night against Green Bay in Milwaukee, had a brief scare Wednesday when four regulars turned up with throat and lung inflamations. However, doctors said that halfback Jim Dooley and guard Roger Davis of the offensive platoon, and back Richie Petitbon and end Doug Atkins of the defensive team, would be well enough to play within 48 hours.

The San Francisco 49ers also announced that regular center Frank Morze would have to undergo surgery to repair damaged ligaments in his right knee. He was injured in the 49ers first exhibition game against the Minnesota Vikings.

Denver of the AFL trimmed its roster to one below the required 43 limit when it released Luther Hayes, whom the Broncos had purchased from the San Diego Chargers in the off-season. He was in his second year of pro ball.

Rookies Ousting Veterans In Scramble for AFL Spots

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — American Football League clubs had to cut to 43 players this week and 106 rookies survived. A number of them not only stayed but were regarded as likely starters when the league race officially begins.

San Diego had seven rookies in serious contention, these including Lance Alworth, Ark.,; Jerry Robinson, Grambling, and Bert Coan, Kansas, backs.

Dallas had a like number making strong bids. These included Fred Arbanas, delayed rookie from Michigan State who missed last season with a back injury and who appears to have a tight end starting spot clinched; Bill Hull, Wake Forest, end; Curtis McClinton, Kan., halfback-fullback and Eddie Wilson, Ariz., quarterback with Jim Saxton, Tex., flanker.

Seven Houston rookies were moving up, headed by the surprise of the season, free agent Charles Frazier, a 9.5 sprinter from Texas Southern who did not play college football. Frazier has been starting ahead of Bill Groman, injured all-leaguer, at a flanker post.

At Buffalo six rookies were pushing steadily to the front — Mike Stratton, Tennessee, Linebacker; Tom Sestak, McNeese, a defensive lineman; Ray Abbruzzese, Alabama, defensive back; Glenn Glass, Tenn., halfback; Booker Edgerson, Western Ill., a defensive back, and Jim Lecompte, North Carolina, guard.

Boston has fewer rookies than any other club but will match two of them against anyone for quality — Notre Dame's Nick Buoniconti at linebacker and Alabama's Billy Neighbors at guard.

Fast-improving Oakland is using several rookie starters in preseason games. They include Danny Birdwell, end-linebacker from Houston, and Henry Rivera, Ore. State, defensive back.

New York likes defensive back Wayne Fontes of Mich. State and linebacker Vaughn Williams of Muskingum. All-America Alex Kroll of Rutgers has started some at center.

Denver is using Oregon hurler Jerry Tarr as a flanker and Charley Marshall, Ore., State, and John McGeever, Auburn, as defensive backs.

Clubs that had players in the Chicago all-star game are allowed to keep them above and beyond the limit for the first two cuts.

Dallas leads all clubs in active rookies with 18. Buffalo, Houston and Oakland have 17 each. San Diego has 15, Denver 10, New York 8 and Boston 4.

American Doubles Combos Take on Top Foreigners

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI) — Optimistic young U.S. tennis teams today take on Iron Curtain visitors, Britain's best, and a brace of South African travellers in the National Doubles championships.

Only four major matches are on the Longwood Cricket Club program after most of the boys and girls have been separated from the tennis players in the 300 entry, eight-day tournament.

U.S. Lawn Tennis Association officials pushed the grass court championships through a day of drizzle Wednesday and then split the field, scheduling the top-racket semi-finals in both men's and women's divisions for today. The remaining four semi-finals will be played Friday.

U. S. male forces, already the underdogs against strong foreign competition, were thinned out considerably Wednesday by a pair of unheralded South Africans. Gordon Forbes and Cliff Drysdale surprisingly eliminated the second seeded U. S. team of Don Dell and Bill Bond in the 82nd tournament's biggest upset to date.

Today's biggest test will be for the U.S. Davis Cup combine of Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston. The defending champions and top-seeded domestic entry clash with the fourth foreign seed, Britain's Mike Sangster and Billy Knight.

The Iron Curtain pair, Ugoslavs Nikolai Pilic and Boro Jovanovic, run up against the fourth domestic pairing, Bill Hoogs and Jim McManus.

Among the ladies, Darlene Hard, who is reaching the crucial stage in her quest for a fifth successive doubles crown, and her 1960 co-titlist, Maria Bueno of Brazil, tangle with the British team of Deidre Catt and Elizabeth Starkie in the top women's match.

KRDO Nine Wins Old Timers' Championship

The KRDO Older Timers team for 11 and 12 years olds won that division championship Wednesday by defeating the Carson Yankees, 4-3.

The victory ran the KRDO season record to 21 and 2. Stars of the Wednesday game were relief pitcher Murphy who came on in the second to pitch no hit ball and fan seven the remainder of the way and Grego who socked a home run for the winners in the second inning.

Wasson Gridders Should Pick Up Insurance Forms

Boys planning to plan football at Wasson High School this fall have been requested to report to the Wasson gym at 5 p.m. Friday to pick up forms for physical examination and insurance, according to head coach Gib Funk. The Thunderbirds will also have a meeting Saturday, as announced earlier, and will start practice immediately.

Officials Clinic Set for Monday

A football rules clinic will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Alexander Film Co. playroom it was announced today. All officials, prospective officials, coaches, and other interested persons are invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to all area coaches.

Tuesday evening at the same time the test for persons desiring to become football officials will be held — also at the playroom of the Alexander Film Company.

South's Wasted Talent

While Southern Colorado football players and coaches bask in the sunshine of success this week, downstate roundballers are looking for some means to dribble away from the fact that they are up against an out-of-bounds situation in their annual All-Star series with the North.

Optimistic Southerners, with a floor-full of the finer talent ever produced in this section of the state, entered last week's contest in Pueblo as a self-established favorite and came away with a sound lession in basketball — and manners. The North was obviously a bit piqued over being omitted from the odds consulation. We Southerners will be more courteous in the future.

Actually, this corner was as guilty as the next in foreseeing a Rebel - rousing time in Pueblo last Thursday. Having witnessed a number of the Northern teams in action during the state basketball tournament last spring, our optimism must have stemmed more from sectional loyalty than realism.

Basketball is an improving sport in Colorado high schools but it still has room overhead. This situation dictates that there will be, with very few exceptions, a wide breech between the AAA leagues and the lesser classifications.

This particular fact makes the All-Star alignments rather burdensome for the South. Downstate there is just one AAA circuit, the eight member South Central League. Upstate, the Denver, Northern, Adams-Arapahoe, and Jefferson County League all contribute AAA material to the North team. This provides an advantage of selection that the South will be lucky to ever overcome.

Small town fans will hollar foul but they're wrong if they think we pass over their talent too lightly. SCL players have had to carry the burden each year and there are usually enough to provide a sound first unit. The North, however, has stars of equal ability on its bench whereas when Southern subsitutions start running out of the AAA types, the teams are no longer comparable.

Despite the abundance of offensive machinery on both sides, it was the North's superior respect for defense which broke the game open. Except for a couple of players (Wasson's Dave Chase was one) the Southerners flaunted defensive inefficiency thruout the evening. The Northerners had obviously learned these same lessons well.

Strangely, because the opposite would usually be true, it is in football that the smaller schools lend enough aid to the South Central circuit to make life miserable for the North.

Two days after the basketball script had continued unchanged, the footballers did likewise. The South won for the fifth time in six starts and was obviously far deeper in talent than was the North. Feeling was that still another unit could have been chosen from the talent - rich SCL and done nearly as well against the Northerners.

Alas. The game was boorish compared to the sparkling editions of the past. Neither team was well organized — neither had much offense (at least in the game), and neither would have had a chance against the Lloyd Gaskill coached South unit of a year ago.

The South won because of the peerless defensive performances of such as Ray LeMasters and a wide edge in talented and experienced quarterbacking. Central's John Salimeno had the presence of mind to overcome backfield mixups with aplomb and his pass work with teammate Ken Lesar constituted at least 50 per cent of the team's offense.

* * *

Lonesome of Defense

* * *

North runners were obviously better and somewhat faster than their bullish Southern counterparts but their helpmates up front were outmanned too much to take advantage of that fact.

The lone Southern back to show much running ability (aside from Salimeno's skillful escapes from collisions with his own ill-timed runners) was Dick Taylor of Pueblo East.

The question naturally occurred to a press-box-full of reporters and visiting SCL coaches as to why South coach Dick Rees chose to ignore Doug Dienelt of Wasson, Howard Knapp of Limon, and Frank Rogers of Del Norte, all outstanding sprinters. Knapp saw a few plays on offense—Dienelt carried the ball just once and that time was sent into the middle.

Instead Rees went all evening with his own Lamar product, Roger Morris, who has possibilities but at present is nowhere near Dienelt's category as a runner. And the only outward enthusiasm the Lamar coach displayed thruout the evening was when Morris was sent into the game to score from the six yard line on what was obviously a bench call (it was also the only time that the team was close enough to figure on scoring on a running play).

As Morris crossed the goal line, his previously emotionless coach leaped into the air like a wounded jackrabbit, caught the lad in a bearhug as he came off the field, and revealed what a number of people had doubtless been suspecting all along.

The South team was once again a fine one. It could have been better!

Havlicek Will Return To Basketball Wars

HIRAM, Ohio (UPI) — Cut from the roster of the Cleveland Browns after trying to make the switch to professional football, Ohio State basketball All-American John Havlicek says he will "go back to basketball where I know what I can do."

Havlicek said he has not signed a pro basketball contract yet, "but I have an offer pending from the Boston Celtics." He also is being sought by the Cleveland Pipers, who landed his Buckeye teammate, Jerry Lucas.

Celtics President Walter Brown said he understood coach Arnold (Red) Auerbach had been in touch with Havlicek all along "and we had every reason to feel that Havlicek would sign with us even if he had made the grade in pro football."

The 6-5, 200-pound all-around athlete spurned offers from baseball and basketball to sign with the Browns because, he said, he was intrigued by the challenge.

But coach Paul Brown of the NFL team said Havlicek had been away from football too long. He had not played since his high school days when he was an All-Ohio selection at Bridgeport, Ohio.

"I have satisfied myself about football and had a wonderful experience here," Havlicek told Brown. He was in on six plays in Saturday night's game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Felix-Daly Founder Dies in Denver at 85

DENVER (UPI)—Paul R. (Dad) Felix, founder of the Felix-Daly baseball series in Denver, died Wednesday. He was 85.

Felix and "Pop" Daley started the Felix-Daly series in 1914 at the 23rd and Welton St. ball park. The games are still played every Sunday morning.

Little Leaguers Take Tournament Seriously

By JIM BECKER

WILLIAMSPORT, PA. (AP) — Baseball is serious business at the Little League World Series, or as serious as anything can be to a 12-year-old boy with a brace on his teeth.

"The pillow fighters were eliminated along the way," says Don James, manager of the Kankakee, Ill., team.

"In one of the regional tournaments we played in, the kids on the other teams were up half the night, screaming, running around and having pillow fights.

The other four teams, Kunitachi, Japan; Del Rio, Tex.; Stoney Creek, Ontario, Canada, and the team from the U.S. army post at Vienne, France, have dropped into the consolation bracket.

Consolation games are scheduled for Friday, and the championship game Saturday.

"The Japanese players are frisky, lively boys, but they seem to feel that it is important for them to make a good showing," said a little league official. "They are the first all-Japanese team we've ever had.

"Also the Mexican boys are always very solemn. They have been since Mexico won the series twice (in 1957 and 1958. All the teams since then have appeared to feel that they have to live up to the other Mexican boys who won."

The Canadian squad has been downcast since the week-long series started. The best pitcher and hitter on the team, Don Carrigan, suffered an eye injury in Canada and was unable to play the game here, the No. 2 pitcher and hitter, Tommy Crompe, stopped a line drive with his hand and broke a finger.

The team of American boys representing Europe also carried a burden into the competition. The European entry last year, American boys from Germany, not only failed to get a put out in three games, but never hit a ball out of the infield.

The present representatives, from Poitiers, 200 miles from Paris, already have scored two runs and collected six hits in one losing game—to erase some bad memories.

Mickey Wright Favored in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) —The nation's top play-for-pay golfing gals began competing in the $7,500 Salt Lake City Ladies Professional Golf tournament today with methodical Mickey Wright favored to win the crown.

Miss Wright, queen of the nation's women golfers, headed a talented field of 30 touring professionals making their first appearance in Utah.

The women will play 18-hole rounds for four days with the final action in the 72-hole event taking place Sunday. The tournament is being played over the 6,445-yard par 74 Willow Creek Country Club in Salt Lake County.

The women's tour, glamor show of golf, moved to Salt Lake City from New Mexico where Miss Wright won first place in the $8,000 Albuquerque Swing Parade tournament.

Texas Family Aids School In Recruiting

By PATRICK CONWAY

But for the University of Texas, the family wash turned out to be an All-America end. And countless breakfasts or duck eggs totaled up to one of the Longhorns' top basketball stars.

Jubilo and Hezel Clements are the laundry experts, the duck egg fanciers, and perhaps the best non-coaching recruiters of athletic talent in the state of Texas.

Jubilo and Hazel are the parents of former Longhorn passing star Joe Clements, and they have brought Texas more athletes than many coaches.

They have slept in hotel lobbies waiting to kidnap young athletes. They spent a weekend in a small Galveston cottage with 14 football players while pursuing their hobby of supplying Texas with the goods.

Jubilo said they got into the duck egg breakfast business when they were recruiting Falk.

"His mother and sister sold them. Hazel bought them. One morning grandpa asked Hazel how much longer we had to eat duck eggs. 'We eat 'em until Joe Ed goes to Texas,' Hazel said. That was that."

Their biggest catches were Stolhandske, the All-America end, and Thomas, one of the Southwest Conference's finest track stars.

"Rice almost had Thomas sewed up until they sent him to an AAU meet in Boston in a small car," Hazel said. "He couldn't stretch out. We just pointed out that wouldn't happen at Texas."

Stolhandske was a more complicated case.

"We were in their home one day — Hazel had already done the family wash, because it was Mrs. Stolhandske's birthday—and a Baylor scout walked in," Jubilo, now a telephone company employe at Huntsville, Tex., said.

"It was all very polite. We even sent out for some ice cream.

"Mrs. Stolhandske looked at the little bowl and said, 'that must be for the nice gentleman from Baylor.' We won again."

Nelson Signs Contract With Chicago Zephyrs

CHICAG O(UPI) — Don Nelson, the Chicago Zephyrs No. 3 draft choice from Iowa, has signed his 1962-63 contract with the National Basketball Association club. The 6-6 Nelson average 23.8 points a game as a senior.

TWISTING HOME SAFE — Jim Colbert, Budweiser centerfielder, does a little twisting jig and gets past the tag by Exchange National Bank catcher Rudy Rudolph for the final run in the seven-run fourth inning which enabled the Brewers to take a 7-6 lead. Colbert had just socked a pitch to the fence in right field and chased two runners home ahead of him for an inside-the-park home run. After trailing 6-0, Budweiser rallied to take a 15-10, victory in the wild game and won with it the City Softball Championship. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Brewer Nine Captures City Tournament Title

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Budweiser, a downtrodden second-division team during the first half of local summer competition, capped a brilliant second half comeback Wednesday night by rallying to defeat Exchange National Bank 15-10 and win the City Softball Championship.

The Buds, who copped the second half title, thus added the City Tournament crown to their laurels by winning four straight games. Wednesday's championship affair, however, more nearly resembeled a Chinese fire drill than a polished exhibition of softball.

Exchange, the defending city and state champion, appeared on the way to capping a fine comeback in the tournament when the Bankers took a 6-0 lead in the second inning. But by the late frames the usually smooth-fielding Exchange nine was performing defensively as tho there was a keg of the opponent's product located in the dugout.

Victim of the onslaught was Dick Russ, Exchange manager, who had draped himself in the hero's mantle with four straight tournament victories. After three shutout innings Wednesday, misfortune finally caught up with him however as the hard - knocking Buds slapped out five hits and drove in seven runs in the fourth frame. After the first two batters singled in the fifth, Russ gave way and Al Kinworthy came on to be further victimized by heavy Budweiser hitting and sloppy Exchange fielding.

The Bankers, who have gained a name for giving their pitchers the best possible support, Wednesday contributed nine errors to the Budweiser victory.

Sharing the limelight with the Al Viehl who came on in relief with one away in the fourth inning and set down the Bankers with just a pair of sixth inning runs thereafter.

After a scoreless first inning, Exchange sent a shower of base hits into all corners of the field in the second. The Bankers sent 11 men to the plate and they raked Budweiser starter, Ron Caldwell for six hits and as many runs. Doubles by Joe Bradley, Warren Goodrich, and Walt Lenz kept the attack moving.

The Bankers were leisurely protecting that same margin in the fourth when the diamond was yanked out from beneath them. Bob McHam led off for the Buds with a walk and Jerry Waggoner lashed a single to center. Three straight hits followed, driving home three runs. With Jack Van Bibber at second, Alex Yankovich drew a walk and Jim Colbert cleared the bases by blasting a drive off the top of the right field fence that eluded the outfielders and went for an inside-the-park homer.

Budweiser will now go into the state tournament starting here Friday as the number one Colorado Springs entry, meeting Bullock Mortuary of Englewood in the first round.

Indians Bomb Denver; Really K.O. Hurlers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indianapolis bombarded Denver with a 17-hit salvo and went on to smother the Bears 13-4 Wednesday in American Association baseball.

Denver used five pitchers, and two were literally knocked off the mound. Starter Doug Gallagher was hit by a hot grounder during the second inning. Reliever Fred Gladding was hit in the left leg by a line drive during the eighth.

In another 17-hit barrage, Louisville buried Oklahoma City 12-3 behind Chi Chi Olivo's five hit pitching, and Omaha defeated Dallas-Fort Worth 9-5.

Omaha scored six runs in a big fourth inning. Half were unearned however. The Dodgers got their six runs on four hits, a hit batsman, two walks, a sacrifice and a throwing error by Dick Littlefield.

John Lutz got the win. He took over in the fifth from Jim Moeller. Lutz got some help in the final inning when Jack Smith relieved him after he surrendered a two-run homer.

Denver got its runs on two homers by Jesse Queen, a solo in the fourth and a three-run slam in the sixth.

Every Indianapolis batsman hit safely at least once. Len Johnston drove in four runs on three singles.

The victory went to Frank Kreutzer. It was his 13th. He got the win despite the fact that he was chased out in the sixth by Queen's second homer. Taylor Phillips, who took over, gave up only one hit—a single—the remainder of the game.

Molina Gets Joe Brown Acid Test

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—When Luis Molina fought Kenny Lane in April, the San Jose lightweight hoped a victory would gain him a bout with the winner of the Joe Brown-Carlos Ortiz title match a week later.

Molina figured Brown would win. Now he's meeting Joe in a 10-rounder here Friday night—a fight arranged after each lost lopsided upset decisions in those April bouts.

"I'm pretty happy about this fight," says Molina, a 23-year-old former Marine who has won 20 of 21 pro bouts. "I hope now it can get me a fight with Ortiz."

Molina isn't at all worried about giving away 13 years and nearly a hundred bouts worth of experience to the ex-champ from Houston, Texas.

"Sure, he's more experienced than I am, but I've had a lot of fights now," he continues.

Molina is ranked No. 4 junior welterweight by the NBA and Ring, but isn't listed on the lightweight ladder. He's knocked out 16 of his 20 victims in two years of professional fighting.

Sergeant Teacher Can Handle Wide Subject Variety

M. Sgt. Howard A. Thomas can teach subjects ranging from band to criminal investigation techniques. Which makes him well qualified as new noncommissioned officer - in - charge at the Ft. Carson Army Education Center.

The subject which brought him to Carson was English which he was scheduled to teach at the former Army Training Center. The center moved but Thomas remained with education center.

His 25 years as a teacher began with band in Lexington, Ky. After five years of civilian instriction, he donned uniform serving for three years in the Army Air Corps in Africa and Italy. He added another two battle stars in the Korean action.

He taught electronics at Ft. Gordon, Ga., as well as military police subjects, gave German lessons to U. S. Army officers in Germany and English lessons to recruits at Fort Carson.

He learned German at the Army Language School and "picked up" Italian in World War II. He qualifies as interpreter and translator in both languages.

From 1957 to 1960 he was regional director of the Association of Regular Army Sergeants.

This Army educator came to Carson from Ft. Ord, Calif., where he did data processing for the experiments and research which shaped the new ROAD divisions such as the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized).

Jimmy Hoffa's Activities Include Physical Culture

By HARRY FERGUSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About the only thing Bobby Kennedy and Jimmy Hoffa have in common is physical culture.

Hoffa is five feet, five and a half inches tall and 180 pounds of solid muscle. He doesn't smoke or drink, does push-ups and exercises with bar bells. He has been known to sit alertly at the table for 36 hours in a contract negotiation. Kennedy is a push-up man, too, and rides horseback, hikes, swims and plays touch football.

So both were in the pink for the historic struggle that started on Aug. 20, 1957, when Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate rackets committee said "Mr. Hoffa, will you be sworn, please." Kennedy, as committee counsel, was going to do the prosecuting. One member of the committee was Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

At the time Hoffa was ninth vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America. The president was Dave Beck of Seattle, now serving a prison term for income tax evasion, and already on the skids as head of the big union. The one thing that probably wrecked Beck's career as a labor leader was that he took the Fifth Amendment (140 times in one session) when he appeared before the McClellan committee.

Hoffa was faced with a tough decision as he got ready to testify. If you are going to take the Fifth Amendment, you had better take it all the way rather than answering some questions and refusing to answer others. If you answer a question as to whether you are a member of the Teamsters Union, then the next one is likely to be whether you ever stole any money from the union, and if you decline to answer you are in contempt of Congress. Dave Beck Jr., took the Fifth when asked whether he knew his father.

Hoffa, with a lawyer on either side, rejected the protection of the Fifth Amendment. He was deferential toward the senators on the committee and addressed them as "Sir", but he treated Bobby Kennedy as though he were patting a shaggy dog on the head. Kennedy bored in immediately:

"Well, I don't know, Bob," Hoffa replied. "I haven't counted them up."

Kennedy counted them up for him. They skimmed over the arrests for illegal picketing (Hoffa claims he once was arrested 18 times in 24 hours but always returned to the picket line). Two things were left. Hoffa was accused of violating the federal antitrust law in Detroit in connection with the collection and shipment of waste paper. He pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) and was fined $1,000. He also was convicted of a misdemeanor in connection with collecting $5 in "initiation fees" from Detroit grocers and was ordered to return $7,500 to them.

Hoffa was calm and cool and almost every time he answered a question he took out insurance against a perjury charge by saying "to the best of my recollection. . .". That meant he could change his testimony later if somebody refreshed his recollection.

Gradually a pattern developed in Kennedy's questions and Hoffa's answers. When they got on the subject of his finances, Hoffa testified that he made the acquaintance of Owen Bert Brennan, president of a Teamsters local in Detroit. Brennan had achieved something that millions of persons have sought without success — an infallible system for beating the horses.

Hoffa testified that each year he gave Brennan some cash to put on the horses and at the end of the year he got back winnings that ranged between $5,000 and $10,000. Hoffa's income tax returns over a few years listed a total of $60,000 income in "wagering and miscellaneous."

The committee and everybody in the crowded room was eager to have the Brennan system of picking horses explained. Kennedy poured questions at Hoffa, but Jimmy professed to know nothing.

"Ask Brennan," he suggested.

That's what the committee did and Brennan was brought to the stand. His lawyer explained that Brennan was involved in some litigation in New York state, and then Kennedy started the questions.

"On the advice of counsel," Brennan replied, "I respectfully decline at this time to answer, and under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution I assert my privilege not to be a witness against myself."

He started saying that around 2 p.m., and said it steadily until 6:20 p.m. It soon became evident to everybody that the secret of picking horses was going to remain locked in Brennan's brain with the Fifth Amendment standing sentinel.

This was to become a familiar pattern in the hearings. Hoffa would suggest that somebody else knew the answer to the qestion and then that person would take the Fifth Amendment. Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota, a member of the committee, finally leaned toward Brennan and said:

There wasn't any doubt that Hoffa had won the first round.

SCANDAL-MONGERS AT WORK

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles says scandal-mongers are at work in America today seeking to smirch the reputation of national and Community leaders.

At a conference here, he linked right-wing attacks on the National Council of Churches with such activity, and said about the only way to deal with the hate groups is to ignore them because "they have proved over and over again they are not after truth."

MEN ON MOON

"A Trip to the Moon", says Baird, will be based on the imaginary travels recorded by Jules Verne, Baron Munchausen and Cyrano de Bergerac.

Animism—the belief that all things have a spirit—persists in parts of Indonesia despite the rise of Hinduism and Islam.

Tours de Force, Potsies Combine For TV Roles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—All television roles, whether leading parts or walk-ons, fall into one of two categories: tours de force or potsies.

This is the analysis of Audrey Christie, a happy refugee from Broadway and soap opera, currently playing a potsy in "Fair Exchange," CBS' forthcoming experiment in weekly, hour-long situation comedy.

"A tour de force role is one in which something happens to the character itself," Miss Christie explained. "It is the narcotic addict, the one who commits the murder, the neurotic woman who keeps telephoning the police when she's alone and scared in the lonely house.

"But if you play a potsy, you are busy running around laying plot and setting things up so they will happen to other characters. Potsies are the man in the next call, landladies who saw the murderer or—as I am now—a nagging mother."

This is all part of an elaborate device — contrasting the homelife and mores of Hollywood's conception of average, middle-class American and British families—to keep the home viewers chuckling for a full hour (less time out for commercials, of course) come fall. At its foundation, it is really a double feature — two situation comedies in one big package.

The gimmick that weds the two is having the English family and the American family exchange their teen-age daughters for a year. Each show will relate what is happening in both families.

All this, of course, makes it necessary to have two complete casts and two complete groups of sets. But there is only one camera crew, so things are worked out to have the English cast rehearsing in one part of the studio while the American cast is busy before the film cameras, and vice versa.

American audiences are now pretty conditioned to the ways of family shows, inured to the usual comedy portrait of the strong wife with the gentle, timid husband. And we've also become accustomed to the terribly bright, chintzie interiors that television has made us believe represent the typical, lower-middle income bracket home.

But whether the sensitive British are ready to chuckle at "Fair Exchange's" idea of the English counterpart is something else again. The set of the living room and dining room, for instance, is furnished in dreary, cluttered style, muddy combination of busy late Victorian and ugly 1920.

If the scripts concentrate on lack of central heating, English cooking and other well-known items, producer Cy Howard may create an international incident bigger than the War of 1812.

CBS' "Comedy Spot" summer replacement series is really a graveyard for broken dreams. Tuesday night's "The Mighty O," for example, is an example of bad luck and timing. It was made about five years ago as a pilot film for a projected comedy series, but never was sold. Stars, however, were Craig Stevens and Lola Albright, who soon afterwards hit the TV target together in "Peter Gunn." And it was a comedy about some coast guardsmen—but seagoing comedy is just coming into its own this year.

Ironically, the Dick Powelg Show repeat episode at the same time Tuesday night was also made with the idea of blossoming into a serial. For a time, it was a contender for the NBC Saturday night spot won by "Sam Benedict."

Soviet-U.S. Nuclear Talks Resemble Shooting Gallery

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans and Russians, in their proposals to each other about banning nuclear tests, are like two men with an endless supply of balloons in a shooting gallery.

When one gets shot down, they're not surprised. They send up another. They've been doing it for years. The United States is about to send up another.

This time, an authoritative source here said Tuesday, the United States is ready to propose a ban on nuclear tests in the atmosphere. This ought to pop fast, since the Russians have already derided such an idea.

All the maneuvering between the two powers is based on what each side says it wants and doesn't want. This has been repeated so often it sounds scratchy.

The United States says it wants disarmament—including a ban on nuclear tests—but in a world as sinful as this one it wants to be sure there's no cheating. So it insist on an inspection system to make sure.

The Soviets say they want disarmament—including a ban on nuclear tests—but they're even more distrustful than the United States. They say inspection is just an American spy trick. They want none of it.

This sums up years of talking between the two giants. Back in 1958, without any formal agreement, the United States, Russia and Britain voluntarily agreed to suspend nuclear tests.

That lasted three years but it would be getting ahead of the story to say what happened then because something else happened in between times.

In 1959—while the voluntary ban was on—the Eisenhower administration proposed a formal ban on nuclear tests in the lower atmosphere — which would be about 31 miles up—and in the sea.

This was suggested as the first step in a step-by-step ban on all tests, including underground ones. Russia promptly denounced the very thought of it.

Premier Khrushchev got out the Soviet record and played it over again—a demand for a ban on all kinds of tests everywhere—and suggested that under the American proposals it wouldn't be all right to test less than 31 miles up but would be all right to blast off at 50.

He said no. Then suddenly last Aug. 31—although American authorities had thought something was cooking—Khrushchev called off that voluntary ban which started in 1958 and announced Russia would begin testing. It did, right away.

The Russians' ability to resume tests so fast meant they had been preparing for months. Khrushchev's excuse was that Russia couldn't let the United States develop nuclear superiority.

Immediately President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made him a proposition: Let's ban all tests which "take place in the atmosphere and cause radioactive fallout."

This would seem to leave the door open for plenty of atmospheric tests, so long as they didn't produce fallout. That's exactly what Khrushchev said his interpretation was. He wouldn't buy.

He noted that the Kennedy-Macmillan proposal didn't cover a ban on tests underground or in outer space. He said the solution was complete disarmament. He went on testing in the atmosphere.

Almost at once the United States resumed underground testing, which would indicate it was prepared for just such an event. It wasn't prepared for atmospheric tests and took months to get ready.

Then this country, in the spring of 1962, began its tests over the Pacific—firing one at a high altitude on July 9. Not to be outdone, Khrushchev announced Russia would have some more tests, and tested again.

Then recently the United States, while still insisting on some kind of inspection inside Russia, offered a new nuclear test ban plan, this time with fewer inspectors.

Russia said no on that one. Now the United States is about to propose an atmospheric test ban, although Khrushchev has already said no soap on that one.

U.S. passport office and Immigration and Naturalization Service estimate 706,000 Americans departed for Europe during the first half of 1962, a 9 per cent increase over the same period of 1961.

Second Chance For Steel Firms Voted by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate antitrust investigators have voted to issue "second chance" subpoenas to four steel companies that refused to hand in reports on their pricing practices.

The action came Tuesday at a closed-door session of the Senate Antitrust Subcommittee. Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., said the vote was 5 to 3.

Before the session, Kefauver said he would ask the subcommittee to approve contempt of Congress citations against the Nationa, Republic, Bethlehem and Armco Steel Corporations.

The original subpoenas were issued last April after the steel industry's short-lived price increase. the $6-a-ton boost was announced and then rescinded under White House pressure.

Kefauver said at that time detailed information on production costs was essential for "an intelligent evaluation of the need for price increases."

The four companies that balked at the subcommittee demand said the subpoenaed data was confidential information that would damage them if it got into the hands of competitors here or aboard.

Kefauver has said the information will be handled so that production costs of individual steel firms will not be disclosed.

Woman Mothers Quail Eggs Into Babies

She put the eggs in a moist cloth and placed them in an electric frying pan turned down to its lowest temperature. For the next seven days, she carefully turned the eggs.

It wasn't a new recipe. The eggs eventually hatched and Anne was the unofficial mother of a flock of live and healthy baby quail.

Police Arrest Rooster For Breaching Peace

Police were called out at dawn to arrest a rooster. The bird had perched himself on a high pole and set about to announce the arrival of day.

Souder Will Vacation If Mosquitoes Will

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Claude D. Souder Jr. will take a vacation, if the mosquitoes will let him.

Souder, director of the Broward County antimosquito district, asked county commissioners for annual leave, "provided the mosquitoes are not plentiful at that date."

Calhan News

By MRS. ALICE CRAIG

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parks and son Bud were recent Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frazier in Security.

Mrs. Lillie Warner is visiting at the home of her daughter Mrs. Jim Bevans and family in Rush while recuperating from an injury to her hand. She caught her hand in a washing machine wringer and was taken to Colorado Springs by Doyle McCammon August 14 for treatment.

Mrs. Guy Marshbanks fell at her home August 14 and was taken to the hospital by Doyle McCammon. It was found she had incurred a fractured shoulder and stayed at the hospital until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parks and family visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. John Carver of Ramah and with Parks' mother Mrs. William Lams of Byers.

Dave Ogleone of Wichita, Kan. has been visiting at the home of his niece, Mrs. Joe McFarland and family. He attended the El Paso County Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Warren, Mike and Elwyn are visiting relatives in California.

Miss Joyce Craig went to Colorado Springs August 15 to visit Mary Jo Rupier, Kathie Peterson and Mary Helen Hornbacher until Sunday. She attended a bridal shower Wednesday night for Mary Jo at the home of Mrs. Marvin Hagenstead, and on Sunday afternoon was maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Rupier to Don Hagenstead at the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Colorado Springs. Miss Rupier and Joyce were roommates at school the past four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Craig and Gary attended the Hagenstead-Rupier wedding in Colorado Springs Sunday afternoon.

Don Trojanowich of Colorado Springs, formerly of Calhan, left August 14 for Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, where he will get his basic training for the next two months. Don recently enlisted in the Air Force. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Trojanowich of Calhan and graduated from the Calhan High School in 1958. His wife is the former Sandra Wagoner of Calhan, now in Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Parks of Elbert and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stein and children were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parks and family during the El Paso County Fair.

Mrs. Barney Eurich spent a week in Denver recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McQueen. She was there to be near her baby son Wayne who is ill in Children's Hospital recovering from surgery. He is reported to be doing fine and Mrs. Eurich plans to bring him home very soon.

Andy O'Lear returned from Fort Riley, Kansas August 18 where he had been for the past year with the National Guard unit. He is visiting at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Joe O'Lear, his brother Joe and sister Ann at present.

A large group of Calhan people went to the dance in Simla Saturday night celebrating the opening of the new Moody Garage.

Mrs. Mildred Bearfoot and Mrs. Walter Wentasek returned Friday afternoon from Chugwater, Wyoming where they had spent the week at the Methodist missionary camp. Mrs. Bearfoot reports that she met and had a nice visit with the Rev. Holland Vernon, who is now in Montana, but who served at the Calhan Methodist Church before going there. Mrs. Vernon also taught in the Calhan school system while here.

School will start in the Calhan Monday.

Bud Parks helped at the O'Lear place last week. He and Andy O'Lear put up hay on Tuesday.

Mrs. Mabel Ullom was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ullom and Connie.

Fails To Reduce Staff By TV Teachi

By PETER BREWER

CINCINNATI (AP) — Television teaching hasn't enabled Cincinnati to cut down on the number of teachers it needs, according to a research study of TV teaching made here.

"However," says Wendell Pierce, superintendent of city schools, "we view television as a plus value in the classroom.

"Looking at the future of education and the vast amount of knowledge to be acquired, mechanical devices will have to be used if we are going to have quality education."

Pierce said the study nailed down three ways classroom TV can help teachers:

2. It can show classes things not readily available — like an atomic airplane.

3. TV can help show teachers how to do a better job, and how to develop certain skills in instruction.

The research started in 1956 to compare TV - taught pupils with those given regular classroom instruction in science courses and driver training.

Analysis showed a few surp es, Pierce said:

"The older pupils at hig grade levels and the most ca ble ones at all grade levels better in the TV classes— they preferred conventional struction.

"Younger pupils and less ca ble ones in all grades liked t vision, but they achieved mor regular classes."

Pierce said television teach was most effective in clas where pupils were grouped ability and had telecasts desig expressly for them.

He noted, however, "Pupils g erally preferred to listen tha participate when questions w asked by the television teac during the telecast. The most pable students strongly prefe inactive viewing."

Pierce said pupils from T taught classes recalled about same amount of subject mat as those from conventional cl es when tested two years la

The Youth Fellowship groups from the Community Church will hold activities at Camp Elim near Manitou Lake, Thursday afternoon and evening. They will meet at the churchhouse at 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. for transportation to the Camp where they will take part in various activities. The largest attendance so far this summer for Sunday services was last Sunday. A busload of the Christian Youth Fellowship of Wichita, vacationing at the Crescent Ranch, was brought in for services. The Candlelight Guild will meet at 7:30 p.m. August 28 at the Community Church. The program will consist of slides by Mrs. McCluer showing her travels in Europe, Guatemala and Venezuela. All the women of the Guilds are invited. Jim Fry has been elected chairman of the church board to succeed the Rev. Jess Kauffman whose duties at the Brockhurst Boys Ranch made it necessary for him to resign. After the Sunday evening service several of the congregation went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hunt to celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary.

The Five Day Club, a children's Bible club for elementary students, has been meeting in Woodland Park. Sponsored by the El Paso County Child Evangelism Fellowship, it is under the guidance of the Rev. Mr. Smith of Colorado Springs with Ann Leonard, also of Colorado Springs, as teacher.

Several workers, under the direction of Dorrence Smith, are working on the former Pentecostal churchhouse which is now a part of the Masonic building.

The Ute Pass Eastern Star Fellowship group held a sandwich buffet luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hunter Carroll, with Barbara Elwell and Ruth Alexander, co-hostesses. A card party will be given at 1p.m. August 24 at the VFW Hall. There will be a dessert luncheon and prizes will be given. This will be the last of the series of card parties.

The Woodland Park Lions Club held its covered dish luncheon August 13. Mr. and Mrs. Marlo Church were chairmen and were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fleischer, Mr. and Mrs. Don Canty, Mr. and Mrs. James Selby and Dr. and Mrs. Max Warner. The next stag supper will be at 7 p.m. August 27 at the El Pueblo Dining Room in Green Mountain Falls. At the covered dish supper Douglas Linville, who was elected international director at the recent Lions International Convention in Nice, France, was the honored speaker. Perfect attendance pins were given to several of the Lion members. Committee chairman were appointed by the new president, L. C. Jackson. On Tuesday evening, there was a barbershop quartet program in the Green Mountain Falls Community building, the proceeds going to the Brockhurst Boys Ranch.

Mrs. Glen Spielman entertained the women of the WMS of the First Baptist Church at her home August 14. The program was about Central America.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Carson of Topeka, Kansas, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Carson's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kientz for several days. During that time the two families accompanied by A. P. Kientz, also of Topeka, took a two-day trip to Bayfield to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Dave Miller, Starla and Linda.

Helicopter Provides Propeller for Boat

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Help came from the skies to a Key West fisherman who broke an oar while out in a rowboat and began to drift towards dangerous shoals.

The pilot of a Navy helicopter noticed the plight of Horace Crawford and maneuvered until his 'copter blades were kicking up strong enough waves to hold the little boat off the rocks. The helicopter hovered until a crash boat arrived to tow Crawford to safety.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1962 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I understand that meekness is a virtue while weakness can be a sin, but sometimes meekness seems like weakness to me. Where is the dividing line? What is the difference between them? —P. R.

ANSWER: Meekness is an attitude of mind and spirit; it means mild of temper, patient when wronged, gentle, kind. On the other hand, weakness, in the spiritual, not the physical sense, means lacking in convictions, lacking in ability to overcome temptations. It also means an unwillingness to avail oneself of the strength Christ would give us. There is also a Christian paradox here. What the world calls weakness may actually be strength in God's sight. Paul wrote of a handicap which he had, a "thorn in the flesh," he called it, which he asked God to remove. But, God told him: "My grace is sufficient for thee: For my strength is made perfect in weakness". Evidently this experience made St. Paul trust in God's strength more than ever. Christ also tells us: "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth." We may not understand all that this means but it shows us that what the world calls greatness and strength and wisdom will some day be eclipsed and the man who humbly follows the Christ of Cavalry, trusting in Him as Savior and Lord, will see His triumph and His eternal glory and power.

QUESTION: Will you please explain Romans 11:16-22? —S. T.

ANSWER: I am sorry, but space would forbid me explaining all of these verses to you. But let's take one verse which I believe to be the key to the rest: "For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee." (Romans 11:21)

The natural branches here mentioned, of course, were Israel. The warning is against spiritual smugness and carelessness. It is a very easy thing for nations, religious groups, or indivudals to become complacent about their status before God. This was a warning to the Gentile Christians to not feel that they were God's pets, and that He would deliver them no matter how they conducted themselves.

The warning also has an indivual implication. Christians have to guard against false piety, complacency and even hypocrisy. The key word of the New Testament is Love. Faith is important. Doctrine is important. But Paul said: "Now abideth faith, hope and love; but the greatest of these is love." We can never win the non-Christian by smugness, or by exhibiting unChristlike attitudes. Love is the spark that will set the world aflame for God.

Green Mountain Falls News

The last dance of the summer will be Saturday free to all thru the courtesy of the town of Green Mountain Falls. The orchestra rate the best with State Champion fiddler, R. L. Knight, and another champion caller Norman Chichester.

Wednesday "Game Night" in the Community Building will continue into September. Depending on the attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bush extend thanks to everyone for the 29-year interest and support given them in the publishing of the "Echo" paper. With the last edition on Friday, "Sallie" will retire as editor of this little Ute Pass paper, which has had about 1,000 circulation each week in the summertime.

The mimeographed weekly of 14 pages had its inception in 1933 when the Bush family, then living in Kansas City, Mo., came to Green Mountain Falls as summer visitors. Each year until 1942, when they moved here permanently, Mrs. Bush published the Echo, which has been full of doings, goings and comings of the local people, summer residents and visitors.

The 1963 spring edition will be published and mailed out to all Ute Pass property owners around the middle of February, after which the "Echo" will be for sale.

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Dunaway of Guymon, Okla. were given a surprise party honoring their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 8 by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blevens at the Falls Motel.

Special offertory duet at the morning worship at the Church in the Wildwood was given by Miss Achsah Hardin and Mrs. C. C. Vance of Pueblo, singing "My God And I."

JFK Program May Continue Congress Meet

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders apparently are going to have to choose between abandoning some major elements of President Kennedy's program or keeping Congress in session until October.

The betting on Capitol Hill is that several of the administration's pet measures are going to fall victim of the adjournment fever building up among candidates anxious to campaign in an election in which 39 Senate and all House seats will be filled.

Some of these candidates already are calling for action on a minimum of necessary legislation and an early quitting date. Almost nobody thinks there will be a post-election session.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has laid down a program for Senate consideration of six bills. All concerned agreed the measures will keep the Senate busy until Sept. 15.

The six bills included a compromise farm measure which was expected to win Senate approval today. Behind this Mansfield listed measures dealing with drug controls, expanded compensation for disabled veterans, Philippine war damage claims, tax revision and international trade.

He decided to take up the controversial tax revision bill when it became apparent that the Finance Committee won't complete action on the trade measure until early September.

In the tax bill an administration provision for a 7 per cent credit on business plant investment is under heavy fire. There will be the usual futile efforts made to reduce the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Some senator may come up with an amendment for the immediate tax reduction Kennedy decided not to request.

The trade bill is certain to attract a mountain of amendments and produce a hurricane of talk.

Mansfield's schedule did not cover such House-passed bills as those dealing with postal rate increases and pay raises for postal and other federal employes. Nor did it include measures the House is expected to pass for extending federal unemployment compensation payments and to provide money for the foreign aid program.

The Democratic leader offered no time table for possible action on an administration bill to provide a $500-million federal subsidy for mass transportation operations.

He said the Senate won't move until the House does a measure Kennedy consistently has plugged to set up a youth conservation corps.

A bill to provide aid for higher education—about the only measure of its kind given any chance for passage in this Congress—still is tied up tightly in Senate-House disagreement over its terms.

The House has yet to act on a bill which would authorize Kennedy to initiate $990 million in public works of all kinds if an economic recession threatens.

It still has coming up its annual battle over foreign aid funds. There also will be noisy argument over a Senate-passed measure to authorize the purchase of U.N. bonds. It still must dispose of measures such as those covering drug controls and unemployment compensation.

Also pending is a Senate-passed proposal for a constitutional amendment to abolish state poll taxes.

Man Clears Snakes, Shed in One Sweep

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP)—William Blackburn of near Pittsburg got rid of the snakes in his shed—and also the shed.

The iris, because of its delicate texture and sparkling hues, is named in honor of the Goddess of the Rainbow.

DEEP IN FASHIONS — Princess Lee Radziwill appears to enjoy herself viewing the new Christian Dior creations at his Paris salon. The Princess, sister of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, has been barred from designer Hubert de Givenchy's buyers' show on the grounds she reports for an American magazine.

We Give Gold Bond Stamps

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

How big is the foot of Pikes Peak?

For many years the town of Manitou Springs in its promotion literature has used the phrase, "Manitou at the foot of Pikes Peak."

C. S. DUDLEY

But Colorado Springs, six miles away, has also considered itself as being at the foot of Pikes Peak.

Then there is Cascade, which is at the foot of the Pikes Peak automobile Highway. Maybe it shold be called at the shinbone of Pikes Peak. But that would not be the vernacular.

Green Mountain Falls, Woodland Park and Divide, in a way might call themselves at the feet of the Pikes Peak straddle.

Next comes Florissant, from which town the first gold-seekers were off on foot from the Midland railroad to Cripple Creek, which might be called at the waist of Pikes Peak. Similarly early prospectors went to Cripple Creek from Canon City and Florence, and a railroad was built in from there, as one was from Divide. And Cripple Creek ranks high with Pikes Peak fame.

For that matter, Fountain and Pueblo could by a little stretch of imagination regard themselves at the foot of Pikes Peak, as could Peyton, Ellicot, Calhan and other towns out of the plains, from which Pikes Peak towers like an old relation.

Denver is slightly far off, and, anyway, it spends much time and money advertising Mt. Evans, a truly wonderful mountain, but no Pikes Peak.

The fact is Pikes Peak is the most famous mountain in the United States. For one thing it is in the front range of the Rockies, and is seen from great distances, and from its summit a breathtaking view is had of mountains and plains. Then there is the Cog Road to its summit, an automobile highway and the famous Barr Trail, over which Marathon foot races are run.

Also it has great historic fame. The explorer hero Zebulon Montgomery Pike spotted it in 1806 while far out on the plains and wrote in his diary that it was so high it looked like a cloud. He made an effort to climb it, but gave up when he found there were other mountains in front of it and that distance in to-be Colorado air were deceiving.

The pioneers who settled the West used Pikes Peak as a guidepost and chalked "Pikes Peak or tions at its foot.

The very alliteration of the name Pikes Peak as the mountain came to be called alone promotes its fame. It hovered over the mineral springs at Manitou from time immemorial. The Indians held what would pass nowdays for conventions at its foot.

Famous Colorado City, now the West Side of Colorado Springs, was a pioneer metropolis that was Pikes Peak conscious. The Pikes Peak automobile races held annually have carried the fame of Pikes Peak far and wide. In very early days there was an Army signal station on the summit, now the Cog Road summit station. Famous scientists have carried on cosmic experiments on the summit. An experimental wheat field was once planted there.

It would be difficult to find many geographies in which Pikes Peak is not pictured. Publications of every kind have pictured the famous mountain. There are many peaks in Colorado that exceed Pikes Peak's 14,000 foot height. But who can name but a few of them? They are set amid innumerable other high mountains forming the Continental Divide. If a person knew the name of only one peak in Colorado, or for that matter in America, it would be pretty sure to be Pikes Peak.

Thousands of things have been named for it. Its every feature is widely know. Fireworks are set off from the summit each New Years by the Colorado Springs AdAmAn Club. Snowcapped in winter, it was rarely ascended by man until recent years, when mountain climbing, even in the most rigorous of weather, became a fad of hardy mountaineers. Mount Atlas is famous for holding up the sky. But who would believe that? Who can fail to believe anything that is said of Pike Peak.

And, anyway, it is considered good business in the Pikes Peak Region to keep the fame of this mountain from fading.

Quick Change Artist Switches in Laundry

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A woman was seen in a coin laundry late one warm night, clutching a coat around her as she stood near a drier.

Family Reunites In West Berlin After 25 Years

DETROIT (AP) — A family hose efforts to reunite found a passage through Berlin's wall expects to meet here today after 25 ears of anguished privation.

Margaret Reuoer's dream—one he thought could never be—is scheduled to come true at 6:15 p.m. when her mother steps down rom a plane at Metropolitan Airport.

Helena Gruebnau, 77, who hasn't seen her daughter in 25 years and never has met her five grandchildren, passed through a Berlin checkpoint into the West Tuesday.

She was one of the very few allowed to cross to West Berlin by East German authorities since they built the wall a year ago.

"I tell you, it's the answer to our prayers," said Mrs. Reuter, whose home is in Grass Lake, a Jackson, Mich., suburb.

"We've been hoping and praying for this and now it's really happened."

The release climaxed years of effort, helped in recent months by G. Vernon Leopold, a Detroit attorney who was once a refugee himself.

Leopold entered the case last May after the death of Mrs. Gruebnau's husband, Jacob, in Mount Clemens, Mich. In Berlin to settle the estate, Leopold suggested he seek Mrs. Gruebnau's release.

Leopold told his wife here by phone Tuesday that Mrs. Gruebnau is "very relieved" to have made the passage.

"I'll bet she's really happy," said Mrs. Reuter. "I know I'm so very, very happy. The children are just as excited as I am. They've never seen my mother. I'm so happy I could cry."

Mrs. Gruebnau, wpv8lived in Michigan and Wisconsin from 1913 to 1937, "wanted to go back and see her people," her daughter explained.

"She just stayed too long."

Mrs. Gruebnau, who lived in Prussia until moving to Hartmannsdorf, near Dresden, after World War II.

Mother and daughter lost all contact during the war and, until Mrs. Gruebnau reached her daughter from the Soviet sector after the war, Mrs. Reuter thought her to be dead.

It is estimated that about 90 per cent of the heat striking the outside of a house is concentrated on the roof.

Bus Driver Knows How To Handle Teen-Agers

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP)—City bus driver Harry Darling knows how to handle rowdy teen-agers.

After a teen-age dance recently, 30 kids clambered aboard Darling's bus and started yelling and slapping each other. Straight to the Police Station went Darling. The kids calmed down quickly.

Educator Says Schools Need Shock Treatment

NEW YORK (AP) — The country's schools are in dire need of an electric shock treatment to jar them into tackling anew their educational problems.

This is the opinion of Dr. William H. Bristow, director of New York City's Bureau of Curriculum Research, who constantly devises new tactics for his own school system or stirs up educational excitement at academic meetings across the country.

Here are some of his suggestions:

1. To beat the constant teacher shortage, make teacher training a continuous part of the school's job, handled within the school day. Have experienced teachers work with student teachers to improve their skills before the first job.

2. To make full use of the gifted, try something similar to the British system of subsidizing bright youngsters and their families.

3. To counteract the stark figures of youth unemployment, use more imagination in work-experience programs in schools. If the problem is too much for the school to handle solo, why not have business and the government step in to help with expenses. It will pay both agencies in the long run.

4. To train youngsters not capable of attacking the work in a vocational or technical high school, devise school programs to prepare them for jobs they can handle well.

5. To help the emotionally disturbed, whose numbers are growing, tool up all school services, particularly guidance, to help them. ("Special classes and special schools," says the educator, "leave out more children than they catch. There are more gifted and more retarded in regular classes than in special schools. Guidance experts can work with them there.")

6. To give more importance to the teacher, let him make more decisions at the local level. Decentralize top- heavy administrative duties.

7. To free the teacher for more meaningful activities, use programmed material and TV more extensively. (Bristow says the management and scheduling of TV in classroom teaching has not yet become a major relief for the teacher.)

Blue cheese keeps for several months under refrigeration if it is wrapped in aluminum foil, transparent wrap or other air-tight material after each use.

Chipita Park News

By CAROLYN McADAMS
MU 7-9065

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Mitchell and daughters Jeannine and Jacquelyn of Wichita Falls, Texas, arrived August 10 for a three weeks vacation in the "Gormanor" cottage on Ute Trail with Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. Geneva Gorman. Jacquelyn celebrated her third birthday August 15 her guests were Eddie and Lora Phelps of Chipita Park; Cindy, Libby, Pam and Glenn, Bilderback of Houston, Texas and Chipita Park. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell with Mrs. Gorman, attended the Broadmoor Ice Revue Saturday.

Sunday afternoon callers at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McAdams were Mr. and Mrs. Moe Jones of Fort Dodge, Iowa. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Pote of Chipita Park and Colorado Springs, former neighbors of the McAdams'.

A series of bridge parties were given last week. Mrs. Olive McCune, Ute Road, had sixteen guests for a luncheon Wednesday honoring Mrs. Gertrude Gill's birthday and her own. On Thursday, Mrs. Marbelle Seymour and Mrs. Ida Isern, Fountain Road, had twelve guests for lunch followed by bridge. On Friday, Misses Anna and Edith Edwards entertained twelve at their cottage on Mountain Road as a farewell to summer vacation. They return to their home in Kansas City, Mo. on Friday.

Mrs. Carolyn McAdams, Worthy Matron of Snowflake Chapter No. 153, recently extended her appreciation to members of the Ute Pass Eastern Star Fellowship Club for its support during the year in organizing the new Eastern Star Chapter in Ute Pass. Thirteen members were present at the August meting held at the home of Mrs. Hunter Carroll in Woodland Park with Mrs. Ruth Alexander anad Mrs. Barbara Elwell co-hostesses. The current project of the club is to purchase a taffeta United States Flag for the Chapter room.

Golfer Scores Ace On Wrong Hole Shot

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Bob Marshall of Palmetto teed off on the 325-yard 10th hole on the Palmetto Pines Golf Course and scored a hole in one recently.

LUNCH BOX FILLER

Tuna-chive sandwich is a good lunch box item. Combine 1 (6½ to 7 ounce) can of tuna drained and flaked, with 1 (3 ounce) package of cream cheese, softened, 2 tablespoons of light cream and 3 tablespoons of chopped chives. Makes 4 sandwiches.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

PSORALENS FOR VITILIGO

Vitiligo is a condition in which there is a spotty loss of skin pigment. Only one or two white patches may be present or the depigmentation may be so extensive as to involve half the body surface. The disorder is more noticeable in summer because the surrounding normal skin is tanned and these white spots present a cosmetic defect in dark skinned races.

When there are only one or two, they may be stained approximately the color of the normal skin. Various cosmetics are available for this purpose. These men and women usually stay out of the sun to avoid tanning. Nothing need be done when the white patches are on areas that do not show.

A chemical remedy, psoralen, was introduced 10 years ago with variable results. It is of no value for some victims of vitiligo. Others develop new pigment but lose it after the product is stopped. A few who develop new pigment retain it through the winter so that each year more melanin can be added. In all, approximately 50 per cent obtain an appreciable amount of new pigment.

The psoralens must be used according to directions. They sensitize the skin to ultraviolet rays and usually are taken internally followed in two hours by a short period of exposure to the sun. The sensitized skin responds quickly and will burn if exposed too long. The skin darkens within a short time.

This method of getting a quick tan is utilized also by persons who burn easily and is recommended when the risk of using a chemical of this type is justified. The white patches may burn slightly during the first treatment but this is less likely to occur as the patches darken.

Beans are Safe

J. L. writes: A while ago I read that if a perosn eats beans several times a day, blood poisoning will develop in time. I love beans, especially string beans, so am worried. I asked several of my teachers and they don't know but have become troubled about the posibility also. Do you think blood poisoning could develop from eating beans?

Reply

Pinworms and Appendicitis

Mrs. D. H. writes: Is there any danger of appendicitis following pinworms? I developed appendicitis after I got pinworms and my two daughters who have had pinworms had to have the appendix removed.

Reply

Pinworms are found occasionally in an infected appendix but are not considered causative unless they obstruct the openings.

Stretching

C. D. writes: Can a person overdo the morning stretch? How many stretches can be taken without harming the muscles?

Reply

Overstretching a muscle may lead to cramp or spasm. There is no harm in a good stretch; you won't snap out of place. Take as many stretches as your little heart desires.

Candy and Caries

N. B. Writes: Does too much candy cause baby teeth to rot?

Reply

Yes, in that candy and other sweets have the same effect on baby teeth as on the permanent set. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on dental caries, which discusses this and other aspects of cavities.

Common Measles

A. B. S. writes: Do all children get measles?

Reply

Today's Health Hint

Basketball Sundial Invented by Pair

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two Louisville men have come up with a novel sundial that resembles a basketball. Paul Snider and Hear Jones heve applied for a patent.

The device is an eight-inch sphere with two narrow slots exactiy opposite each other. The axis points directly north-south and the slots are vertical at that plane. When the sphere is turned so that the sun's rays shine through both osits at the same time, an indicator on the metered face points to the time of day.

July and August are the only two months named for historical figures; the former for Julius Caesar and the latter for Augustus.

Boy's Youth Camp Planned Near Denver

DENVER (AP) — A plan for establishing a permanent camp for up to 48 boys from the Lookout Mountain School, formerly the boys industrial school was endorsed today by Gov. Steve McNichols.

A tentative plan for the camp, at Lathrop State Park, two miles west of Walsenburg, was put before the Planning Advisory Board Board by Mylton Kennedy, who is in charge of youth services for the Department of Institutions.

Buffalo Steak, Longhorn Roast Orders Placed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Want to stock your freezer with a few buffalo or elk steaks? Or your ranch with a live Longhorn?

You can place your order with the Interior Department until Sept. 30.

As it does annually, the department shortly will begin removing a specified number of animals from three national wildlife refuges to keep the herds from exceeding the capacity of their ranges.

A total of 233 buffalo, 75 elk, and 137 Longhorn cattle will be sold this year. The buffalo will be from three refuges — Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge, Cache, Okla. Fort Niobrara National Wildlife Refuge, Valentine, Nebb. and the National Bison Range, Moiese, Mont.

Longhorns will be sold from Wichita Mountains and Fort Niobrara. Longhorn sales will be live animals only. Elk sales will be only from the Wichita Mountains Refuge. There will be no sales of live elk.

Buffalo will be sold at $180 each for live animals, and from $220 to $270 per carcass for butchered animals, depending on the type of processing. Quarters and halves also will be sold.

Buffalo and elk meat may be purchased packaged and ready for the freezer. Butchered elk prices will range from $110 to $145 per animal, again varying with the type of processing. A half carcass is the minimum quantity that can be purchased.

The Longhorn cattle will be sold only through local public auctions, to be held Sept. 20 at the Wichita Mountains Refuge, and Oct. 9 at Fort Niobrara.

The department said orders should be sent only to the manager of the refuge involved.

Record School Budget Approved in New Time

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A record school budget for Atlantic City was adopted in record time.

The budget, calling for school spending of $3,377,329 in 1962-63, was approved one minute and eight seconds after the Board of School Estimate opened its meeting.

In musical compositions a movement entitled scherzo is one that is humorous and capricious in character.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

(© 1962: By the Chicago Tribune)

HOLLYWOOD. —Bob Mitchum goes to London the first of September for a one - day job in John Huston's next picture "The List of Adrian Messenger," a thriller about a guy who has a list of eight people he has to murder before he can get a huge inheritance. Kirk Douglas will be Messenger, and his gruesome list includes some mighty sensational victims. Set to die, in addition to Mitchum, are Liz Taylor, Tony Curtis, and Burt Lancaster. Liz will film her bit in England, too.

Meanwhile, all is quiet on the Mitchum front on the Chesapeak. Bob's 18-year-old son, Christopher, enters Penn state as a pre - med student this fall; son Jim's off to Europe for "The Victors." The younger generation is doing great. Jody McCrea, Jim Mitchum, Alan Ladd, and Chill Wills' son Will just finished "Young Guns of Texas" in Tucson. When Carl Sandburg met Jody, he said, "You look like what ain't wrong with this country."

Shirley Booth gets second billing to J. F. K. at her summer home on Cape Cod, which is half an hour from Hyannis Port. The tourists all want to see two things — the President's house and Hazel. Don't underestimate the power of TV. Shirley's had to put up a gate at her home "to keep out the sightseers and keep dogs away from my dogs." Hazels' maid, June Smith, who looks after her New York apartment, joined her at the cape this summer, fell in love with the place, and is driving back in September with her husband.

Shirley travels light. Keeps her summer clothes on the cape, winter wardrobe in New York, and working clothes in Hollywood. All she has to do is deliver the body.

They met in the marines — Jimmy Cagney Jr. and Jill Ennis. He's a sergeant, she's a corporal. They fell in love and will be married in Portland, Me., next month when they can get leave together. He's 23 — she's 21. Naturally, his parents will leave Martha's Vineyard to attend the wedding. Incidentally, Jimmy is building his first swimming pool at his Beverly home.

Janet Leigh has canceled plans for Europe. Instead, takes her kids, age 6 and 3½, on a camping trip in the Yosemite Sequoia area when she finishes "Bye Bye Birdie," which she started in February. When I asked Janet if she had a new beau, she said, "I sure do! Stockbroker Bob Beandt." They've been going out together for three months.

New couple in town — Pat Newcomb and Pierre Salinger.

Ann David, who sells real estate, told us she came back from Europe on the Queen Liz with Roz Russell, and everybody adored the gal. Roz judged the crazy hat contest. "Sometimes Roz and her husband and I were the only ones walking the deck. To make her think I was important, too, I looked out to sea when I saw her coming and pretended I didn't know her. And all the time I was dying to talk to her," Ann said. Clifton Webb's throwing a dinner party Saturday night to welcome Roz and Freddie Brisson home.

Frank Sinatra Jr. goes around quite often to see Hayley Mills. He's popular with the whole family. Mrs. Mills says he's a very good pianist. Father John is looking for a picture to make with his daughter. Says she likes working with "her old ham father." They'd like J. Lee Thompson, who directed "Tiger Bay" to do it again. "We're terribly old fashioned," said Mills. "We like to be together." Hayley's brother, Jonathan, has been giving his dad a rough time on the golf course: "I get fairly well beaten daily," said John, "and I rather enjoy it."

talk about the shortage of good plays, Celeste Holm tells me she's read 41 since January and hasn't found one she'd like to do: "We have no playwrights sitting in garrets any more learning to write — they're all working on TV making lots of money."

Celeste returns to New York soon to emcee a fashion show on TV. Said she was very flattered when a national mag wrote about the best pictures Darryl Zanuck ever made — "All About Eve," "Gentlemen's Agreement," and "Snakepit." She was in all three — got an Oscar for "Gentlemen."

BANKS ON MUSIAL

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Casey Stengel, first base coach for the National League All-Stars, kept those on the bench in stitches during the game. But Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs left Stengel speechless when he said:

"I head the Cardinals signed Stan Musial for another 10 years after he hit four straight home runs in the Polo Grounds against your team."

18 Injured in Beer Can Melee At Red Rocks

DENVER (AP) — Police said a recheck Wednesday showed 18 persons suffered injuries in a beer can-tossing melee at a jazz conert in Red Rocks Park Tuesday night.

Musicians began playing before Charles arrived, then beer cans were hurled onto the stage and the musicians headed for the exits.

The concert was resumed when Charles appeared but after the orchestra had played for 45 minutes, the crowd was told that was it — the show was over.

Then cans, bottles and other objects rained down on the stage, and persons sitting in lower rows were struck.

Texas Brothers Win Prizes In Beef Judging at Pueblo

Grand champion Duroc boar — Delmar Hansen, Longmont, Colo.

Grand champion barrow — Gordon Hurley, Brighton.

Earlier in the day San Ysidro Jerseys of Fort Morgan won six awards in open class dairy judging. Its "Jesileus Valiant" was named senior and grand champion bull and "Madalene's Golden Star" won the junior crown and the reserve grand championship.

Clyde Fugate, manager of the fair, took issue with former Gov. Dan Thornton. Thornton had criticized the fair, saying it was headed toward mediocrity. He recommended an appropriation of $1 million a year to pep it up, and made several other suggestions.

Fugate said the former governor was misinformed in some of his statements. He said many of the proposals made by Thornton, however, are already under consideration, or being acted upon by the fair commission.

The Pike's Peak Hill Climb was established in 1916 and runs 12.42 miles in length.

State to Spend Monies On Trinidad Aged Home

DENVER (AP) — The state of Colorado soon will spend $8,122 on repairs and maintenance at the State Home for the Aged in Trinidad.

The expenditure was approved by Gov. Steve McNichols' Contracts Committee Wednesday. The money will come from a special fund voted by the legislature last winter for all state institutions.

So far no contract for the work at Trinidad has been let, but the committee action permits contract negotiations to begin.

Of the money, $3,255 will be spent for exterior painting of the main building, $1,422 will be used for cement footings and brick pilasters to prevent further settlement damage to the foundation and $3,445 will be spent for interior painting and plastering.

Venezuela plans to spend $580 million during the next two years on its highway development program.

Atomic Subs Play Hide-and-Seek In Arctic Waters

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hide-and-seek maneuver by two U.S. Navy atomic submarines under polar ice points to the way a deep and deadly war could be fought in the Arctic.

President Kennedy announced the hitherto secret operation to a news conference Wednesday, saying that the submarines Skate and Seadragon had made "historic rendezvous" under the ice, then surfaced through an opening at the North Pole.

"This," said Kennedy, "is the first time that two of our submarines have worked together in this manner under the arctic ice pack and I want to congratulate all of those involved in this exceptional technical feat."

The submarine versus submarine operation started July 31 and concluded when the two ships surfaced Aug. 2. Navy experts consider it a major tactical demonstration that antisubmarine warfare in the hostile and weird environment of the ice-capped Arctic Ocean seems feasible in the event of hostilities.

Another phase of submarine warfare, rocket-firing by submersibles, creates urgent requirement for counter-measures. Russia is beginning to build and send to sea atomic submarines. One of the logical launching points for any Soviet submarine rocket attack on the United States and Canada would be the Arctic Ocean.

The U.S. Navy maintains a barrier patrol across one route for Russian submarines into the Atlantic. That barrier extends eastward from Greenland to Iceland and the Faroe Islands. But the Artic Ocean, on which Russia borders, is wide open.

If Russia should begin deploying rocket submarines under the ice, the United States must create a defensive system. The only apparent means are attack submarines, perhaps sent out on weeks-long patrols to listen electronically under the ice—a new barrier line.

Until now, the United States had no actual experience in submarine hunting in polar areas. Although atomic subs have been exploring and mapping the ocean floor of the area since 1958, they have worked singly and purely on exploration and crew training missions.

Navy sources said this was a realistic operation, with each submarine using all its equipment and technique for evasion and search—a duel between submarines such as would occur in actual arctic engagement.

In the Arctic, pressure ridges of ice, extending downward as well as above the surface, create inverted "mountains" behind which a submarine can hide. The normal problem of penetrating thermal layers of water in vertical probes by sonar is complicated with the horizontal blocks imposed by pressure ridges and occasional bergs.

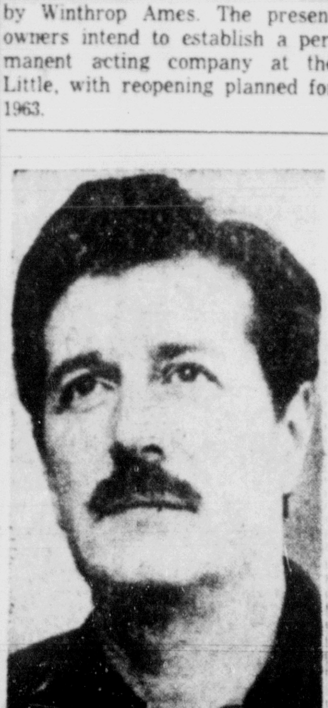
Water temperatures, which affect the performance of both active and passive sonar, are far different from even the cold waters of the North Atlantic.

Here, in the naturally hostile environment, with the surface sealed off by ice, there would be little chance for escape by a wounded submarine. The contest would mean kill or be killed.

THEATER RESTORATION

NEW YORK (AP)—The Little Theater, a 550-seat house on 44th Street near Broadway, is being restored for stage productions after 11 years of use as a television studio.

The theater was built in 1912 by Winthrop Ames. The present owners intend to establish a permanent acting company at the Little, with reopening planned for 1963.



COMEBACK — After a long layoff, actor Jerome Thor is back in films with the powerful role of a Marine Corps captain in "55 Days at Peking." He blends his talents with those of Charlton Heston and Ava Gardner in the tale of the Boxer Uprising of 1900 in China.

SUGGESTION AWARD—S. Sgt. Raymond A. Huggins, a programmer assigned to the office of the deputy chief of staff, comptroller, Hq. Air Defense Command at Ent AFB, receives an engraved money clip and a check for $25 from Col. W. A. Sundll, DCS comptroller, Hq. ADC. Sergeant Huggins won the awards for suggesting a revision of ADC (Compt.) Form 9. He earned $75 previocsly from ADC for the same suggestion which will now to be used at Ent AFB as well as throughout ADC.

After establishing a world speed record of 47.6 miles an hour at the first International Air Meet at Rheims, France, in August 1909, Glenn H. Curtiss made the statement that with improvements on the motor he felt he could safely predict that the "aeroplane would some day make 100 miles per hour."

If the Indians of Manhattan Island had taken the $24 in cash instead of trinkets and invested it at 6 per cent, compounded quarterly, theoretically their descendants today would be worth more than the $16 billion assessed value of Manhattan's land and buildings.
